

Wind Hurts Nine, Cuts Destructive Path Across Area

Nine persons were reported injured and some 15 homes — most of them mobile homes — were damaged Thursday night by a narrow windstorm that cut a path of damage from the Stevensville area in Berrien County to the Lawrence area in Van Buren.

Seven persons were injured — six of them seriously enough to be hospitalized — and 13 mobile homes damaged at Lincolnwood Estates Mobile Home park on John Beers road in Lincoln township when the storm ripped through the park about 10 p.m.

The violent wind struck after a sharp break occurred in the temperature. The mercury had risen to about 65 degrees around 9 o'clock last night, and then plummeted to about 38 degrees in 1½ hours.

Lloyd Both, Tri-Unit fire chief, said he measured wind speeds of 90 miles an hour at his home, near the mobile home park.

A trail of damage stretched along a narrow corridor through Royalton, Sodus and Bainbridge townships in Berrien County, and through the Keeler and Lawrence areas in Van Buren County.

Near Lawrence, the wind tore a 30 foot square section of the roof off the brand new Van Buren County Skills Center, along with sections of sheet metal siding. Some light fixtures and furnishings were reported damaged inside the center.

A man had to be freed from a damaged house trailer near Keeler, and minor damage was reported to some trailers in a Sodus township mobile homes park.

Roofs were reported damaged on three homes south of Stevensville.

Four persons were inside when it blew over against a tree. Miss Moler was trapped inside for nearly an hour. Others Sight Funnel Clouds!

Two funnel clouds were spotted over Lake Michigan this morning but dissipated before reaching shore. Ken Kralger, Benton township fire chief, said the clouds were observed by the Coast Guard. All three Benton township fire stations activated their sirens at 10:54 a.m. as warning. They sounded for one minute.

AWAITING MEDICAL AID: Mrs. Margaret Stohrer, 36, whose trailer was toppled in heavy windstorm near Stevensville Thursday, is comforted by woman while awaiting medical aid. She and three other women were inside trailer at Lincolnwood Estates Mobile Home park, John Beers road, when wind knocked trailer over and up against tree. She was hospitalized. McCall said the worst of the storm's fury hit Lincolnwood Estates Mobile Home park, 904 West John Beers road, Lincoln township. All but one of the eight reported injuries in Berrien County occurred at the trailer park.

The storm appeared to move along a line in a northwesterly direction, McCall noted, from Stevensville to Bainbridge township then into Van Buren County.

Six of the eight reported hurt in Berrien were hospitalized, five at Memorial hospital, St. Joseph, and one at Benton Harbor's Mercy hospital.

All those admitted to Memorial were reported in "good" condition today and were identified as: Margaret Stohrer, 36, Elizabeth Turner, 29, Imogene Lindley, 22, Sean Sliwinski, 19 months, all of the Lincolnwood park; and Dan Lockwitz, 24, of 6379 Jericho road, Lincoln township.

In "fair" condition today at Mercy hospital was Mrs. Neva Versaw, 83, of 1115 Circle drive, Benton township, injured inside one of the trailers at Lincolnwood, sheriff's deputies said.

According to hospital officials most of the injuries were cuts and bruises. Two released after treatment at Memorial were Christine A. Moler, 23, and Rebecca Stohrer, 19, both of Lincolnwood Estates.

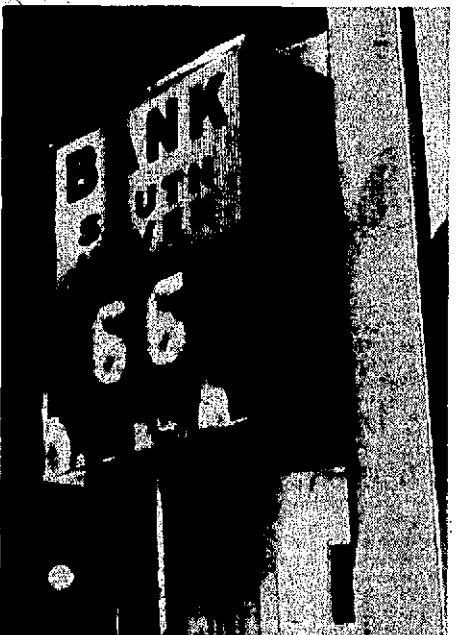

About 13 mobile homes at Lincolnwood suffered at least some damage from the wind, deputies said, and six or seven sustained what was described by deputies as "heavy or total damage."

Hardest hit of the homes was that of Margaret Stohrer in the southeast section of the park, where most of the damage oc-

Were it left to me to decide whether we should have government without newspapers or newspapers without government, I should not hesitate to prefer the latter. — Thomas Jefferson.

Transportation's Soggy Roadbed Must Be Firmed

Late in February the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad created quite a hubbub at Washington and in the major financial circles by breaking off negotiations to buy 2,200 miles of track and auxiliary facilities from the bankrupt Erie, Lackawanna and Reading companies.

The United States Railway Association, more familiarly known as ConRail, was the government created spokesman for the ailing private lines.

The deal collapsed because the unions at Erie, Lackawanna and Reading refused to accept Chessie's proposal to bring them under the labor arrangements governing Chessie employees. Legally the reticent unions were exercising a privilege conferred by the Regional Rail Reorganization Act of 1973 creating ConRail for the immediate purpose of pulling seven northeastern lines, Penn Central in particular, out of bankruptcy. The Act requires a buyer of the bankrupt or any part of its facilities to reach an accord with the latter's labor force before the sale can be completed.

Although this desirable transfer fell down on the narrow issue of union privilege, it fits into a broader crazy quilt characterizing all American transportation.

By law and its own regulations the Interstate Commerce Commission which regulates railroads, trucks, barge lines and pipelines is dedicated to the principle of cross subsidization. Under this rule a carrier must provide service from Podunk to Tank Town even if it is a losing proposition where the carrier's total operation is profitable.

Foggy Bottom Tinkering With The Time Again

Something about the first hints of spring seem to turn legislators' thoughts to the calendar. In Washington, Congress is tinkering with Daylight Saving Time again.

The Senate has passed a bill which would extend DST from the currently proscribed six months to seven, beginning in mid-March and ending in mid-October. The protracted DST term would apply to this year and next, but only if the House and President concur. Little time remains before it would go into effect this year.

If there is no change, the six months of DST set by the Uniform Time Act of 1966 will run from April 25 to Oct. 31. Two years ago Congress reacted to the Arab oil embargo of 1973 by putting the nation on a year-round DST plan, but in October, 1974 — reacting to complaints from parents and farmers — reverted to standard time for the four winter months.

By changing its mind once again, the Senate has decided that one thing the Uniform Time Act is not is uniform.

generally the same theory for airborne traffic.

The Department of Transportation, the most recent addition to the Presidential cabinet, by law is charged with bringing about a coordinated, financially viable, national transportation system among all methods of carrying people and goods from one place to another.

The mandate given to and exercised with extreme vigor by the ICC in large measure is what plunged the seven northeastern lines into their financial limbo.

The ConRail Act of four years ago for the most part perpetuates the ICC philosophy.

If DOT is to carry out its mission, necessarily it must lock horns with the ICC because financial viability and unprofitable cross subsidization are incompatible.

Short of Uncle Sam running transportation with the predictable lack of success it has enjoyed on the Postal Service, is there any escape from the stalemate between the ICC and ConRail on one side and DOT on the other?

Writing in the MSU Business Administration School's February magazine, two faculty members, Frank W. Davis, Jr., and Edwin P. Patton, assisted by a University of Tennessee graduate researcher, Robert E. Tuttle, Jr., offer one solution for the Podunk to Tank Town dilemma seemingly overlooked by the government and private transportation experts.

This is the ownership and operation of spur lines by the shippers and local governments along those routes.

The authors cite a number of successful experiments in that direction and also some failures. This self-help remedy can only function in areas where the traffic demand is at least halfway visible as opposed to the fictional situation of one small train a week riding the spur.

Thus far, Governor Milliken has been frustrated in trying to apply the Davis-Patton-Tuttle formula to that section of the Ann Arbor Railroad, one of the seven bankrupts, angling from Detroit to Traverse City. Making allowance for the Governor's allegiance to his home town, reviving the Ann Arbor on that stretch would help Michigan's sluggish economy. Letting the railroad wither will continue the sedation. Milliken's effort remains stalled by the highway syndrome which has dominated Michigan's transportation thinking for decades.

The professor also emphasize the failure to date to meet the large scale difficulty of multiple branch lapses in the seven bankrupt northeastern lines and the thorny issue upon which the Chessie acquisition foundered.

Bill languish in Congress to relieve the ICC-DOT impasse on the seven bankrupt majors by curtailing the cross subsidization principle.

Stopping the money drain by unprofitable branches is only one step needed in the total surgery, but it is a step in the direction of correcting what Hays Watkins, Chessie's board chairman, calls the Congressional penchant for providing solution before learning what the problems are.

Your Money But Not His Labor

It is a bit early for planting backyard gardens, although thoughts about what to do this year no doubt are shaping up in many minds. But it is not too early for some members of Congress to get in on the garden act, without turning a spadeful of dirt.

One congressman has introduced a bill which would provide free seeds for anyone planning a garden. He calls it the "Bicentennial seed bill," adding a patriotic touch.

Considering how easy it is for Congress to spend the public's money, perhaps this idea isn't as bad as some. But it isn't the cost of seeds which deters people from hoeing, cultivating and weeding.

It is the sheer labor of the enterprise, which many a novice underestimates. The congressman does not offer to help with that.

South Haven Reader Supports Move To Put Lid On State Taxes

Editor

Ed Fredricks, state representative for the 54th district, has joined with Taxpayers United in Michigan's first legal tax revolt.

They are leading a petition drive to place on the next statewide ballot a constitutional amendment to limit state taxing and spending to 3.3 percent of state personal income.

The total budget for the State of Michigan has doubled more than twice in the last ten years. Currently the actual budget for the State is close to $6 billion.

New programs and increased spending are forced through the legislature by powerful special interest groups while many out-of-date and wasteful programs are continued. The Michigan between the rising cost of living and rising taxes with the result that he or she has less and less to spend in their paycheck.

Unless the governor and the legislature are forced by the voters to limit state spending, Michigan could end as bad financially as New York City or the federal government.

Petitions are available for you to circulate for signatures to put this constitutional amendment on the ballot next November. For everyone who has complained about rising taxes and who has asked what they can do to stop over-increasing taxes, more than 285,000 signatures are needed to put this question on the ballot.

This is your chance to make your voice heard. Write Ed Fredricks, State Capitol, Lansing, Michigan 48901 and tell him how many petitions you want sent you.

Now, at last, "the frustrated taxpayer" has the chance to do something concrete to limit rising taxes — join the 1976 Taxpayers Revolt!

Being a leader is a very rewarding occupation. It does involve training and follow-through. Nixon Trip A Molehill

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — In their effort to put the best face to Gerald Ford's less than smashing impact on the early primary campaigning, the President's people are blaming that convenient villain, Richard M. Nixon. In this case the M stands for meddler.

Generously indulgent, White House employees suggest that Nixon's trip to China has reminded voters of the recent Republican past and thereby interrupted Ford's attempt to convince the populace that he is brave, loyal, trustworthy, obedient and, don't forget, reverent.

It isn't the first time the Nixon name has been used to explain away the negatives of Jerry Ford's crusade for sainthood. From the beginning of his unselected administration, the President, through his apologists has whispered that the Nixon legacy and the Nixon apparition are at the bottom of the Decent One's most vexing troubles.

First there was the Nixon fallout to endure, then there were the Nixon holdovers, and through it all the Ford forces say there has been the Nixon-poisoned atmosphere in which the nurturing of effective leadership is all but impossible.

The White House says Ford was blackened by Nixon in pardoning him and from then on the benefactor's ghost has been everywhere detrimental. "The greatest problem we have," said a Ford ally recently, "is trying to get rid of the totally false notion that this is a Ford-Nixon executive branch."

Forgetting for the moment that President Ford would still be Congressman Ford were it not for Dick Nixon, there is some truth in the Administration's insistence that the latter is the former's everlasting low blow. To the extent Ford is the chosen successor of and by the most disgraced President in American history, he suffers wrongly from associated guilt.

Nonetheless, there are limits to this kind of cause and effect. Clearly, Ford's belief that a globetrotting Nixon is costing him votes is absurd, it is in fact an unworthy excuse.

For weeks, Washington observers have been seeing only mischief in the event, drawing preposterously ominous inferences from it, i.e. Nixon would not only hurt Ford in Peking, but U.S. foreign policy as well. In being the risks of Nixon's visit, pundits have suggested every evil save the possibility he would bring home some new form of Asian flu.

Well, humbug. Nixon's journey was little more than an attempt by a defeated man to prove to the world he still has friends. Surely even his bitterest enemies can understand the pathos involved. Dishonor aside, he's only been discredited, not convicted; and he can't be fairly condemned for musing his spirits. By the way, the alternative to his re-emergence into the daylight of reality is his continued isolation in San Clemente, which the pundits also condemn.

It is evident now that Richard Nixon is neither going to go away forever nor live among us as a properly confessed and remorseful sinner. He is going to march to his own drum, wherever it leads, hence the nation is going to have to come to terms with this inevitability. He is going to travel, and has a right to it. He is going to make money with his memoirs, for that is the capitalist way. One day, like Herbert Hoover, he may even become a curiosity that transcends public bitterness, and we will have to accept him as sentimental Sunday supplement fare. To simply continue to hate him because God doesn't strike him down, or to go on reacting in heat whenever he displays his arrogant jowls would hurt him less than us. He did wrong, but he was brought down for it and then banished. Let him go.

Ford At Home In Oval Office

WASHINGTON — Gerald Ford might have been any of his modern predecessors in the Oval Office last week, as he awaited the outcome of his first venture before the electorate.

For the more things change, the more they remain the same. Ford is vastly different from other recent presidents in style, substantive philosophy and the way he came to the job. Yet the presidential manner seemed terribly familiar last week when the editors and publishers of the Hearst newspapers quizzed Ford for a relaxed, amiable hour on the day of the New Hampshire primary, which he barely won.

He attacked Congress several times; mostly for meddling in foreign policy against his wishes and for failing to keep immediately to approve his request for an extension of revenue-sharing. Shades of Richard Nixon's running war with Congress.

He was bullish about his own election prospects and pretended to be preoccupied with other things. Ditto all the others during campaign seasons.

He was optimistic about his most sensitive political problem, the economy. He didn't actually say he saw a light at the end of the tunnel, but his unqualified cheerful outlook was reminiscent of Johnson on Vietnam.

He pleaded for support of his revenue-sharing extension, noting frankly he was "doing a little propagandizing here." Ditto all other presidents given a program in trouble before Congress and an opportunity to rally some opposition.

He revealed a weakness for puns, citing one that was only mildly favorable to him. (It was a Gallup poll in which 66 percent of those surveyed felt "things are going to get better" in the economy, an improvement over a similar poll in September in which only 17 percent felt that way.) Memories of Johnson, and all those polls he just happened to have in his pocket when the press was around.

Ford also displayed an interest in power-gadgets. He couldn't resist a peek at his digital watch, which can't be done merely with a covert glance but requires the conspicuous pressing of a button. Johnson had his electric paper mill; Kennedy had his special hairbrushes.

He was diplomatically vague, where necessary. He refused to say, for instance, whether he would veto the bill reviving the Federal Election Commission if it contains a provision for public financing of congressional campaigns, which he opposes.

He was flattering, where necessary. He told the Texas editor that John Connally was "an extremely able and very effective public servant."

He was tactful, where necessary. He told the Boston editor that it would be many months before a decision would be made as to whether a new solar energy research institute would be located in New England or elsewhere.

He was tough, where necessary. He told the San Francisco editor that his attorney general was working on the problem of harsh treatment of Americans in Mexican jails and would be giving a report on it.

In short, he sounded like a President who knew what he was doing and who had adjusted to the office. But not many Americans have an opportunity to talk to him privately for an hour. And perhaps that helps to explain why large numbers of them don't yet see him as fitting the job.

Milliken's effort remains stalled by the highway syndrome which has dominated Michigan's transportation thinking for decades.

The professor also emphasize the failure to date to meet the large scale difficulty of multiple branch lapses in the seven bankrupt northeastern lines and the thorny issue upon which the Chessie acquisition foundered.

Bill languish in Congress to relieve the ICC-DOT impasse on the seven bankrupt majors by curtailing the cross subsidization principle.

Stopping the money drain by unprofitable branches is only one step needed in the total surgery, but it is a step in the direction of correcting what Hays Watkins, Chessie's board chairman, calls the Congressional penchant for providing solution before learning what the problems are.

Your Money But Not His Labor

It is a bit early for planting backyard gardens, although thoughts about what to do this year no doubt are shaping up in many minds. But it is not too early for some members of Congress to get in on the garden act, without turning a spadeful of dirt.

One congressman has introduced a bill which would provide free seeds for anyone planning a garden. He calls it the "Bicentennial seed bill," adding a patriotic touch.

Considering how easy it is for Congress to spend the public's money, perhaps this idea isn't as bad as some. But it isn't the cost of seeds which deters people from hoeing, cultivating and weeding.

It is the sheer labor of the enterprise, which many a novice underestimates. The congressman does not offer to help with that.

South Haven Reader Supports Move To Put Lid On State Taxes

Editor.

Ed Fredricks, state representative for the 54th district, has joined with Taxpayers United in Michigan's first legal tax revolt.

They are leading a petition drive to place on the next statewide ballot a constitutional amendment to limit state taxing and spending to 8.3 percent of state personal income.

The total budget for the State of Michigan has doubled more than twice in the last ten years. Currently the actual budget for the State is close to $6 billion.

New programs and increased spending are forced through the legislature by powerful special interest groups while many out-of-date and wasteful programs are continued. The Michigan legislature will spend every dollar it can get during the good economic years and then raise additional taxes to go with lower revenues in the bad years.

The average citizen is caught between the rising cost of living and rising taxes with the result that he or she has less and less to spend in their paycheck.

Unless the governor and the legislature are forced by the voters to limit state spending, Michigan could end as bad financially as New York City or the federal government.

Petitions are available for you to circulate for signatures to put this constitutional amendment on the ballot next November. For everyone who has complained about rising taxes and who has asked what they can do to stop ever-increasing taxes, more than 265,000 signatures are needed to put this question on the ballot.

This is your chance to make your voice heard. Write Ed Fredricks, State Capitol, Lansing, Michigan 48901 and tell him how many petitions you want sent you.

Now, at last, "the frustrated taxpayer" has the chance to do something concrete to limit rising taxes — join the 1976 Taxpayers Revolt!

GIRL SCOUT WEEK IS COMING UP

Editor,
During Girl Scout Week (March 7-13) many thanks to everyone who has helped Girl Scouting — especially the leaders for their interest and dedication.

Being a leader is a very rewarding occupation. It does involve training and follow through. Seeing the enjoyment and growth of the girls at home, out-of-doors and in society is certainly worth the effort. Knowing we have helped even one girl to gain confidence and enjoy responsibilities is fulfilling.

Nixon Trip A Molehill

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — In their effort to put the best face to Gerald Ford's less than smashing impact on the early primary campaigning, the President's people are blaming that convenient villain, Richard M. Nixon. In this case the M stands for meddler.

Generously indignant, White House employees suggest that Nixon's trip to China has reminded voters of the recent Republican past and thereby interrupted Ford's attempt to convince the populace that he is brave, loyal, trustworthy, obedient and, don't forget, reverent.

It isn't the first time the Nixon name has been used to explain away the negatives of Jerry Ford's crusade for sainthood. From the beginning of his unelected administration, the President through his apologists has whispered that the Nixon legacy and the Nixon apparition are at the bottom of the Decent One's most vexing troubles.

First there was the Nixon fallout to endure, then there were the Nixon holdovers, and through it all the Ford forces say there has been the Nixon-poisoned atmosphere in which the nurturing of effective leadership is all but impossible.

The White House says Ford was blackened by Nixon in pardoning him and from then on the benefactor's ghost has been everywhere detrimental. "The greatest problem we have," said a Ford ally recently, "is trying to get rid of the totally false notion that this is a Ford-Nixon executive branch."

Forgetting for the moment that President Ford would still be Congressman Ford were it not for Dick Nixon, there is some truth in the Administration's insistence that the latter is the former's everlasting low blow. To the extent Ford is the chosen successor of and by the most denigrated President in American history, he suffers wrongly from associated guilt.

Ford At Home In Oval Office

WASHINGTON — Gerald Ford might have been any of his modern predecessors in the Oval Office last week, as he awaited the outcome of his first venture before the electorate.

For the more things change, the more they remain the same. Ford is vastly different from other recent presidents in style, substantive philosophy and the way he came to the job. Yet the presidential manner seemed terribly familiar last week when the editors and publishers of the Hearst newspapers quizzed Ford for a relaxed, amiable hour on the day of the New Hampshire primary, which he barely won.

He attacked Congress several times, mostly for meddling in foreign policy against his wishes and for failing to leap immediately to approve his request for an extension of revenue-sharing. Shades of Richard Nixon's running war with Congress.

He was bullish about his own election prospects and pretended to be preoccupied with other things. Ditto all the others during campaign seasons.

He was optimistic about his most sensitive political problem, the economy. He didn't actually say he saw a light at the end of the tunnel, but his unqualified cheerful outlook was reminiscent of Johnson on Vietnam.

He pleaded for support of his revenue-sharing extension, noting frankly he was "doing a little propagandizing here." Ditto all other presidents given a program in trouble before Congress and an opportunity to rally some opposition.

He revealed a weakness for polls, citing one that was only mildly favorable to him. (It was a Gallup poll in which 40 percent of those surveyed felt "things are going to get better" in the economy, an improvement over a similar poll in September in which only

Nonetheless, there are limits to this kind of cause and effect. Clearly, Ford's belief that a globetrotting Nixon is costing him votes is absurd, it is in fact an unworthy excuse.

For weeks Washington observers have been seeing only mischief in the event, drawing preposterously ominous innuendos from it, i.e. Nixon would not only hurt Ford in Peking, but U.S. foreign policy as well. In listing the risks of Nixon's visit, pundits have suggested every evil save the possibility he would bring home some new form of Asian flu.

Well, humbug. Nixon's journey was little more than an attempt by a defeated man to prove to the world he still has friends. Surely even his bitterest enemies can understand the pathos involved. Dishonor aside, he's only been discredited, not convicted, and he can't be fairly condemned for massaging his spirits. By the way, the alternative to his re-emergence into the daylight of reality is his continued isolation in San Clemente, which the pundits also condemn.

It is evident now that Richard Nixon is neither going to go away forever nor live among us as a properly confessed and remorseful sinner. He is going to march to his own drum, wherever it leads, hence the nation is going to have to come to terms with this inevitability.

He is going to travel, and has a right to it. He is going to make money with his memoirs, for that is the capitalist way. One day, like Herbert Hoover, he may even become a curiosity that transcends public bitterness, and we will have to accept him as sentimental Sunday supplement fare. To simply continue to hate him because God doesn't strike him down, or to goon reacting in heat whenever he displays his arrogant jowls would hurt him less than us. He did wrong, but he was brought down for it and then banished. Let him go.

17 percent felt that way.) Memories of Johnson, and all those polls he just happened to have in his pocket when the press was around.

Ford also displayed an interest in power-gadgets. He couldn't resist a peek at his digital watch, which can't be done merely with a covert glance but requires the conspicuous pressing of a button. Johnson had his electric pepper mill; Kennedy had his special hairbrushes.

He was diplomatically vague, where necessary. He refused to say, for instance, whether he would veto the bill reviving the Federal Election Commission if it contains a provision for public financing of congressional campaigns, which he opposes.

He was flattering, where necessary. He told the Texas editor that John Connally was "an extremely able and very effective public servant."

He was tactful, where necessary. He told the Boston editor that it would be many months before a decision would be made as to whether a new solar energy research institute would be located in New England or elsewhere.

He was tough, where necessary. His voice took on a sharp edge as he flatly denied that his administration had urged Nixon to go to China.

He passed the buck, where necessary. He told the San Francisco editor that his attorney general was working on the problem of harsh treatment of Americans in Mexican jails and would be giving a report on it.

In short, he sounded like a President who knew what he was doing and who had adjusted to the office. But not many Americans have an opportunity to talk to him privately for an hour. And perhaps that helps to explain why large numbers of them don't yet see him as fitting the job.

$500,000 Restaurant Ruling Delayed In SJ

St. Joseph city planning commission Thursday postponed action for a month on a rezoning request for a $500,000 restaurant. Chairman James Heathcote asked the promoter to consider planned development instead.

Planned development would give the city more control than rezoning.

James B. Wedell of 1820 Lake Shore drive asked the St. Joseph city commission Feb. 23 to rezone the site of his Lake lodge from A-3 single family residence to C-2 restricted office-residential.

Lake lodge is presently in non-conforming use with the zoning code and any new construction requires a change in zoning.

The city commission sent the request to the planning commission for a hearing and a recommendation.

Wedell yesterday displayed a sketch of the proposed structure to be placed on the northwest corner of his lot. He also displayed a plot plan showing how parking would be handled. He filed a petition with 33 signatures and a letter saying he had not received a single objection.

The planning commission declined to act because of two points. The request from Wedell, dated March 4, arrived too late to be placed on the agenda mailed to members. Then Heathcote said he would like to see more complete building plans and site development plans.

Wedell earlier had said trailers no longer will be permitted and the present bar holding 80 persons will be razed for a 60 by 80-foot building that will accommodate 200 patrons.

It was Heathcote who suggested the developers pursue the planned development rather than rezoning.

Heathcote said when a given piece of property is rezoned it can immediately be used for anything permitted in that classification. Under planned development, the planning commission would control all aspects of development from parking to lighting and including landscaping, density and most other factors. He cited as an example of planned development the Southtown area. Each individual building development must be approved by the planning commission.

Wedell wrote the planning commission the property has been in his family for 30 years and it has been used commercially for 80 years. It overlooks Lake Michigan. Wedell is co-owner with his mother, Mrs. Opal Wedell. The property has been used as a travel trailer court in addition to being the site of Lake lodge bar-restaurant.

In other matters, the planning commission recommended a lot at the corner of Piskey and Myrtle avenues be converted into a parking lot for Schoeck's supermarket across the street. The recommendation will go to the city commission.

The planners registered their opposition to a tax bill in the state legislature which would permit foster care homes in single family zones without regard to local zoning ordinances. The planners said it's an infringement on local power.

Commissioner Bolin Vows To Refuse BH Pay Boost

Benton Harbor City Commissioner Arnold Bolin filed a statement Thursday saying that he will refuse any pay increase granted city commissioners during his term.

The notarized statement filed with the city clerk says Bolin will return to the general fund of the city "any amount in excess of $5 per regular meeting as currently provided in the city charter."

The city compensation commission on Dec. 29 determined that Mayor Charles F. Joseph should receive a $25,000 salary, the mayor pro tem $40 a meeting, and other commissioners $30 a meeting. The charter currently limits the mayor and commissioners to $5 a meeting.

The mayor and commissioners are not receiving the raises which have been held in abeyance pending an attorney general's opinion on the legality.

Bolin said: "I am quite certain that everyone knows my stand regarding the proposed increase in stipends for members of the Benton Harbor city commission, as set forth by the compensation commission."

"To back up any verbal concerns I have expressed, I have today (Thursday) filed with the city clerk of the City of Benton Harbor, a statement of 'pledge and promise' that if any change is made in compensation stipulations for commissioners during the entire term of office to which I have been elected (two years), I shall return to the general fund of the city any amount in excess of $5 per regular meeting as currently provided by the city charter."

City commission terms are normally four years, but Bolin was elected to a two-year term to fill a vacancy.

$1,335.29 Cash Lost Or Stolen As Woman Pays Bills

A Fairplain woman told Benton township police $1,335.29 in cash was either lost or stolen Thursday afternoon.

BH Recall Leaders Call For Lie Tests

Former Benton Harbor City Commissioner Carl Brown said yesterday and he two other members of the recall drive are willing to take lie detector tests to refute charges they participated in a "conspiracy to carry out the assassination of the mayor."

Brown said he, Maurice Bishop and Morgan Hager are willing to take polygraph tests to prove their innocence. The recall leaders also challenged "Clean Slate" members of the city commission to do likewise. Brown said the recall group would pay for the tests.

Clean Slate Commissioner Helen Ford, who made the charges of conspiracy Tuesday in an interview on WJLB, and Mayor Charles Joseph could not be reached for comment on whether they would accept the polygraph test challenge.

In an attempt to explain Clean Slate commissioners' absence from Monday's commission meeting, Mrs. Ford said commissioners feared for their lives because of "the fact that there were people meeting in the woods with the police chief, unsavory characters, in what appeared to be a conspiracy to carry out the assassination of the mayor."

No assassination attempt against the mayor has been reported.

Vigorously denying the charges, Police Chief Andrew Rodez said he and another officer met with Brown, Bishop and Hager after police received a telephone tip of an assassination plot against the mayor.

Rodez said he asked the recall members if they heard any rumors and said the recallers replied that "the rumor was omitted to discredit them." Rodez said he also would be willing to take a lie detector test to refute the charges.

Only one Clean Slate commissioner, Barbara Luckaby, could be contacted for comment and she said there was no reason for her to take a lie detector test because she "did not make such a statement and do not intend to."

Mrs. Luckaby said she did not attend the meeting Monday on advice of legal counsel and was not afraid of being served papers. She said she was served papers prior to the commission meeting. A process server was waiting at city hall Monday night to serve papers to the Clean Slate commissioners naming them as defendants in a suit challenging the legality of Mrs. Ford's appointment as city commissioner.

All Clean Slate members of the commission except Mrs. Ford are named defendants in the suit.

Stevensville To Pen Cable TV Ordinance

By LARRY MacINTYRE Staff Writer

The Stevensville village council last night called on its attorney to prepare a draft ordinance which, if approved, would give the village regulatory powers over cable television in the village, including the power to approve rates.

The action came after Village Atty. Thomas Adams Jr. told council members the village stands to gain more favorable concessions if cable television regulations are on the books prior to the awarding of a franchise to any cable television firm.

Adams said the ordinance may include requirements to bury the cables if feasible and to provide a local-access channel.

He said that before he presents his draft ordinance to the council for approval, he will negotiate some of its proposed requirements with attorneys representing Omega Communications Inc., the firm which the council in January invited to seek a franchise.

Adams said one concession he would seek from the firm would be to require it to pay all costs for a special franchise election rather than the village. An election is required before the village can grant a franchise to a private firm.

The firm has previously said that installation hinges on approval by Lincoln township as well as Stevensville.

Last month, the council tabled for further study a proposed regulatory ordinance recommended by the Omega firm.

In other areas, the council postponed a decision on whether to continue legal action against the owner of Lakeshore Mobile Estates Park, 3017 Johnson road, in an effort to remove three speed-control bumps which have blocked the Johnson road entrance to the park.

Last week, in the wake of two court hearings, the owner, John Sokol of Detroit, contracted to have the bumps lowered to four-inches. Kevin Green, the village's acting street superintendent, said last night the work was almost completed.

However, a man in the audience who said he lived in the park told the council one of the bumps was still at least five inches high. He said residents in the park wanted the bumps completely removed.

"I think we should take the fellow to court. He still hasn't taken them out completely," said Trustee Donald DeMorrow. Village President Arthur Kasewurm agreed. "He never got a permit to put them in and I don't see why we can't enforce the village law. If we want to enforce the law, we've got a case."

Kasewurm said the council would consult with its attorney at the next council meeting before deciding whether to proceed in court. Adams had left last night's meeting before the council began discussing the matter.

The council postponed a decision on whether to help fund the St. Joseph-Lincoln township Senior Citizen center in St. Joseph until it meets to consider the budget for the next fiscal year. The center director, Mrs. Paula French, had requested an unspecified grant to help keep the center eligible for matching federal grants.

Another request for funding, this time from Berrien Sheriff Forrest (Nick) Jewell, met the same fate. Jewell had requested a grant of up to $500 for the Metro Narcotics squad.

The council agreed to purchase not more than 30 American flags at $5 each to be displayed throughout the village during the Bicentennial celebration July 4.

Kasewurm announced that Stevensville and the village of Casnovia, 30 miles north of Grand Rapids, will exchange officials for a day during the week of May 15-22 as part of Michigan Week activities.

Area Dial-A-Ride Systems Report Ridership Gains

The Michigan Department of State Highways and Transportation has announced ridership increases in three Dial-A-Ride transportation systems in southwestern Michigan.

The highway department said ridership during the last quarter of 1975 increased 2 per cent for the Twin Cities Dial-A-Ride system, 82 per cent for the Dowagiac Dial-A-Ride system, and 24 per cent for the Niles system.

The Twin Cities Dial-A-Ride logged 137,130 miles of service during the period from October through December and carried 47,592 passengers. The system received $28,173 in state operating aid during the quarter, according to the highway department.

The Dowagiac system carried 4,228 riders during the last quarter, an increase of 82 per cent over the previous quarter. City officials there attributed the huge increase to the system getting into "full swing" and bad weather during the quarter. The Dowagiac system began operation in June.

The Niles Dial-A-Ride system logged 30,822 miles of service during the last quarter and carried 18,066 passengers, according to the highway department. The system received $8,832 in state operating aid during the quarter, the highway department said.

Michigan's 28 small-city Dial-A-Ride systems collectively carried 447,587 passengers during the quarter which is nearly double the number carried during the same period in 1974, the highway department reported. Fifteen Dial-A-Ride systems were added to the system during that time.

BH Recall Leaders Call For Lie Tests

Former Benton Harbor City Commissioner Carl Brown said yesterday and he two other members of the recall drive are willing to take lie detector tests to refute charges they participated in a "conspiracy to carry out the assassination of the mayor."

Brown said he, Maurice Bishop and Morgan Hager are willing to take polygraph tests to prove their innocence. The recall leaders also challenged "Clean Slate" members of the city commission to do likewise. Brown said the recall group would pay for the tests.

Clean Slate Commissioner Helen Ford, who made the charges of conspiracy Tuesday in an interview on WHFB, and Mayor Charles Joseph could not be reached for comment on whether they would accept the polygraph test challenge.

In an attempt to explain Clean Slate commissioners' absence from Monday's commission meeting, Mrs. Ford said commissioners feared for their lives because of "the fact that there were people meeting in the woods with the police chief, unsavory characters, in what appeared to be a conspiracy to carry out the assassination of the mayor."

No assassination attempt against the mayor has been reported.

Vigorously denying the charges, Police Chief Andrew Rodez said he and another officer met with Brown, Bishop and Hager after police received a telephone tip of an assassination plot against the mayor.

Rodez said he asked the recall members if they heard any rumors and said the recallers replied that "the rumor was an attempt to discredit them." Rodez said he also would be willing to take a lie detector test to refute the charges.

Only one Clean Slate commissioner Barbara Huckaby, could be contacted for comment and she said there was no reason for her to take a lie detector test because she "did not make such a statement and do not intend to."

Mrs. Huckaby said she did not attend the meeting Monday on advice of legal counsel and was not afraid of being served papers. She said she was served papers prior to the commission meeting. A process server was waiting at city hall Monday night to serve papers to the Clean Slate commissioners naming them as defendants in a suit challenging the legality of Mrs. Ford's appointment as city commissioner.

All Clean Slate members of the commission except Mrs. Ford are named defendants in the suit.

The recall campaign is aimed against Joseph and four commissioners who voted not renew the contract of Charles Morrison as city manager.

Area Dial-A-Ride Systems Report Ridership Gains

The Michigan Department of State Highways and Transportation has announced ridership increases in three Dial-A-Ride transportation systems in southwestern Michigan.

The highway department said ridership during the last quarter of 1975 increased 2 percent for the Twin Cities Dial-A-Ride system, 82 percent for the Dowagiac Dial-A-Ride system, and 24 percent for the Niles system.

The Twin Cities Dial-A-Ride logged 137,130 miles of service during the period from October through December and carried 47,592 passengers. The system received $28,173 in state operating aid during the quarter, according to the highway department.

The Dowagiac system carried 4,228 riders during the last quarter, an increase of 82 percent over the previous quarter. City officials there attributed the huge increase to the system getting into "full swing" and bad weather during the quarter. The Dowagiac system began operation in June.

The Niles Dial-A-Ride system logged 30,822 miles of service during the last quarter and carried 18,066 passengers, according to the highway department. The system received $8,832 in state operating aid during the quarter, the highway department said.

Michigan's 28 small-city Dial-A-Ride systems collectively carried 447,597 passengers during the quarter which is nearly double the number carried during the same period in 1974, the highway department reported. Fifteen Dial-A-Ride systems were added to the system during that time.

Civic Benefit Plans '1776'

TWO BEN FRANKLINS: On the left, Sam Kressen who plays the famous signer of the Declaration of Independence in the musical hit, "1776," views a bust of the historical figure he portrays. Kressen will be Benjamin Franklin in the production to be presented Monday, May 10, at 8 p.m. in the Lakeshore high school auditorium under auspices of Civic Benefit club.

Civic Benefit club will present a touring presentation of the musical, "1776," Monday, May 10, at 8 p.m. at the Lakeshore high school auditorium.

Proceeds will benefit Gateway, a non-profit corporation headquartered in Berrien Springs which is designed to provide vocationally related services to physically, mentally, and emotionally handicapped adults.

Also benefitting will be the St. Joseph Art center, 800 State street, St. Joseph, which is operated by the St. Joseph Art association. Funds will be used toward a ceramic studio and workshop with a kiln and potter's wheel.

Patrons are reminded that returns are asked by Monday, March 8, according to patron chairman, Mrs. Willis (Norma) Koontz, and Mrs. Jerry (Jan) Reimann.

Mrs. John (Margaret) Howard will serve as general chairman with Mrs. John (Marianne) Schram as co-chairman.

Other chairmen include Mrs. Scott (Merrill) Mahon and Mrs. Robert (Ann) McDowell, advertising; Mrs. Robert (Pat) Strouse and Mrs. John (Marilyn) Gersonde, publicity; Mrs. John (Jan) Helsley and Mrs. David (Carol) Stewart, tickets; Mrs. Rodney (Sheri) Alexander, finance, and Mrs.

Kenneth (Connie) Reimann and Mrs. Michael (Chris) McDonald, hospitality.

The touring company coming here May 10 will be recreating history in more ways than one.

During the sweltering summer of 1776, a wrangling, bickering body of men in Philadelphia forged a new nation out of 13 separate colonies.

The familiar tale of the men who made the American Revolution is joyously retold in the Broadway musical, "1776."

The play by Peter Stone, with music and lyrics by Sherman Edwards, captures the wit as well as the seriousness of the Founding Fathers as the action centers on John Adams and his efforts to persuade the congressional delegates to declare America free from British rule.

With the help of Benjamin Franklin, he gets Thomas Jefferson to write a declaration of independence, and by compromise and cajolery, the three convince the more conservative delegates to accept the ideas in the document.

Finally, on July 4, the Declaration is signed.

Starring in the touring production as John Adams, the flinty Massachusetts aristocrat, will be Don Perkins who, just like the character he portrays, comes from Boston.

And his associate from Pennsylvania, Ben Franklin, direct from Philadelphia, of course, is portrayed by Sam Kressen.

In Philadelphia where Kressen has always lived and where he got his degree at the University of Pennsylvania which Franklin founded, Kressen has been the city's official greeter, costumed and bewigged, ever since he impersonated Franklin at the latter's 250th birthday celebration in Philadelphia in 1966.

So, again, as they did 200 years ago, a man from Boston and a man from Philadelphia will meet again to declare independence.

Female Star Loves Football

NEW YORK (AP) — Linda Jefferson's name may not be a household word like O.J. Simpson's but she, too, is an outstanding ground galter in professional football.

The 21-year-old halfback with the Toledo Troopers ran for 1,387 yards this past season and scored 14 touchdowns.

However, the attractive female grid star thinks women should never compete against men in football and is content to stay in her own league, which in this case is the National Women's Football League.

"In track, basketball, tennis — okay. Those are not contact sports. As for football, no way," she declared firmly in an interview here.

Linda, in New York for television appearances she admits made her more nervous than coming up against a hefty opponent on the field, predicts increasing interest in women's football.

"We'll have our Superbowl some day, even though we may not have 80,000 to see it," says the 5 foot 4, 125-pounder who was named female athlete of 1975 by Woman Sport magazine. And she wants to see more girls compete in all kinds of sports.

She'll be doing her bit toward this end while continuing her own sports activities and pursuing a degree in environmental health at the University of Toledo, where she is a sophomore.

As a community relations representative for Owens-Corning Fiberglass Corp. she will travel throughout the country speaking at schools, sports clinics, recreation department gatherings and clubs, encouraging girls to participate in sports programs.

"It's not to show up men," she explains. "I just want to tell the kids they'll live a lot longer if they get into sports, that competition will give them self-control, respect for themselves and keep them in good condition. And I'd like to put the kids on the right spot. It was hard for me when I came up. I needed someone to teach me."

While Linda does not feel that she has been discriminated against as a black, she does believe that girls in general are discriminated against in sports, though she notes that things are getting better.

"They have better equipment now than when I was in school," she concedes, adding ruefully that she gets just $25 a game when she plays for the Troopers, working both offense and defense.

The team wears junior high school boys' uniforms and the only concessions to females in the women's league are a smaller ball, 12 minute quarters instead of 15, and kickoff from the 45-yard line instead of the 35 as in men's pro football.

Linda has had her share of injuries, including a chipped bone in her foot and a torn ligament in her ankle that put her on crutches for two weeks.

She has scored 72 touchdowns in her four seasons of play and her longest run was 93 yards, but she modestly gives the credit to her blockers.

"If it weren't for them I wouldn't be where I am. They're the ones who get beat up, not me. If they get beat up to open a hole in the line for me you can bet I'm going to get through it."

The Toledo native recalls she "always liked to get out and run and be active. I couldn't stand to sit around playing with dolls all day. I used to run home from school and one day a girl friend said why not come out for track."

That was when she was 11, and her natural athletic ability resulted in her winning the long jump gold medal in the Junior Olympics of Lucas county, getting on the Toledo All-Star basketball team and being named to a number of all-star softball teams.

"It was something different, it's an exciting game," she says of her decision to get into football. "And besides, people said, 'Don't do it. It's not ladylike to play football.'"

"I'm a football player during the football season. Once I leave the field I'm a lady," she adds, looking very much the part in a red shirt, gold hoop earrings and her hair in a neat Afro style.

As for marriage, "that should be an ultimate goal in a woman's life," declared Linda, who doesn't equate female sports competition with the women's movement. "I'd like to get married some day."

"I would prefer O.J. Simpson — but he's married."

Teen-Age Alcohol Abuse Now 'Epidemic'

Alcohol abuse is reaching epidemic proportions among teens in the United States. Experts estimate that there are 480,000 to 500,000 young people who have serious or potentially serious problems with alcohol.

Dr. Morris Chafetz, former director of the National Institute of Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism, says in the March Seventeen: "One in three teenagers drinks with some regularity, and almost nine percent of kids between the ages of 12 and 17 overdose with alcohol at least once a week."

Is it possible to know in advance who will become a problem drinker? Most experts agree that there is no such thing as an alcoholic personality. Anyone who drinks may someday have a problem. But Alan Herzlin, director of special projects at Freeport Hospital's Alcohol Treatment Center, in Long Island, says a positive response to certain questions may signal the start of an alcoholic problem.

For example: Do I drink one or more times a week? Before breakfast? Do I have problems with school because of alcohol? Do I hang around with people who think it's smart to get drunk? Must I have a drink to go on a date or to a party? Do I find that I cannot have fun without a drink? If drinking has made me sick do I do it again the next time anyway? Do I undergo a marked personality change after I've had a couple?

Has drinking become more important than eating? Am I thinking about alcohol most of the time?

Writer Simi Hurwitz sets young people straight about some common misconceptions: Alcohol is not a stimulant (it's a depressant); it does not warm the body; black coffee or a shower won't sober you up. It's also untrue that few women become alcoholics; in the fifties there were five to six alcoholic men to every alcoholic woman, but the ratio now is only three to one.

"Drinking as a teen-ager might not hurt you now," says Dr. Ross Fishman, director of education and training at the

New York City Affiliate of the National Council on Alcoholism. "But later you can develop any number of problems." He lists some of the effects of chronic alcohol abuse.

VITAMIN DEFICIENCY: Heavy drinkers don't absorb Vitamin B very well, and often have to get shots to compensate for the deficiency.

MALNUTRITION: Since alcohol is highly caloric — one ounce has 70 calories — it is easy to feel energetic after several drinks without touching food. Protein deficiency can be the serious result.

LIVER DISEASE: After heavy intake of alcohol the liver may become enlarged. It ordinarily returns to its original size within two weeks. But in a small percentage of alcohol abusers, cirrhosis, a more serious liver ailment, may develop. Some 85 to 90 percent of deaths caused by cirrhosis are alcohol-related.

GASTRITIS: Alcohol abuse may eventually result in irritation of the stomach lining. In chronic abusers, the acid produced by the alcohol may burn a hole through the lining, resulting in ulcerlike damage.

EYE AND BRAIN DAMAGE: Long-term abuse can cause damaged eye muscles, permanently alter a person's balance and affect mental capacity.

Writer Simi Horwitz sets young people straight about some common misconceptions: Alcohol is not a stimulant (it's a depressant); it does not warm the body; black coffee or a shower won't sober you up. It's also untrue that few women become alcoholics; in the fifties there were five to six alcoholic men to every alcoholic woman, but the ratio now is only three to one.

"Drinking as a teen-ager might not hurt you now," says Dr. Ross Fishman, director of education, and training at the

New York City Affiliate of the National Council on Alcoholism. "But later you can develop any number of problems." He lists some of the effects of chronic alcohol abuse.

VITAMIN DEFICIENCY: Heavy drinkers don't absorb Vitamin B very well, and often have to get shots to compensate for the deficiency.

MALNUTRITION: Since alcohol is highly caloric — one ounce has 70 calories — it is easy to feel energetic after several drinks without touching food. Protein deficiency can be the serious result.

LIVER DISEASE: After heavy intake of alcohol the liver may become enlarged. It ordinarily returns to its original size within two weeks. But in a small percentage of alcohol abusers, cirrhosis, a more serious liver ailment, may develop. Some 85 to 90 percent of deaths caused by cirrhosis are alcohol-related.

GASTRITIS: Alcohol abuse may eventually result in irritation of the stomach lining. In chronic abusers, the acid produced by the alcohol may burn a hole through the lining, resulting in ulcerlike damage.

EYE AND BRAIN DAMAGE: Long-term abuse can cause damaged eye muscles, permanently alter a person's balance and affect mental capacity.

JOYCE EFFA

Awarded Scholarship

Shoreham Garden club has awarded a full scholarship for a week at the Ralph MacMullan Conservation school at Higgins Lake to Joyce Effa.

She and her husband, Lawrence, reside at 1200 State street in St. Joseph.

Mutiny On The Bounty-- Adventure Or Famine?

The mutineers who stole HMS Bounty from Captain Bligh did us all a favor, according to Nutrition Today magazine.

The movie didn't emphasize it, but Captain Bligh's mission in HMS Bounty had little to do with high adventure. Instead, his purpose was to transplant breadfruit trees from Tahiti to the Caribbean islands, where the politics of the American Revolution had brought about the greatest famine ever known in the Western Hemisphere.

Dr. Cortez Enloe, physician, explorer and author, has uncovered the truth about this curiously secret famine, along with another cold fact previously ignored by historians.

The Bounty voyage would have been a failure even without the help of Fletcher Christian and his mutinous mates. Dr. Enloe writes in the current issue of Nutrition Today that the ship would have rounded Africa's southern tip in the dead of winter, in temperatures too low for breadfruit to survive, had the mutineers not interfered.

If the breadfruit trees had died, Dr. Enloe says, it is unlikely that the second — and brilliantly successful — breadfruit voyage ever would have been laid on. But the mutiny on the Bounty made Bligh something of a hero to his king and to his Royal Navy superiors.

Furthermore, the expedition was directed by Sir Joseph Banks, one of the brightest and most adventurous gentlemen scientists of his — or any — day. Sir Joseph persuaded King George III, a man fascinated by horticulture, to mount the second expedition which was bigger and better in every way than the Bounty voyage. Bligh again was chosen to command, and thus "the seeds of modern nutrition were sown around the world," Dr. Enloe writes.

The second voyage, in the aptly-named HMS Providence, carried food plants from England to Africa, Tasmania, Tahiti and on to the Caribbean, and transplanted other fruits, vegetables and commercially valuable trees to and from every port of call along the way.

The strawberries, apples and potatoes eaten in Australia today are direct descendants of those planted by Bligh's men in Tasmania. The cucumbers, lemons, spices, almonds, coffee and mangoes that we buy from the Caribbean are, for the most part, similarly courtesy of Captain Bligh.

In addition, hundreds of breadfruit trees were nursed through fair weather and foul, from Tahiti to Jamaica, where they have become a staple food for the Caribbean poor.

"The ship must have been quite a sight as she sailed into Kingston Harbour," Dr. Enloe writes. "The assortment of plants made a forest of her decks. One cinnamon tree had grown 11-feet tall."

The voyage of HMS Providence was the greatest nutrition expedition ever undertaken, Dr. Enloe says, yet it would have been impossible without an unlikely but fortuitous combination of people and events — Revolutionary War politics, a mutinous crew lured by the lushness of the South Seas, a brilliant but hard-nosed sea captain, an imaginative English baronet, and a garden-loving king whom we Americans have been taught to think was a tyrant.

Dr. Enloe's breadfruit story is the first of articles, all to be published in Nutrition Today, collectively entitled "Food in the Ascent of America."

This Bicentennial anthology reveals the many ways in which food actually changed the lives of people and altered the course of events during the emergence of our nation.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

'Goof-Offs' Cause Inflation

Dear Ann Landers: We hear a lot about the kaffeeklatchers these days. Everyone thinks she's lazing at home, indulging herself after the kids are off to school and hubby goes to work. Maybe she is, but she has thousands of kindred souls who work in offices.

I see them from 9 to 5 — drinking coffee three or four times a day, leaning on desks, gossiping at the water cooler, spending hours on the phone with friends and relatives. The morning is shot and then they go to lunch.

When they return, they start goofing off again, killing time. The sad part is they draw good salaries. Three or four people have to be employed to do the job one person could do, if she worked. The cost is passed on to the consumer. That's you and me, sucker.

Until the public registers a serious complaint against the goof-offs, we're going to continue to pay inflated prices. — Sick of 'Em reply was, "Stay together for the sake of the children." So my kids grew up with a mother who weighed well over 200 pounds and chewed her fingernails to the elbow, and a father who drank like a fish and chased every chick in sight.

Dear Friend: The public doesn't see these chiselers — but you do. Are you sick enough to complain to the proper authorities? If enough people become outraged at the rip-off, things could be changed.

Finally I realized what that promise to God really meant. It meant, "Stay together until dignity, respect and love dies — not the body."

Today I wear a size 10 dress and my ex-husband has stopped drinking. He is going with a wonderful woman and we both have something very important that we didn't have before — the respect of our children. You can't hide a living hell from kids. They are right in the middle of it. I say it's better to be FROM a broken home than to live in one. — Our Divorce Made Six People Happy

Dear Happy: Thanks for the testimonial. Not a day goes by that I don't get at least a dozen.

Can Help

Dear Ann Landers: Thank you for referring your young readers to school counselors. I'm a counselor in a high school and while it's true, as you said, that some counselors are more hip than others, a kid in trouble can often get more help from one of us than he might think.

I was hooked on booze and pills so I know the scene inside and out. I joined A.A. and have been off the sauce and pills for seven years. Having been there myself I'm able to sympathize with kids who fall into these traps. I've been able to help several go straight, which has given me a lot of satisfaction.

Please, Ann, keep encourag-

Gutsy Lady

Dear Ann Landers: Congratulations on being a gutsy lady. I was very pleased with your reply to "In A Rage." She wrote, "When a man and a woman make a promise before God and man to stay together till death separates them, they should keep their vows regardless of what went wrong — especially if they bring children into the world."

I lived in one of those hellish situations for 16 years. Three times I went to an attorney. His South's four-spade call was strictly a match-point bid. He wanted to play in a major suit and saw no reason to tell his opponents about the support or diamonds.

At rubber bridge South would jump to four diamonds and North would play at the safe five-diamond contract.

Four spades also turns out to be safe. The defense starts with two club tricks and shifts to a heart or diamond. South wins the trick and cashes the three top trumps. He doesn't mind about the failure of the jack to fall since he is going to run diamonds until such time as East elects to trump in.

The score for bidding and making four spades is 630. The score for bidding and making five diamonds is 600.

That 30 points is worth its weight in gold in match points. It is just the merest trifle in rubber bridge.

Ask the Jacobys

An Oregon reader wants to know how often you will expect the defenders six cards in a suit to break 3-3.

The answer is that a suit breaks 3-3 a trifle under 36 per cent of the time. It divides 4-2 just over 48 per cent of the time; 5-1 some 14.5 per cent and all six show up in one hand or the other 1.5 per cent of the time.

Bizarre System

Without a shred of humility I can tell you there is one soothsayer in this country who can predict the future with phenomenal accuracy. Me.

That's right. I can tell what television shows will be cancelled, what fashions will be in, and what is due in the way of price increases. My system is a little bizarre, but the conclusions are very dependable.

TELEVISION: Any show I watch consecutively for three weeks will be cancelled... due to low ratings. Producers have been known to watch the mails for my fan letters so they will know when to make their move. Tim Conway has begged me not to watch the Carol Burnett Show.

FASHIONS: I use the old yo-yo-hemline trick. When my skirt hemlines go up and I spend a year and a half shorttening my slips and my coats, skirts immediately go down leaving me with a coat that looks like a leftover from my tenth birthday. When I buy a new long coat that covers the dress, the skirts immediately go up again. At the moment, I'm in a "lucky" pattern and holding.

FOOD PRICES: Anything my kids develop a craving for is going up in price. I know sugar would go sky high three months before they began to hike prices. My kids were using it to build castles, make Christmas ornaments, have sugar fights, and eat raw by the handfuls for after-school snacks. That was the week it went up to $2 a pound.

FOOD AND DRUG SCARE: I predicted this when I got a case of tuna at 19 cents a can only to hear that somewhere a batch of tuna had been released containing a lethal amount of mercury. Also, I have never gone on a diet in my life that a test mouse somewhere didn't either drop dead or become terminal from drinking my brand of dietary soft drink.

WEATHER: This is the easiest of all. Putting weed killer on our grass will insure a drought. Camping out under the stars — a monsoon. Planning our first winter vacation in Florida — unseasonal snow.

You cannot imagine what a burden it is for me to control the country's destiny — knowing that the minute I buy a car, the automotive industry must design an entire new body for next year's models, or that every Wednesday I'm going to get sick and recover on Thursday when all the doctors return.

Just the other day I was telling my husband about a surveyor who was compiling questionnaires and asked me if I thought sex was a fad and was on its way out.

Hey, relax, folks, I told him yes.

Dr. Lester Coleman

My doctor suggested that I use warm car drops for my ear. When I warm the ear drops the label comes off and I forget what the bottle contains. This has happened to me with other medicines.

Mrs. A.M., Tex.

Dear Mr. M.: From your state, in Nashville, came a suggestion by Dr. Clyde Alley that seems to be directed to your problem. Dr. Alley said: "Patients usually warm solutions by holding them under a hot water faucet, but this soaks the label off and may overheat the drops. Instead, I tell my patients to put the bottle in a small plastic bag and clip it over the edge of a bowl of warm water with clothespin. The warm water in the bowl can be tested accurately with a thermometer. It should range between 100 and 105 degrees, F."

This undoubtedly will solve your problem. I know that my on patients will appreciate this simple but wise suggestion.

I know that milk is an ideal food for infants and children. What happens if an infant is allergic to cow's milk? Can the child grow and live a healthy life?

Mrs. T.W., Ariz.

Dear Mr. W.: Intubation is in itself not a type of anesthesia. It means that a specially devised tube is passed through the mouth or nose directly into the trachea or windpipe. Through this tube the chosen anesthetic is delivered to the lungs.

The intubation technique has been a great step in the greater safety of all modern anesthesia.

I know that milk is an ideal food for infants and children. What happens if an infant is allergic to cow's milk? Can the child grow and live a healthy life?

Mrs. T.W., Ariz.

Dear Mr. W.:

Many young infants and young children and even adults have allergic reactions to milk and cannot even tolerate small quantities.

A great many products have been created to replace cow's milk and supply some of its benefits. Soy flour, soya protein, casein and homogenized beef can supply the necessary protein.

Special sugars such as sucrose and dextrose are combined with vitamins and minerals to supply almost all of the other important ingredients in cow's milk. Many children beginning from infancy have been successfully nourished by "milk substitutes."

My mother recently had an intubation anesthesia. Can you explain it to me?

Mr. D.H.R., Mich.

Dear Mr. R.:

Intubation is in itself not a type of anesthesia. It means that a specially devised tube is passed through the mouth or nose directly into the trachea or windpipe. Through this tube the chosen anesthetic is delivered to the lungs.

The intubation technique has been a great step in the greater safety of all modern anesthesia.

By Oswald & James Jacoby South's four-spade call was strictly a match-point bid. He wanted to play in a major suit and saw no reason to tell his opponents about the support or diamonds.

At rubber bridge South would jump to four diamonds and North would play at the safe five-diamond contract.

Four spades also turns out to be safe. The defense starts with two club tricks and shifts to a heart or diamond. South wins the trick and cashes the three top trumps. He doesn't mind about the failure of the jack to fall since he is going to run diamonds until such time as East elects to trump in.

The score for bidding and making four spades is 620. The score for bidding and making five diamonds is 600.

That 20 points is worth its weight in gold in match points. It is just the merest trifle in rubber bridge.

Ask the Jacobys

An Oregon reader wants to know how often you will expect the defenders six cards in a suit to break 3-3.

The answer is that a suit breaks 3-3 a trifle under 36 per cent of the time. It divides 4-2 just over 48 per cent of the time; 5-1 some 14.5 per cent and all six show up in one hand or the other 1.5 per cent of the time.

Toxins Found In Superior's Trout

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — State officials have issued warnings about eating Lake Superior lake trout, after excessive levels of toxic materials were found in sample fish.

Although samples surveyed were small compared to the lake's total fish population, the data "is sufficient...to indicate the general extent and severity of fish contamination in Lake Superior," the state Department of Natural Resources reported Thursday.

Toxic materials in lake trout samples included mercury, DDT and PCBs, scientists said. No excessive contamination of other fish species samples — chubs, lake herring and whitefish — was found.

Dr. Maurice Reizen, state public health director, said, "We do not wish to be alarmists in this matter," but based on medical judgment several recommendations are necessary

"to minimize the potential adverse health impact." Pregnant women should take special precautions on eating lake trout because the effects of the chemicals on unborn children is unknown, Reizen said.

Lake Superior shoreline residents who regularly fish and eat their catch should not use lake trout as a major food source, Reizen said. Lake trout consumption, he said, should not exceed one meal per week, although the proportion of ingested DDT and PCB can be reduced by removing the major fat deposits before cooking. Tourists who sport fish also should limit lake trout meals to one a week, Reizen said.

Reizen noted the suggested limits are "somewhat arbitrary," but said, "We feel that these recommendations are suitable for those who regularly eat fish from Lake Superior."

The joint state-federal study, prepared by the state Department of Natural Resources, says lake trout found in western Lake Superior — especially near Isle Royale — had mercury levels greater than one part per million. The Food and Drug Administration minimum tolerance for human consumption is 0.5 parts per million. The Isle Royale area fish also carried levels of the insecticide DDT and the industrial chemical PCB at more than the five parts per million established for minimum tolerances.

In Black River Harbor-On-tonagon waters, 68 per cent of the 40 fish sampled exceed the mercury limit.

Sources of the toxic materials have not been identified.

Senators' 15-Day Tour Produces 6-Page Report

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has a six-page report to show for a 15-day tour of the Southwest Pacific by four senators, their wives and at least 15 aides.

No one involved can say how much the January trip cost the taxpayers.

The party, which traveled by military jet, visited Hawaii, Saipan, Guam, Australia and New Zealand.

Middle Class Is Returning

By JUDITH RUSKIN
Associated Press Writer

DETROIT (AP) — After years of fleeing to the suburbs, the middle class has begun to trickle back into Detroit.

Most of them are young and single or married without children and have returned to take advantage of lower rents and better real estate deals and for the convenience of living closer to their jobs.

"We know there is a trickle coming back into the city," said Ellen Flannely, a housing planner with the city.

While the numbers are not overwhelming and no official statistics are available, local realtors are selling homes to young couples moving to Detroit from the suburbs, she said.

Mike Higgins, president of Higgins Management Co., says many young professionals also are making the move. Higgins, whose company controls 1,400 apartment units in 52 buildings, says most of his tenants are single professionals, not families, ranging in age from 21 to late 30s.

According to Ernie Zachary, an economist in the city planning department, the return of the middle class is a result of the natural evolution of Detroit's economy.

"There are natural types of changes in the employment market," he said. The areas that are growing in Detroit are the professions and services such as banking, medical and higher education.

"The downtown area may have lost retail and blue collar jobs, but has maintained others," he said. "We were a manufacturing city and now we're becoming service oriented."

The senators were Senate Assistant Republican Leader Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich.; Ernest F. Hollings, D-S.C.; Howard H. Baker, R-Tenn.; and John C. Culver, D-Iowa. Griffin is a member of the Foreign Relations Committee.

In addition to their wives, they were accompanied by 11 committee and personal staff members and four or five military attaches.

The report, issued this week, tells of the delegation's meetings with Australian Prime Minister Malcolm Fraser, New Zealand Prime Minister Robert Muldoon and other top officials. Discussions were held in Honolulu with top-ranking U.S. Navy officers on security in the Pacific and Indian oceans, the report said.

It said that the Australian government lifted a ban on visits to Australian ports of U.S. nuclear-powered ships after delegation members asked how the U.S. Navy could fulfill its treaty obligations to protect Australia if its ships were denied access to Australian ports.

The report also noted that many Australians are disturbed at the lack of a U.S. ambassador to their nation for more than six months. "To the Australians, this looks like neglect at best, or at worst, like a gesture of disapproval of Australian policies," the report said.

Only one staff aide on the Foreign Relations Committee was said to have any idea about how much was spent on the trip. However, when he was asked he said he doesn't know and neither does anyone else.

The aide said it is known that the delegation spent $15,000 to $16,000 in U.S. currency. But he said it also spent a considerable but unknown quantity of foreign currency supplied by the State Department.

And he said a total accounting of the spending won't be available until sometime next year.

The aide said the American currency that was spent does not include transportation or per diem expenses of $75 per day per person. If 15 travelers spent the full $75 a day for 15 days the per diem expenses would total $16,875 for the trip.

However, not every traveler spent the full amount and some of the money was turned back in, he said. He said he didn't know how much had been turned back in.

The report noted that "everywhere the delegation was received with warm and gracious hospitality for which it wishes to express its deep appreciation."

Toxins Found In Superior's Trout

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — State officials have issued warnings about eating Lake Superior lake trout, after excessive levels of toxic materials were found in sample fish.

Although samples surveyed were small compared to the lake's total fish population, the data "is sufficient...to indicate the general extent and severity of fish contamination in Lake Superior," the state Department of Natural Resources reported Thursday.

Toxic materials in lake trout samples included mercury, DDT and PCBs, scientists said. No excessive contamination of other fish species samples — chubs, lake herring and whitefish — was found.

Dr. Maurice Reizen, state public health director, said, "We do not wish to be alarmists in this matter," but based on medical judgment several recommendations are necessary

"to minimize the potential adverse health impact." Pregnant women should take special precautions on eating lake trout because the effects of the chemicals on unborn children is unknown, Reizen said.

Lake Superior shoreline residents who regularly fish and eat their catch should not use lake trout as a major food source, Reizen said. Lake trout consumption, he said, should not exceed one meal per week, although the proportion of ingested DDT and PCB can be reduced by removing the major fat deposits before cooking.

Tourists who sport fish also should limit lake trout meals to one a week, Reizen said.

Reizen noted the suggested limits are "somewhat arbitrary," but said, "We feel that these recommendations are suitable for those who regularly eat

fish from Lake Superior."

The joint state-federal study, prepared by the state Department of Natural Resources, says lake trout found in western Lake Superior — especially near Isle Royale — had mercury levels greater than one part per million. The Food and Drug Administration minimum tolerance for human consumption is 0.5 parts per million.

The Isle Royale area fish also carried levels of the insecticide DDT and the industrial chemical PCB at more than the five parts per million established for minimum tolerances.

In Black River Harbor-Ontonagon waters, 68 per cent of the 40 fish sampled exceed the mercury limit.

Sources of the toxic materials have not been identified.

Jury To See Patty's Notes

By TONY LEDWELL
Associated Press Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The notebook page came from the terrorist underground marked with mysterious doodlings about making a time bomb and embellished with a reminder of a meeting to "talk about shooting."

The writer was Patricia Hearst.

Jurors in Miss Hearst's trial for bank robbery have not seen the document recovered from the last hideout of two of her fugitive companions — but they will.

U.S. Dist. Judge Oliver J. Carter settled a bitter and protracted legal duel Thursday by rejecting defense attorney F. Lee Bailey's move to suppress the mountain of material taken from the apartment of Symbionese Liberation Army members William and Emily Harris.

With the issue finally resolved, the government prepared to resume its rebuttal case today by calling psychiatrists who will take issue with the findings of defense experts who said Miss Hearst was terrified of her captors and took part in the holdup in fear for her life.

U.S. Atty. James L. Browning Jr. fought vigorously to win admission of the notebooks and papers that Miss Hearst refused to testify about, invoking the 5th Amendment more than 40 times.

Her attorneys spent the better part of Thursday studying the documents after Carter's ruling and conceded in most cases that the handwriting belonged to the defendant.

One of the more startling pages contained apparent instructions for making a time bomb.

A one-line phrase in the middle of the sheet, blocked off by heavy pencil marks, reads, "meet to talk about shooting. 2 bolts. 9:00."

There are apparent code words such as "popcorn" and three drawings what looks like a seashell, a feather and what resembles a potato.

The notebook was discovered by FBI agents in the Harris apartment, about three miles from Miss Hearst's apartment. All three were arrested Sept. 18.

Miss Hearst's attorneys argued that the material was irrelevant and was the product of an illegal search. The judge rejected the challenge but handed Bailey a key victory on one potentially damaging piece of paper.

Radiation Closes Canadian Schools

REGINA, Canada (AP) — Excessive levels of radiation have forced the closing of two schools in the northern Saskatchewan community of Uranium City, according to environmental officials.

The officials said Thursday that a survey of areas where uranium has been mined turned up dangerous amounts of radon, a radioactive gas thought to promote lung cancer after exposure for long periods, at the two schools.

Deputy Environment Minister Grant Mitchell said the high levels of radon were caused by poor ventilation. Officials said the gas may have come from landfill, presumably from uranium mining operations.

With the issue finally resolved, the government prepared to resume its rebuttal case today by calling psychiatrists who will take issue with the findings of defense experts who said Miss Hearst was terrified of her captors and took part in the holdup in fear for her life.

mission of the notebooks and papers that Miss Hearst refused to testify about, invoking the 5th Amendment more than 40 times.

Her attorneys spent the better part of Thursday studying the documents after Carter's ruling and conceded in most cases that the handwriting belonged to the defendant.

One of the more startling pages contained apparent instructions for making a time bomb.

A one-line phrase in the middle of the sheet, blocked off by heavy pencil marks, reads, "meet to talk about shooting. 2 bolts. 9:00."

There are apparent code words such as "popcorn" and three drawings what looks like a seashell, a feather and what resembles a potato.

The notebook was discovered by FBI agents in the Harris apartment, about three miles from Miss Hearst's apartment. All three were arrested Sept. 18.

Miss Hearst's attorneys argued that the material was irrelevant and was the product of an illegal search. The judge rejected the challenge but handed Bailey a key victory on one potentially damaging piece of paper.

Radiation Closes Canadian Schools

REGINA, Canada (AP) — Excessive levels of radiation have forced the closing of two schools in the northern Saskatchewan community of Uranium City, according to environmental officials.

The officials said Thursday that a survey of areas where uranium has been mined turned up dangerous amounts of radon, a radioactive gas thought to promote lung cancer after exposure for long periods, at the two schools.

Deputy Environment Minister Grant Mitchell said the high levels of radon were caused by poor ventilation. Officials said the gas may have come from landfill, presumably from uranium mining operations.

U.P. Land Sales Proposed

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — An Upper Peninsula lawmaker has proposed the legislature authorize the sale of vast areas of state-owned land in the U.P. for industrial development.

Sen. Joseph Mack, D-Ironwood, proposed the sale of public land Thursday in an amendment to a bill establishing a land acquisition fund from any royalties the state gets from expanded gas and oil drilling in the Pigeon River Country State Forest in northern lower Michigan.

Mack is the author of several attacks on environmental legislation, including a bitterly-contested bill to exempt U.P. mining companies from the law.

Mack's latest amendment will not be discussed until the land acquisition bill is taken up next week. Neither the bill nor the amendment was discussed Thursday.

Mack's amendment would require the state to sell lands which it obtained through non-payment of taxes, if either the Natural Resources Commission or the director of the Office of Economic Expansion determined the sale was required for industrial development.

According to Sen. Kerry Kammer, D-Pontiac, sponsor of the land acquisition bill, the U.P. contains some 1.7 million acres of state-owned land which would fall under Mack's amendment.

The amendment would not apply to state parks, however. The money generated by the sale of public land would be deposited in the land acquisition fund established by Kammer's bill.

Kammer said the amendment was "not germane to my bill, and I'm opposed to it. But he and other lawmakers indicated it may take a major battle to defeat the amendment, given Mack's well-known ability to wrestle votes for his pet projects.

Lottery Subscription Player Scores Big

SOUTHFIELD, Mich. (AP) — Karen M. Henkel of Milwaukee won the $200,000 top prize in the Michigan Lottery Superplay game Thursday.

Miss Henkel, 24, bought a year-long lottery subscription and picked her two winning three-digit numbers which led her to the superplay game. The numbers she chose were a combination of the last three digits of her social security number (258) and her employee number (987) at the National Tea Co. in Milwaukee, where she is a clerk.

A second-place prize of $25,000 went to Rex Nelson, 24, a supermarket clerk from Kalamazoo.

A third prize of $15,000 went to Mrs. Geraldine M. Hintz, 55, of Orionville. She and her husband run a cocktail lounge in Pontiac.

Other winners were Ray Gutierrez, 50, of Port Huron, a factory worker, $12,500; and Merton Ford, 59, the owner of a wrecker service in Mt. Pleasant, $10,000.

Ford has had 61 $25 winners since the lottery began.

Ad For Mercenaries

Send $5 and you get an application and salary list for the Rhodesian Army, Rhodesia, where a white minority rules a black majority, does not have an embassy in the United States, but Kenneth Townsey, director of the Rhodesian Information Office in Washington, said his government had not authorized the ad. And there was nothing to indicate the offer was legitimate. The advertisement appeared in a recent issue of the Shotgun News, a 100,000-circulation tabloid published twice monthly in Hastings by Snell Publishing Co.

Committee Loses Secret Papers

By DAVID C. MARTIN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — "Sensitive" classified documents which the CIA says are missing may simply have been destroyed by the House intelligence committee.

The CIA released Thursday a list of 232 documents on such sensitive topics as the agency's budget and strategic arms limitations which turned up missing in an inventory of documents that had been provided to the intelligence committee.

The documents were classified "Secret," "Top Secret" and "Top Secret-Codeword," a designation which a CIA spokesman said further restricts the number of people granted access to the material.

Both committee Chairman Otis G. Pike, D-N.Y., and former staff director A. Searle Field said the documents probably had been destroyed.

"I personally destroyed some of that stuff to get it out of there so nobody would leak it," Field said in an interview.

Field insisted that, with the exception of papers obtained from the CIA under a specific "on loan" procedure, the committee was under no obligation to return documents to the CIA.

Both Pike and CIA Director George Bush agreed that all of the "on loan" documents had been returned.

According to Field, any document that was referred to in the committee's final report was saved and transferred to the CIA for safekeeping with the understanding that those files eventually would be turned over to a new House intelligence oversight panel.

As for documents that were not used in the final report, Field said, "nine times out of ten I instructed the staff people to destroy it."

Pike also held out the possibility that some of the 232 documents could have been turned over to the National Archives or to another government agency.

Meanwhile, Rep. John J. Flynt Jr., D-Ga., chairman of a House committee investigating the leak of the intelligence panel's final report to CBS newsman Daniel Schorr, said he was not certain whether the missing papers case would come under his jurisdiction.

The House intelligence committee went out of business last month after the full House voted not to release the panel's final report.

He's Sure Romney Won't Run

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — State Highway Commission chairman and Republican Party loyalist Peter Fletcher said Thursday that he is convinced former Gov. George Romney will not run for the U.S. Senate. Romney has been mentioned as another possible Republican candidate for the Senate seat being vacated by Sen. Philip Hart. A group of state lawmakers has urged Romney to consider the race, although Romney indicated there was little chance he would run. Fletcher said that the "set of circumstances under which he would run are so remote" they rule Romney out as a possible candidate.

Special Indian Fishing Rights In Court Battle

By SUSAN AGER
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A top Michigan official predicted possible Upper Peninsula violence if the state Supreme Court grants a Chippewa Indian tribe special fishing rights. Howard Tanner, Department of Natural Resources director, said disorder, conflict and even violence between Indians and non-Indians "seems likely" in several communities if the Indians are allowed to fish in Great Lakes waters without state regulation.

Violence 'seems likely'

Three Hundred To Be Checked

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three hundred persons will be contacted daily for the next two weeks by U.S. health officials seeking to determine if they are infected with the rare, and often deadly, Lassa fever as a result of exposure to a recently returned Peace Corps nurse. "On the basis of what we know about Lassa fever, we believe the risk to those who came in contact with this patient is very small," said Dr. David Fraser of the U.S. Center for Disease Control.

The Indians claim that under an 1836 federal treaty they can fish most Great Lakes waters without state hindrance. The case pits the state against the 550-member tribe near Sault Ste. Marie.

The Indians claim the 1836 treaty, approved by President Andrew Jackson, upheld their "aboriginal" fishing rights, theirs because they were here first.

The state, however, says those rights were lost under an 1855 treaty, signed in Franklin Pierce's administration, and even if they weren't, modern fishing technology requires regulation.

The DNR claims some fish species — including lake trout, whitefish, chubs and herring — could become extinct without harvest rules if Indian commercial fishermen cannot be regulated.

But, said tribal attorney Kathryn Tierney in her arguments, "Conservation in this case is only a smokescreen to color the court's opinion of what the case is all about."

The tribe is asking not only immunity from state fishing rules, but also wants exclusive fishing rights in the lower third of Whitefish Bay which empties into Lake Superior. Attorneys say the 1836 treaty specifies much of the bay is part of the Bay Mills Indian Reservation near Sault Ste. Marie, and thus belongs to the Indians.

Many of the Bay Mills Indians make their living through commercial fishing in the bay and elsewhere.

Much of the battle in the case is over the meaning of specific words in the two treaties.

But Ms. Tierney said the high court should consider the treaty "as the Indians interpreted it," since few understood English in the mid 1800s. A fishing tribe would never agree to a treaty destroying its livelihood, she said.

The package includes a bill permitting wiretapping by warrant in certain drug investigations. Rep. Paul Rosenbloom, D-Battle Creek, sponsor of the package, said wiretapping is a tool police sorely need. But Rep. Lynn Jondahl, D-East Lansing, said the entire package and the wiretapping bill in particular, "cut a little chunk out of the Bill of Rights." The package would take effect next January should it become law.

In other legislative action, the Senate sent the governor a bill designed to provide more public money for private colleges. The Rosenbaum bill that provoked the most argument legalizes wiretaps by warrant in investigations of dealers in cases involving 50 grams or more — about two ounces — of heroin or cocaine. Law enforcement officials would need a warrant signed by two members of a three-judge appeals court panel. Critics said it would invade citizens' rights to privacy because the warrant would authorize secret entry of a residence to install or remove a tap. The warrant could direct a landlord, phone company employee, or someone else to help.

Another bill imposes minimum mandatory sentences for certain drug offenses, including a life sentence for anyone convicted of holding, selling or manufacturing more than 24 ounces of heroin or cocaine. Another bill bans use of prison "good time" to shorten sentences for dealers convicted under the package. This would mean that no dealer convicted under the package could get out of jail before serving his minimum sentence.

Opponents to this bill, during debate that became quite heated at times, said the measure would worsen prison overcrowding and take away incentives for prisoners to cooperate. But Rep. James Smith, R-Grand Blanc, said in a ringing voice, "I can tell you the way to keep from loading up prisons. We ought to put on the ballot the issue of capital punishment and shoot some of these bastards."

Another bill removes criminal liability from police who carry eavesdropping equipment to let colleagues know if they are in danger. Two other bills amend existing law to bring it into line with Rosenbaum's measures. The Senate by a 26-3 vote passed a bill authorizing higher payments for degrees earned at private institutions. Current law provides that private schools be paid a maximum of $200 for each Michigan resident who earns an associate degree, and up to $400 for each state student who earns a bachelor's or master's degree in any subject.

The bill would make those figures minimums instead of maximums. The measure also adds eight new degrees — including law degrees — under which nonpublic colleges can be reimbursed.

Special Indian Fishing Rights In Court Battle

By SUSAN AGER
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A top Michigan official predicted possible Upper Peninsula violence if the state Supreme Court grants a Chippewa Indian tribe special fishing rights.

Howard Tanner, Department of Natural Resources director, said disorder, conflict and even violence between Indians and non-Indians "seems likely" in several communities if the Indians are allowed to fish in Great Lakes waters without state regulation.

Three Hundred To Be Checked

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three hundred persons will be contacted daily for the next two weeks by U.S. health officials seeking to determine if they are infected with the rare, and often deadly, Lassa fever as a result of exposure to a recently returned Peace Corps nurse.

"On the basis of what we know about Lassa fever, we believe the risk to those who came in contact with this patient is very small," said Dr. David Fraser of the U.S. Center for Disease Control.

dians are allowed to fish in Great Lakes waters without state regulation.

The Indians claim that under an 1836 federal treaty they can fish most Great Lakes waters without state hindrance. The case pits the state against the 550-member tribe near Sault Ste. Marie.

The Indians claim the 1836 treaty, approved by President Andrew Jackson, upheld their "aboriginal" fishing rights, theirs because they were here first.

The state, however, says those rights were lost under an 1855 treaty, signed in Franklin Pierce's administration, and even if they weren't, modern fishing technology requires regulation.

The DNR claims some fish species — including lake trout, whitefish, chubs and herring — could become extinct without harvest rules if Indian commercial fishermen cannot be regulated.

But, said tribal attorney Kathryn Tierney in her arguments, "Conservation in this case is only a smokescreen to color the court's opinion of what the case is all about."

The tribe is asking not only immunity from state fishing rules, but also wants exclusive fishing rights in the lower third of Whitefish Bay which empties into Lake Superior. Attorneys say the 1836 treaty specifies much of the bay is part of the Bay Mill Indian Reservation near Sault Ste. Marie, and thus belongs to the Indians.

Many of the Bay Mill Indians make their living through commercial fishing in the bay and elsewhere.

Much of the battle in the case is over the meaning of specific words in the two treaties.

But Ms. Tierney said the high court should consider the treaty "as the Indians interpreted it," since few understood English in the mid 1800s. A fishing tribe would never agree to a treaty destroying its livelihood, she said.

The package includes a bill permitting wiretapping by warrant in certain drug investigations. Rep. Paul Rosenbaum, DBattle Creek, sponsor of the package, said wiretapping is a tool police sorely need. But Rep. Lynn Jondahl, D-East Lansing, said the entire package and the wiretapping bill in particular, "cut a little chunk out of the Bill of Rights." The package would take effect next January should it become law.

In other legislative action, the Senate sent the governor a bill designed to provide more public money for private colleges. The Rosenbaum bill that provoked the most argument legalizes wiretaps by warrant in investigations of dealers in cases involving 50 grams or more — about two ounces — of heroin or cocaine. Law enforcement officials would need a warrant signed by two members of a three-judge appeals court panel. Critics said it would invade citizens' rights to privacy because the warrant would authorize secret entry of a residence to install or remove a tap. The warrant could direct a landlord, phone company employee, or someone else to help.

Another bill imposes minimum mandatory sentences for certain drug offenses, including a life sentence for anyone convicted of holding, selling or manufacturing more than 23 ounces of heroin or cocaine. Another bill bans use of prison "good time" to shorten sentences for dealers convicted under the package. This would mean that no dealer convicted under the package could get out of jail before serving his minimum sentence.

Opponents to this bill, during debate that became quite heated at times, said the measure would worsen prison overcrowding and take away incentives for prisoners to cooperate. But Rep. James Smith, R-Grand Blanc, said in a ringing voice, "I can tell you the way to keep from loading up prisons. We ought to put on the ballot

Another bill removes criminal liability from police who carry eavesdropping equipment to let colleagues know if they are in danger. Two other bills amend existing law to bring it into line with Rosenbaum's measures. The Senate by a 26-3 vote passed a bill authorizing higher payments for degrees earned at private institutions. Current law provides that private schools be paid a maximum of $200 for each Michigan resident who earns an associate degree, and up to $400 for each state student who earns a bachelor's or master's degree in any subject.

The bill would make those figures minimums instead of maximums. The measure also adds eight new degrees — including law degrees — under which nonpublic colleges can be reimbursed.

Two Die In French Wine Battle

NARBONNE, France (AP) — Winegrowers protesting cheap imports from Italy and Spain began two days of mourning in southern France today after a gunbattle with riot police that left one man dead on each side and scores wounded.

Violent demonstrations have taken place this week from Marseilles to the Spanish border. With nationwide local elections scheduled Sunday, the growers' problems have become a major political issue. The Socialist party called for an extraordinary session of the National Assembly to discuss the situation, said. The gunbattle started Thursday when riot police tried to stop more than 1,000 demonstrators from burning a freight train they had halted outside Narbonne, by tearing up the track. For more than a hour, officials said growers armed with shotguns and machine pistols exchanged fire with police using sub-machineguns and concussion grenades.

The demonstrators later dispersed, but other groups throughout the southern area maintained road and rail blocks that caused widespread disruption in communications and cut the main road to Spain.

Among other incidents, growers seized two police agents at Beziers and put them on a domestic flight to Paris, telling them to report about the discontent. The southern area produces large quantities of low grade wine, about a million gallons a year, and has long been the scene of trouble over wine prices. The growers have protested imports of Algerian, then Italian and Spanish wine under European Common Market agreements.

In the past, commando squads of growers intercepted tanker trucks of imported wine and emptied their contents in the gutters. Attacks on bottles of imported wine reached a new height with a raid on a plant Monday by two bushloads of southern growers, causing more than $1 million damage. Arrests for this raid led to a 24-hour spree of violence in which tax offices, electricity lines and television relay stations were bombed.

One effect has been to black out television in the whole area.

In Brussels, French Agriculture Minister Christian Bonnet is battling his Common Market partners to obtain at least a short-term solution to the crisis, although the growers reject his efforts as unsatisfactory.

France and Italy, the major producers of bulk wine, are facing increasing opposition from their market partners to providing large sums of Common Market money to pay for cheap wines that can't be sold — a short-term solution to give growers some income. Meanwhile, a court in Florence, Italy, handed down jail sentences Thursday to 14 persons on charges of adulterating or selling ordinary wine as Chianti. The court noted sentences of up to eight years in the trial, one of a series over the year's in the Italian government's attempt to enforce winemaking norms and protect Italy's famous labels.

Local Tours To Cap Dwarf Tree Meet

Four Michigan orchards will be toured on the final day of the 18th annual conference of the International Dwarf Fruit Tree Association.

The meeting will be held March 10 through 12 at the Kalamazoo Conference center.

Growers from all over the United States will converge to hear speakers from the major fruit-producing areas of the world.

On Friday, March 12, buses will leave Kalamazoo at 8:30 a.m. to visit Hilltop and Dowd Orchards, Hartford, Van Dal-son's Orchard in Galesburg and Gilmer's Hillcrest Orchard, Augusta. Growers will be looking at trees in various rootstocks and other orchard practices.

Schedule of the main topics to be discussed Wednesday and Thursday follows:

WEDNESDAY

2:10 p.m. The production and performance of EMMA virus-tested apple trees in England.

3. Weed control in high density apple and peach orchards.

3:30. Performance of eight apple varieties on M-26 and MM-106 rootstocks.

4. Breeding for hardy rootstocks in Poland, by Dr. Steve Pieniazek, of Poland.

On Wednesday evening three concurrent sessions will be held from 8 to 9:30. Topics are apple rootstocks, stone fruit rootstocks and fruit production all over the world.

THURSDAY

9 a.m. A panel discusses equipment for compact fruit trees.

9:45. Dr. Pieniazek discusses foreign rootstocks for apple trees and their practical uses in Poland.

10:40. Rootstock research.

11:10. The way they grow apples in the Netherlands.

11:40. Mulching for improved apple tree growth and yield.

The Middleman's Share Of The Food Dollar Is Nothing New

History indicates there always has been a good deal of confusion about the relationship between the prices the farmer receives for his products and the cost of living for the consumer.

Even in the early days of American agriculture, the prices paid to farmers were only a relatively minor factor in determining the costs of food in the consuming market place.

Before the Revolution and for a long time afterward, England was a major market for American farm products.

The British criticized the crude methods of the Colonial farmer and underestimating the potentials of American agriculture was among the mistakes they made in assessing the seriousness of the fight for independence. But it was an entirely different story when the products of American farms arrived in England.

Corn is a good example. In Colonial days corn generally sold for about 50 cents a bushel for export to England.

It cost another 25 cents a bushel for milling and freight across the Atlantic. Allowing another 25 cents for retail profit, corn or maize flour could have sold for less than a penny a pound in England.

Inexpensive and abundant, many expected that the corn flour would become a staple food of the working classes in England and Ireland.

But it never did. Retailers refused to sell it, but English bakers mixed it liberally with wheat flour and thus sold it at the higher price of the latter.

It was the same for American beef. In the late-1890's, top wholesale prices for American beef in London were about equal to the lowest wholesale prices for Scotch or English beef.

But when the American beef appeared on the English retail market, it was described as "prime Scotch or prime English beef." Of course, the consumer couldn't tell the difference.

Even today, an average of only 40 cents out of the food dollar makes its way back to the farmer. At times of declining prices paid to the farmer, the consumer's costs of food can hold steady or even rise.

Geese Are Easy To Raise

If you are a hobbyist farmer or have an acre or two around your home, raising a few geese can be fun and profitable, says Dr. C.C. Sheppard, Michigan State university extension poultry specialist.

He says that geese are easy to raise, grow rapidly, do not require much expensive feed and are highly disease resistant.

There are five breeds: Toulouse, Embden, African, Pekin and Chinese. Upon maturity they range from 12 to 26 pounds, depending upon breed and sex.

Toulouse and Embden are the most popular table breeds. Males reach 26 pounds and females 20 pounds.

Goslings should arrive in late May or June. They need a warm, dry place to stay for one to four weeks, he said. A six-foot by eight-foot area will easily house 10 young goslings. They need to be kept away from drafts, wet and cold.

Ag Interests Forming A 'Legal Army'

Agricultural interests, which have been battered and bruised by governmental regulations and environmentalist groups' lawsuits, have formed a national organization to raise funds for court battles and other legal fees.

Called the Food Defense Fund the new organization is chartered in Mississippi, according to the monthly newsletter Peach Times. Members of National Agricultural Aviation Association led in establishing the fund.

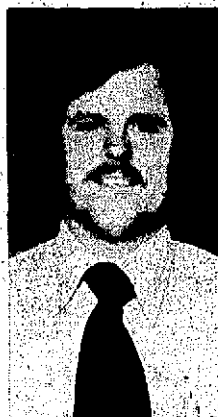

F. Farrell Hixbee, head of the aviation association, says "We have an educational army, the Agriculture Council of America, a scientific army, the Council of Agricultural Science and Technology, and this will be a legal army."

The new unit will not be a public interest law firm. It might hire law firms which specialize in some particular problem, however.

The temporary address for the Food Defense Fund is Suite 461, National Press Building, Washington, D.C., 20046.

After 41 years and more than 40 million chicks, Carlson can discern sex at a rate of 99.9 per hour with an accuracy nearing 100 per cent. Chicken sexing evolved in this country during the Depression when it was an economic necessity to know the cockerels from the pullets. The chicken sexer is still an important part of the poultry world because to date no one has come up with a machine as accurate and gentle.

Most Michigan Farmland Rentals On Cash Basis

The majority of Michigan farmland rentals appear to be on a cash basis which last year ranged from $10 an acre to $110 an acre for tillable land, according to a state-wide survey by Michigan State university.

Rental for unfilled land ranged from $1 an acre to $75 an acre. The following list, compiled by MSU Agricultural Economist Gerald D. Schwab, shows average cash rentals for tillable lands:

Native grass pasture: $19.68; renovated pasture $25.06; corn $31.80; soybeans $39.08; field beans $35.70; alfalfa $30.28; grass hay $19.53; sugar beets $60; potatoes $48.

Rentals for unfilled lands were: Native grass pasture $9.12; renovated pasture $18.17; corn $18.82; soybeans $21.37; field beans $18.74; alfalfa $19.40; grass hay $14.57; sugar beets $21.50; potatoes $28.13.

Besides leasing, another rental method is to split the crop yield with the landlord, generally 50-50 or 33-33-33. On a 50-50 basis the crop is equally divided with the landlord. The tenant furnishes labor, power and machinery. The cost of seed, fertilizer and spray materials is equally split, Schwab says.

Harvesting and hauling costs may be halved, or often the tenant furnishes 100 per cent of the hauling and sometimes all of the harvesting costs.

Under the one-third two-thirds agreement, 67 per cent of the crop is received by the tenant, who furnishes all the labor, power, machinery, spray materials, harvesting and hauling. The fertilizer expense is often shared in the same proportion as crop yield. The seed cost may be shared in this proportion, but usually the tenant furnishes all the seed.

There is no one correct share proportion to recommend, says Schwab. But the principle is that income ought to be divided in the same proportion as the expense of production.

MSU's Farmers Week Offers Talks, Displays

The nation's oldest, continuous farm-oriented exposition, Michigan State university's Farmers' Week, will be held March 22 to 28.

The 165 educational sessions with 285 speakers, scores of MSU departmental displays and a fair of commercial exhibits worth more than $2 million are intended for farmers and non-farmers alike.

Monday's program comprises dairy industry educational programs and dairy association meetings. Tuesday's action consists of animal husbandry, poultry sciences, agricultural economics, beekeeping and human nutrition programs.

Wednesday begins the three-day Natural Resources Days, which feature talks on environmental issues. A new addition to Farmers' Week occurs Wednesday with a special program for small acreage and part-time farmers. Topics include livestock care, cropping, machinery selection and gardening.

SOY BEES?

CHICAGO (AP) — A University of Wisconsin scientist is trying to interest honeybees in pollinating soybeans, and the result could be inexpensive hybrid soybeans. Eric Erickson has been conducting bee pollination tests in soybeans, a self-pollinating crop. He thinks bees increase yields as much as 18 per cent. Bees could hold make hybrid soybeans a reality someday.

USDA To Survey Farmers' Costs

A nationwide survey by the U.S. Department of Agriculture will show how much it costs farmers to raise beef cattle, hogs and sheep.

The survey, conducted in Michigan by the Michigan Crop Reporting service, will gather information about expenditures for livestock, feed, equipment, energy, facilities, interest, taxes, cash wages and repairs. The information will be collected during personal interviews and will be kept confidential, USDA stated.

SWINE NURSERY: This 41 foot by 108 foot swine nursery, built at Richland by Thomsen Construction and Supply Company, Lawrence, won farm building of the year honors in a contest held recently by the National Frame Builders Association. The swine nursery is used to wean pigs for six to eight weeks before they are moved to a finishing house, according to Glen Thomsen. Building can hold 1,000 head. Features of the structure include controlled environment; manure tank beneath building with six-month capacity; use of quality materials — fiberglass for walls, stainless steel nails, vinyl-covered plywood — to prevent corrosion and insure low maintenance. It cost about $80,000 to erect, Thomsen said.

apple varieties on M-26 and MM-106 rootstocks.

4. Breeding for hardy rootstocks in Poland, by Dr. Steve Pieniazek, of Poland.

On Wednesday evening three concurrent sessions will be held from 8 to 9:30. Topics are apple rootstocks, stone fruit rootstocks and fruit production all over the world.

THURSDAY

9 a.m. A panel discusses equipment for compact fruit trees.

9:45. Dr. Pieniazek discusses foreign rootstocks for apple trees and their practical uses in Poland.

10:40. Rootstock research.
11:10. The way they grow apples in the Netherlands.

2:45. Two Canadian researchers discuss a five-year experiment with a compact apple orchard. Costs and returns are analyzed.

3:30. Results of M-9 test planting at Rutgers university, N.J., and comments on world fruit growing.

4. A panel discussion on tree densities, training, rootstock performances and on-farm marketing.

USDA To Survey Farmers' Costs

A nationwide survey by the U.S. Department of Agriculture will show how much it costs farmers to raise beef cattle, hogs and sheep.

The survey, conducted in Michigan by the Michigan Crop Reporting service, will gather information about expenditures for livestock, feed, equipment, energy, facilities, interest, taxes, cash wages and repairs.

The information will be collected during personal interviews and will be kept confidential, USDA stated.

The Middleman's Share Of The Food Dollar Is Nothing New

History indicates there always has been a good deal of confusion about the relationship between the prices the farmer receives for his products and the cost of living for the consumer.

Even in the early days of American agriculture, the prices paid to farmers were only a relatively minor factor in determining the costs of food in the consuming market place.

Before the Revolution and for a long time afterward, England was a major market for American farm products.

The British criticized the crude methods of the Colonial farmer and underestimating the potentials of American agriculture was among the mistakes they made in assessing the seriousness of the fight for independence. But it was an entirely different story when the products of American farms arrived in England.

Corn is a good example.

In Colonial days corn generally sold for about 50 cents a bushel for export to England.

It cost another 25 cents a bushel for milling and freight across the Atlantic. Allowing another 25 cents for retail profit, corn or maize flour could have sold for less than a penny a pound in England.

Inexpensive and abundant, many expected that the corn flour would become a staple food of the working classes in England and Ireland.

But it never did. Retailers refused to sell it, but English bakers mixed it liberally with wheat flour and thus sold it at the higher price of the latter.

It was the same for American beef in the late-1800's. Top wholesale prices for American beef in London were about equal to the lowest wholesale prices for Scotch or English beef.

But when the American beef appeared on the English retail market, it was described as "prime Scotch or prime English beef." Of course, the consumer couldn't tell the difference.

Even today, an average of only 40 cents out of the food dollar makes its way back to the farmer. At times of declining prices paid to the farmer, the consumer's costs of food can hold steady or even rise.

FARM EXPORTS IMPORTANT

In the past quarter-century the value of exports of U.S. agricultural products has increased 65-fold. This continuing rise in farm exports since World War II has become a basic block in the foundation of the U.S. economy.

SWINE NURSERY: This 41 foot by 108 foot swine nursery, built at Richland by Thomsen Construction and Supply Company, Lawrence, won farm building of the year honors in a contest held recently by the National Frame Builders Association. The swine nursery is used to wean pigs for six to eight weeks before they are moved to a finishing house, according to Glen Thomsen. Building can hold 1,000 head. Features of the structure include controlled environment; manure tank beneath building with six-month capacity; use of quality materials — fiberglass for walls, stainless steel nails, vinyl-covered plywood — to prevent corrosion and insure low maintenance. It cost about $80,000 to erect, Thomsen said.

Geese Are Easy To Raise

If you are a hobbyist farmer or have an acre or two around your home, raising a few geese

can be fun and profitable, says Dr. C.C. Sheppard, Michigan State university extension poultry specialists.

He says that geese are easy to raise, grow rapidly, do not require much expensive feed and are highly disease resistant.

There are five breeds: Toulouse, Embden, African, Pilgrim and Chinese. Upon maturity they range from 12 to 26 pounds, depending upon breed and sex.

Toulouse and Embden are the most popular table breeds. Males reach 26 pounds and females 20 pounds.

Goslings should arrive in late May or June. They need a warm, dry place to stay for one to four weeks, he said. A six foot by eight foot area will easily house 10 young goslings. They need to be kept away from drafts, wet and cold.

A 250-watt heat lamp suspended 16 inches from the floor will provide enough heat. Put your hand under the light and, if your hand gets too hot, it will be too hot for the birds.

The floor should be covered with four inches of absorbent litter. For the first four or five days the floor should also be covered with crinkled paper to provide good traction and to keep the goslings from eating the litter material. Remove the paper on the fifth day.

The papers must be crinkled to prevent "spraddled legs," a dislocation at the socket where the leg attaches to the body. The gosling almost never recovers from the disorder.

Goslings should be started on feed having 20 to 24 per cent protein. After getting starter-feed three or four weeks they can be shifted to primarily a forage diet.

An evening feeding of a little mash or cracked corn and mash mixed in equal parts will make an easier shift to the pasture and corn diet. Geese eat a lot of grass and are excellent weeders for such crops as corn, strawberries, asparagus and ornamentals.

Get the goslings outside if it is warm and not raining so they can forage for bugs and grass to balance their ration. Do not allow them to get wet until their feathers have developed.

Lakeshore Teacher An MSU Ag Supervisor

DAVE MARCY
Voc. Ag. Teacher

Dave Marcy, of Baroda, a vocational agriculture teacher at Lakeshore high school, has been appointed as a placement supervisor for the Institute of Agricultural Technology at Michigan State University.

Dr. James Gibson, acting institute director, said the placement supervisors will assist in the supervision of students' technical training programs. And the supervisors will put students in contact with prospective employers.

The institute provides training for mid-management and technical level jobs in many areas of agriculture. More than 600 students are enrolled in its programs.

Most Michigan Farmland Rentals On Cash Basis

The majority of Michigan farmland rentals appear to be on a cash basis which last year ranged from $10 an acre to $110 an acre for tillable land, according to a state-wide survey by Michigan State University. Rental for untillable land ranged from $1 an acre to $75 an acre.

The following list, compiled by MSU Agricultural Economist Gerald D. Schwab, shows average cash rentals for tillable lands:

Native grass pasture $19.68; renovated pasture $25.06; corn $31.80; soybeans $39.09; field beans $35.70; alfalfa $30.28; grass hay $19.53; sugar beets $60; potatoes $49.

Rentals for untillable lands were:

Native grass pasture $9.12; renovated pasture $18.17; corn $19.82; soybeans $21.37; field beans $18.74; alfalfa $19.40; grass hay $14.57; sugar beets $21.50; potatoes $28.13.

Besides leasing, another rental method is to split the crop yield with the landlord, generally 50-50 or 33 1/3-66 2/3.

On a 50-50 basis the crop is equally divided with the landlord. The tenant furnishes labor, power and machinery. The cost of seed, fertilizer and spray materials is equally split, Schwab says.

Harvesting and hauling costs may be halved, or often the tenant furnishes 100 per cent of the hauling and sometimes all of the harvesting costs.

Under the one-third two-thirds agreement, 67 per cent of the crop is received by the tenant, who furnishes all the labor, power, machinery, spray materials, harvesting and hauling. The fertilizer expense is often shared in the same proportion as crop yield. The seed cost may be shared in this proportion, but usually the tenant furnishes all the seed.

There is no one correct share proportion to recommend, says Schwab. But the principle is that income ought to be divided in the same proportion as the expense of production.

MSU's Farmers Week Offers Talks, Displays

The nation's oldest, continuous farm-oriented exposition, Michigan State University's Farmers' Week, will be held March 22 to 26.

The 165 educational sessions with 295 speakers, scores of MSU departmental displays and a fair of commercial exhibits worth more than $2 million are intended for farmers and non-farmers alike.

Monday's program comprises dairy industry educational programs and dairy association meetings. Tuesday's action consists of animal husbandry, poultry sciences, agricultural economics, beekeeping and human nutrition programs.

Wednesday begins the three-day Natural Resources Days, which feature talks on environmental issues. A new addition to Farmers' Week occurs Wednesday day with a special program for small acreage and part-time farmers. Topics include livestock care, cropping, machinery selection and gardening.

All during the week associations will be holding meetings. A number of banquets are scheduled.

Milliken Says Michigan On Economic Upswing Now

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Even though 1975 was an economically bleak year for Michigan, Gov. William Milliken says the state averted a worse fate with key legislation and new things are on the rebound.

In his annual economic report to the legislature Wednesday, Milliken said it will be October 1977 before the economy turns around completely. But meanwhile, said the governor, Michigan will see steady gains in almost all fields.

Personal income is expected to jump 11 per cent in 1976, with wages and salaries accounting for 70 per cent of the gain, Milliken said.

He painted a rosy future for the auto industry, where he said sales may top 10 million, for an increase of more than 18 per cent over 1975.

Sales of domestic cars should be especially strong, he said, increasing some 20 per cent, with import sales growing only slightly.

Milliken's projections did not consider the possibility of an auto industry strike next fall, said Gerald Miller, state budget chief. The state could withstand a moderate-length strike of a month or so but a 67-day strike, such as the one which hit General Motors five years ago, would be disastrous, Miller said.

Also, Miller said, the governor has not ruled out the possibility of a nuisance tax on such items as cigarettes and liquor to help finance cities. "No options have been ruled out," Miller said at a budget briefing.

Despite an increase in employment of about 100,000, the unemployment rate will average no lower than 12.5 per cent, Milliken said. That is about five percentage points higher than the expected national average and only 1.4 per cent lower than the 1975 state average.

Retail sales will be up by 11 per cent, agriculture, should have a good year, raw mineral production should continue booming and housing starts should increase for the first time in three years, Milliken said.

The consumer price index is expected to rise slightly less than last year, registering an inflation rate of 7.3 per cent over 1975, Milliken said.

But wage gains of over 10 per cent will mean a real gain in personal income for the first time in three years.

Milliken said the "poor economic climate during the past year should not obscure the fact that 1975 was a year of considerable achievement in many areas."

"Despite the extreme hardships brought about by the national recession, Michigan legislative and budgetary policies have helped to mitigate the financial difficulties of unemployment and to respond to citizen needs," the governor said.

Milliken cited several actions taken to combat the recession in Michigan — a new business tax program, passage of a downtown development authority bill, and the repeal of the state's fair trade law which is intended to lower artificially high prices.

Most of those moves, however, were not expected to have much effect immediately. And Milliken's figures for 1975 confirmed it was a dismal year.

Among statistics released by the governor's office were the following:

—Personal income increased just 5.6 per cent in 1975, while government aid to people in the form of social security, welfare and unemployment compensation, surged 30 per cent.

Unemployment benefits went up seven-fold over 1973. Income from wages and salaries went up only 1.1 per cent.

—Employment outside of agriculture declined significantly, by 130,000 in 1975. Combined with a rise in the labor force, that pushed the unemployment rate to 13.7 for the year.

—Automobile sales had a dismal year, although they ended on an upbeat note.

—The Detroit Consumer Price Index, which measures inflation, averaged 7.5 per cent above the 1974 level and was down from an inflation rate of nearly 11 per cent in 1974. The average Michigan payroll employee got a wage increase of 5.2 per cent — "a decline of two per cent in real terms."

—Retail sales increased 5.1 per cent, a decline in real terms of 2.5 per cent. Sales dependent on the housing industry were especially weak.

—Michigan farmers saw a drop in income also, although production was up and inflation was down.

—Raw mineral production rose to an all-time high of more than $1.2 billion, with higher petroleum prices leading the way.

Berrien Metro Agent Arrests 'Cat Mama'

The Berrien Metro Crime unit reported a woman was arrested Thursday on a charge of soliciting for prostitution after a metro agent made an appointment with a woman identified as "Cat Mama."

Thefts reported to Benton township police:

—A television, turntable and tape player, all valued at $475, from the home of Johnny Mau Sanders, 700 South Crystal avenue.

—A .38 caliber revolver, valued at $110, from the residence of Calvin Randolph, 1208 Highland avenue.

Police Lodge Slates 'Legislator's Night'

St. Joseph Fraternal Order of Police Lodge 96 will hold its first Legislator's Night on Saturday at 8 p.m. in the lodge hall on Niles Road south St. Joseph, according to Andrew Novikoff, lodge president.

Southwestern Michigan legislators scheduled to attend are State Sen. Charles O. Zeller, Rep. Harry Gant Jr., Rep. Ray Mittan, and Rep. Bela E. Kennedy.

Invitations have been sent to the Benton Harbor, Niles and Paw Paw lake lodges, as well as all police officers and their wives who may not be members of the Fraternal Order of Police. The legislators have been asked to present reports on pending legislation affecting law enforcement in general, and express their views on pending or proposed laws affecting police personnel.

Novikoff said: "This will be an opportunity for our people in Lansing to reveal their stands on important matters affecting the safety of our communities, and the pension, job security and bargaining rights of sworn police personnel. This will also be a rare opportunity for the officers on the street to express their views in person to our legislators."

Novikoff stressed that the meeting is open to all police officers and that it will not be a political meeting.

Among statistics released by the governor's office were the following:

—Personal income increased just 5.6 per cent in 1975, while government aid to people in the form of social security, welfare and unemployment compensation, surged 30 per cent. Unemployment benefits went up seven-fold over 1973. Income from wages and salaries went up only 1.1 per cent.

—Employment outside of agriculture declined significantly, by 130,000 in 1975. Combined with a rise in the labor force, that pushed the unemployment rate to 13.7 for the year.

—Automobile sales had a dismal year, although they ended on an upbeat note.

—The Detroit Consumer Price Index, which measures inflation, averaged 7.5 per cent above the 1974 level and was down from an inflation rate of nearly 11 per cent in 1974. The average Michigan payroll employee got a wage increase of 5.2 per cent — "a decline of two per cent in real terms."

—Retail sales increased 5.1 per cent, a decline in real terms of 2.5 per cent. Sales dependent on the housing industry were especially weak.

—Michigan farmers saw a drop in income also, although production was up and inflation was down.

—Raw mineral production rose to an all-time high of more than $1.2 billion, with higher petroleum prices leading the way.

Berrien Metro Agent Arrests 'Cat Mama'

The Berrien Metro Crime unit reported a woman was arrested Thursday on a charge of soliciting for prostitution after a metro agent made an appointment with a woman identified as "Cat Mama."

Don Jewell, Metro commander, said the arrest was made at the Milner Motor hotel, Benton Harbor, after the Metro agent gave "Cat Mama" $20.

Jewell said the investigation began after a complaint was received about alleged soliciting.

Booked at Berrien county jail was Vanda Louise Kellum, 21, Room 110, Milner Motor hotel.

State police of the Benton Harbor post arrested a man and a woman Thursday on charges of possession of about a half pound of marijuana.

Booked at the Berrien county jail were Larry Lee Howard, 28, of 1831 Union street, Benton township, and Janet Denise Young, 22, of 802 East Vineyard street, Benton Harbor. Troopers said they stopped a car about 5 p.m. on I-94 near the Coloma exit and confiscated the alleged marijuana.

Thefts reported to Benton township police:

—A television, turntable and tape player, all valued at $475, from the home of Johnny Mae Sanders, 700 South Crystal avenue.

—A .38 caliber revolver, valued at $110, from the residence of Calvin Randolph, 1268 Highland avenue.

St. Joseph police said a citizens' band radio, valued at $140, was reported stolen from the car of James Beaschler, 3608 Lakeshore drive, while it was parked in the 1500 block of Forbes avenue.

Police Lodge Slates 'Legislator's Night'

St. Joseph Fraternal Order of Police Lodge 96 will hold its first Legislator's Night on Saturday at 8 p.m. in the lodge hall on Niles Road south St. Joseph, according to Andrew Novikoff, lodge president.

Southwestern Michigan legislators scheduled to attend are State Sen. Charles O. Zollar, Rep. Harry Gast Jr., Rep. Ray Mittan, and Rep. Bela E. Kennedy.

Invitations have been sent to the Benton Harbor, Niles and Paw Paw lake lodges, as well as all police officers and their wives who may not be members of the Fraternal Order of Police. The legislators have been asked to present reports on pending legislation affecting law enforcement in general, and express their views on pending or proposed laws affecting police personnel.

Novikoff said: "This will be an opportunity for our people in Lansing to reveal their stands on important matters affecting the safety of our communities, and the pension, job security and bargaining rights of sworn police personnel. This will also be a rare opportunity for the officers on the street to express their views in person to our legislators."

Novikoff stressed that the meeting is open to all police officers and that it will not be a political meeting.

Cubans To Rhodesia?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cuba, fresh from its battlefield successes in Angola, is gearing up to help Rhodesian nationalists trying to overthrow the white supremacist regime of Prime Minister Ian Smith, U.S. officials believe.

The Cuban plan, the officials said, probably calls for sending military advisers and training officers to Rhodesia's eastern neighbor, Mozambique. Black nationalist Rhodesian guerrillas have been using Mozambique as a staging area for guerrilla operations in Rhodesia. A steady increase in these operations has been reported in recent weeks.

Mozambique closed its border and cut off all links with Rhodesia on Wednesday after President Samora Machel said Rhodesia had engaged in air and artillery attacks inside Mozambique.

Nixon Talked About Oil

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Former President Nixon discussed the possibility of a joint U.S.-Chinese offshore oil operation during his recent trip to China, a Roman Catholic priest who spent 40 years in the Far East says. The Rev. Raymond J. de Jaeger, a Belgian, told the St. Louis Globe-Democrat that Nixon talked at length with China's new premier, Hua Guo-feng, of the chances for such a venture. The 71-year-old priest said his information is "authentic and documented," but he did not elaborate. He told the newspaper, which reported today on the interview, that he returned from the Far East two weeks ago after a six-week visit.

"There is more oil off the coast of China than in all of Saudi Arabia and the Near East," the priest said. "Also, the water is very shallow. The entire Yellow Sea between China and Korea is only 200 feet deep."

Say Death Penalty Needed

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The lawyers for five Southern states say the 1972 decision by the U.S. Supreme Court outlawing the death penalty has resulted in an increase in homicides. Representatives of Texas, Georgia, North Carolina, Florida and Louisiana met in a private session Thursday to coordinate legal strategy for their challenge to the high court's decision against capital punishment. "There has been a tremendous escalation of homicides in our state since the last execution in Florida, in 1964," the state's attorney general, Robert L. Shelin, told reporters afterward.

More than 400 persons have been condemned under new death penalty laws passed by 35 states since the 1972 Supreme Court decision. But because of the uncertain status of death penalty laws passed since 1972, no one has been executed. They remain in prison "death rows" pending resolution of the legal questions.

No Aid For Debtors

WASHINGTON (AP) — An amendment to a House-passed foreign aid appropriation bill could deprive many countries of their share of U.S. aid, handlers of the bill say.

They predicted Thursday night that the amendment added to the $5.39-billion bill would never become law. They said they are counting on the Senate to reshape the bill by removing the amendment. The amendment would ban use of any of the foreign aid money for countries delinquent for more than a year in repaying any unrepaid debts to the United States. This provision was adopted, 228 to 199, despite warnings that it could make Israel, Syria, Egypt and some 30 other countries ineligible for the funding.

Say Heroin Ring Cracked

SAGINAW, Mich. (AP) — Eleven persons, including a 27-year-old man who police say was running a large-scale heroin ring while his father was in jail, have been arrested and charged with trafficking in heroin, Saginaw County authorities announced Thursday. Among those arrested was David Hernandez of Saginaw, who authorities identified as the head of a heroin ring that did $1 million worth of business in the past two months. James Bearinger, chief assistant Saginaw County prosecutor, said Hernandez operated the biggest Mexican heroin operation in the state. Hernandez, said the assistant prosecutor, is the son of Francisco Hernandez, accused of being a major heroin supplier for Detroit drug dealers and the sole supplier of heroin to Lansing and Saginaw. Francisco Hernandez was arrested in Mexico last November. Bearinger said David Hernandez took over the drug operation when his father was put in a Mexican prison to face trial.

Not Enough For Business

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A key House-Senate conference committee meeting over a crucial consumer protection bill was cancelled Thursday when not enough lawmakers showed up to do business. The two senators who appeared waited about 20 minutes before calling off the meeting when the other four failed to arrive. "It's damn poor," said Sen. Thomas G. Gable, D-Sterling Heights, chairman of the committee. "We called the meeting and reminded them twice during the week." The committee, made up of three senators and three representatives, is trying to thrash out a compromise over a bill to define and outlaw deceptive trade practices. The bill passed the House and Senate in significantly different forms.

Nurse Attacked In Prison

JACKSON, Mich. (AP) — A female nurse at Southern Michigan Prison was attacked by two inmates Thursday, but escaped with only minor injuries. Prison Warden Charles Egeler said Karen Price of Lansing was "choked and manhandled" by the inmates in an infirmary elevator. The pair ran off when the elevator doors opened. Egeler said the nurse suffered bruises to the neck, but no major injuries. Egeler withheld the names of the inmates who were placed in segregation pending outcome of a state police investigation.

Sixteen female nurses were recently assigned to the prison infirmary, the first time in the prison's history.

Farm Bureau Accused

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A member of a House committee investigating PBB accused the Michigan Farm Bureau of fiddling in making settlement payments to farmers. Rep. Quincy Hoffman, R-Applegate, said Thursday that although the Farm Bureau announced a settlement last December, "very few payments have been made." Farm Bureau spokesman Arlo Watson said the reason payments only started recently was "because of the number of insurance companies that are involved, and trying to get unanimity with each one of their attorneys." PBB, polybrominated biphenyl, a toxic fire retardant, was mixed accidentally with Michigan cattle feed in 1973, forcing destruction of thousands of cattle.

Two brothers have filed suit in Berrien Circuit court seeking more than $330,000 damages for injuries they allegedly sustained in a head-on car-truck accident in 1973.

The suit says the accident occurred March 10, 1973, and both brothers sustained injuries. Kevin seeks $157,180 damages, while his brother asks for $175,000 damages.

Named defendant in the suit, and identified as the driver of the car, was William R. Enders, of Bridgman.

Casino Bill In Committee

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A bill allowing state-regulated gambling casinos in Detroit is in the House Tourist Industry Relations Committee. Rep. Casimir Ozonowski, D-Detroit, committee chairman, bill sponsor, said his measure could generate an extra $34 million to Detroit in new tax revenues, along with an extra $184 million in visitors and conventions. Under the bill, casinos would be licensed and regulated by a five-member state commission appointed by the governor. Casinos would be limited to Detroit hotels and motels, and a license would not be granted without approval of the Detroit City Council.

Two Say They're His Wife

CHERRY HILL, N.J. (AP) — As rock-and-roll singer Jackie Wilson of Detroit remained semiconscious at Cherry Hill Medical Center, two women, both claiming to be his wife, were preparing for a court battle to be named his legal guardian.

Leah Wilson, 31, of Marietta, Ga., and Harlene Wilson of New York, are due to appear March 12 before Camden County Judge L.V. DiMartino and ask to be appointed guardian.

Wilson, 41, collapsed on the stage of the Latin Casino on Sept. 29, 1975 after apparently suffering a heart attack. He later lapsed into a coma and suffered brain damage, according to a hospital spokesman. He has been hospitalized ever since.

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Parents could pull their children out of school if they faced the danger of physical assault, says a legislator who feels the measure is needed because of school busing.

Rep. Thaddeus Stojewski, D-Detroit, said Thursday "many children are being forcibly bused to schools far from their homes and into strange and unfamiliar neighborhoods."

Under the bill a parent or guardian who felt a school was unsafe could take the child out of school if he gave oral or written notice to school officials.

Bendix Predicts Advanced Electronics In Family Car

DETROIT — Microprocessors not much larger than a thumbnail yet capable of controlling a host of functions will be available on passenger cars by 1980. The Bendix Corporation has predicted.

Bendix, a participant in the 1976 Automotive Engineering Congress and Exposition Feb. 23-27 at Cobo hall, Detroit, devoted a major segment of its exhibit to the application of advanced electronics to the family car.

Theme of the Exposition was "Challenge '76 — Designing Vehicles for Energy Conservation" and Bendix engineers believe that electronics in general and electronic engine controls in particular hold the key to more efficient, energy conserving vehicles.

Electronics offers the ability of precise sensing, computing and controlling for an engine's fuel metering system which is necessary if the engine is to achieve maximum fuel economy and driveability with minimum exhaust emissions. Bendix, developer of Electronic Fuel Injection (EFI), is working on advanced electronic fuel control systems which have on-board computers using microprocessors capable of performing many additional functions.

These functions can include ignition, transmission, anti-skid braking, speed indicator, gasoline consumption and miles to go computations, climate control, radar collision warning, fire detection, pedestrian safety monitor, entertainment systems and theft-deterrent systems.

These functions are only a portion of the potential tasks that can be given a vehicle's central on-board processor, according to Dr. William F. Haagen, director of advanced development for Bendix Electronics and Engine Control Systems Group (EECSG).

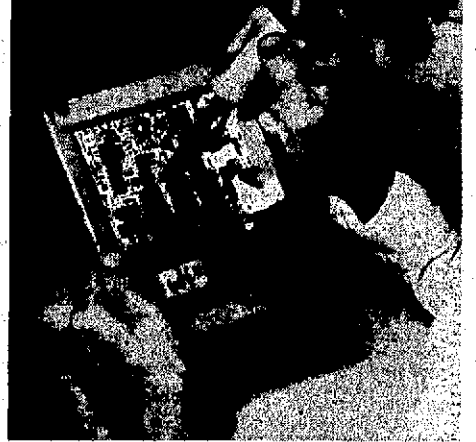

During the 1980's subsequent generations of these advanced electronic control units will be able to provide an anti-tailgating control, inter-vehicle communication system, high-speed warning and limiting function, crash recorder, digital instrumentation such as temperature, speedometer, odometer, tachometer, pressure and voltmeter gauges, on-board diagnostics, road surface indicators and even guidance systems.

Haagen said these applications are imminent because the electronic state of the art as applied to the automobile will be approaching the degree of sophistication of the aerospace industry.

Digital microcomputers using microprocessors and large scale integrated circuits (LSI) already are being used on test vehicles at Bendix, he said.

ADVANCED AUTOMOTIVE CONTROL UNIT: Dr. William F. Haagen, director of advanced development for The Bendix Corporation's Electronics and Engine Control Systems Group, works on a mock-up of an advanced digital electronic control unit being developed by Bendix. The on-board control unit which uses a microprocessor, will have the potential of being able to control many automotive functions, including the engine's fuel management system.

No Comment On His Release

DETROIT (AP) — A man who gunned down three people in a Detroit hotel was a former mental patient who had been involved in another shooting incident last year. Police said Thursday they thought Chauncey West Jr., 28, of Detroit, was still in the Center for Forensic Psychiatry at Ypsilanti State Hospital where he was committed last September. Officials at the forensic center refused to comment Thursday on West's release from the institution.

Kidnapers Get 20-40 Years

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Two young men with no prior criminal records were given 20-to-40-year jail terms Thursday for the Sept. 29 kidnaping of the family of a General Motors executive. Extortion charges against Kenneth J. Royce, 18, and John Szymanski, 20, both of Ann Arbor, were dropped at their sentencing. Washtenaw County Prosecutor William Delhey, who urged a life term for the pair on the kidnaping charge, made the motion to drop the extortion count. He expressed belief the pair would be eligible for parole in 15 to 20 years. Police said the two had never had as much as a traffic ticket previously. The pair had pleaded guilty to invading the home of William Schulenberg, 50, an executive at the GM hydraulic plant in neighboring Ypsilanti. They admitted they took captive his wife, Ruth, and their three sons, William, 11, Jeff, 15, and Robert, 16. The wife and sons were held overnight in the trunk of the family car until Schulenberg raised $54,000 ransom money the next day.

The Cuban plan, the officials said, probably calls for sending military advisers and training officers to Rhodesia's eastern neighbor, Mozambique. Mozambique closed its border and cut off all links with Rhodesia on Wednesday after President Samora Machel said Rhodesia had engaged in air and artillery attacks inside Mozambique.

Say Death Penalty Needed

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The lawyers for five Southern states say the 1972 decision by the U.S. Supreme Court outlawing the death penalty has resulted in an increase in homicides. Representatives of Texas, Georgia, North Carolina, Florida and Louisiana met in a private session Thursday to coordinate legal strategy for their challenge to the high court's decision against capital punishment. "There has been a tremendous escalation of homicides in our state since the last execution in Florida, in 1964," the state's attorney general, Robert L. Shevin, told reporters afterward.

More than 460 persons have been condemned under new death penalty laws passed by 35 states since the 1972 Supreme Court decision. But because of the uncertain status of death penalty laws passed since 1972, no one has been executed. They remain on prison "death rows" pending resolution of the legal questions.

No Aid For Debtors

WASHINGTON (AP) — An amendment to a House-passed foreign aid appropriation bill could deprive many countries of their share of U.S. aid, handlers of the bill say.

They predicted Thursday night that the amendment added to the $5.39-billion bill would never become law. They said they are counting on the Senate to reshape the bill by removing the amendment. The amendment would ban use of any of the foreign aid money for countries delinquent for more than a year in repaying any uncontested debts to the United States. This provision was adopted, 229 to 139, despite warnings that it could make Israel, Syria, Egypt and some 50 other countries ineligible for the funding.

Say Heroin Ring Cracked

SAGINAW, Mich. (AP) — Eleven persons, including a 27-year-old man who police say was running a large-scale heroin ring while his father was in jail, have been arrested and charged with trafficking in heroin, Saginaw County authorities announced Thursday. Among those arrested was David Hernandez of Saginaw, who authorities identified as the head of a heroin ring that did $1 million worth of business in the past two months. James Bearinger, chief assistant Saginaw County prosecutor, said Hernandez operated the biggest Mexican heroin operation in the state. Hernandez, said the assistant prosecutor, is the son of Francisco Hernandez, accused of being a major heroin supplier for Detroit drug dealers and the sole supplier of heroin to Lansing and Saginaw. Francisco Hernandez was arrested in Mexico last November. Bearinger said David Hernandez took over the drug operation when his father was put in a Mexican prison to face trial.

Not Enough For Business

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A key House-Senate conference committee meeting over a crucial consumer protection bill was cancelled Thursday when not enough lawmakers showed up to do business. The two senators who appeared waited about 20 minutes before calling off the meeting when the other four failed to arrive. "It's damn poor," said Sen. Thomas Guastello, D-Sterling Heights, chairman of the committee. "We called the meeting and reminded them twice during the week." The committee, made up of three senators and three representatives, is trying to thrash out a compromise over a bill to define and outlaw deceptive trade practices. The bill passed the House and Senate in significantly different forms.

Nurse Attacked In Prison

JACKSON, Mich. (AP) — A female nurse at Southern Michigan Prison was attacked by two inmates Thursday, but escaped with only minor injuries. Prison Warden Charles Egeler said Karen Price of Lansing was "choked and manhandled" by the inmates in an infirmary elevator. The pair ran off when the elevator doors opened. Egeler said the nurse suffered bruises to the neck, but no major injuries. Egeler withheld the names of the inmates who were placed in segregation pending outcome of a state police investigation.

Sixteen female nurses were recently assigned to the prison infirmary, the first time in the prison's history.

Farm Bureau Accused

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A member of a House committee investigating PBB accused the Michigan Farm Bureau of foot-dragging in making settlement payments to farmers. Rep. Quincy Hoffman, R-Applegate, said Thursday that although the Farm Bureau announced a settlement last December, "very few payments have been made." Farm Bureau spokesman Arlo Wasson said the reason payments only started recently was "because of the number of insurance companies that are involved, and trying to get unanimity with each one of their attorneys." PBB, polybrominated biphenyl, a toxic fire retardant, was mixed accidentally with Michigan cattle feed in 1973, forcing destruction of thousands of cattle.

Bendix Predicts Advanced Electronics In Family Car

DETROIT — Microprocessors not much larger than a thumbnail yet capable of controlling a host of functions will be available on passenger cars by 1980, The Bendix Corporation has predicted.

Bendix, a participant in the 1976 Automotive Engineering Congress and Exposition Feb. 23-27 at Cobo hall, Detroit, devoted a major segment of its exhibit to the application of advanced electronics to the family car.

Theme of the Exposition was "Challenge '76 — Designing Vehicles for Energy Conservation" and Bendix engineers believe that electronics in general and electronic engine controls in particular hold the key to more efficient, energy conserving vehicles.

Electronics offers the ability of precise sensing, computing and controlling for an engine's fuel metering system which is necessary if the engine is to achieve maximum fuel economy and driveability with minimum exhaust emissions.

Bendix, developer of Electronic Fuel Injection (EFI), is working on advanced electronic fuel control systems which have on-board computers using microprocessors capable of performing many additional functions.

These functions can include ignition, transmission, anti-skid braking, speed indicator, gasoline consumption and miles to go computations, climate control, radar collision warning, fire detection, pedestrian safety monitor, entertainment systems and theft deterrent systems.

These functions are only a portion of the potential tasks that can be given a vehicle's central on-board processor, according to Dr. William F. Haagen, director of advanced development for Bendix' Electronics and Engine Control Systems Group (EECSG).

During the 1980's subsequent generations of these advanced electronic control units will be able to provide an anti-tailgating control, inter-vehicular communication system, high-speed warning and limiting function, crash recorder, digital instrumentation such as temperature, speedometer, odometer, tachometer, pressure and voltmeter gauges, on-board diagnostics, road surface.

face indicators and even guidance systems.

Haagen said these applications are imminent because the electronic state of the art as applied to the automobile will be approaching the degree of sophistication of the aerospace industry.

Digital microcomputers using microprocessors and large scale integrated circuits (LSI) already are being used on test vehicles at Bendix, he said.

ADVANCED AUTOMOTIVE CONTROL UNIT: Dr. William F. Haagen, director of advanced development for The Bendix Corporation's Electronics and Engine Control Systems Group, works on a mock-up of an advanced digital electronic control unit being developed by Bendix. The on-board control unit which uses a microprocessor, will have the potential of being able to control many automotive functions, including the engine's fuel management system.

DETROIT (AP) — A man who gunned down three people in a Detroit hotel was a former mental patient who had been involved in another shooting incident last year. Officials at the forensic center refused to comment Thursday on West's release from the institution.

Kidnapers Get 20-40 Years

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Two young men with no prior criminal records were given 20-to-40-year jail terms Thursday for the Sept. 29 kidnaping of the family of a General Motors executive. Extortion charges against Kenneth J. Royce, 18, and John Szynewski, 20, both of Ann Arbor, were dropped at their sentencing. Washtenaw County Prosecutor William Delhey, who urged a life term for the pair on the kidnaping charge, made the motion to drop the extortion count. He expressed belief the pair would be eligible for parole in 15 to 20 years. Police said the two had never had as much as a traffic ticket previously. The pair had pleaded guilty to invading the home of William Schulenberg, 50, an executive at the GM Hydramatic plant in neighboring Ypsilanti. They admitted they took captive his wife, Ruth, and their three sons, William, 11; Jeff, 15; and Robert, 16. The wife and sons were held overnight in the trunk of the family car until Schulenberg raised $54,000 ransom money the next day.

Special Education Budget Approved

BY SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

BERRIEN SPRINGS — The Berrien Intermediate school board last night approved the district's special education budget of $5.1 million, half of which is earmarked for construction of a centralized school for mentally impaired youngsters.

The 1976-77 budget is $227,181 less than the current special education budget of $5,378,318, mainly because state aid for the first time will go directly to school districts with special education programs, according to Supt. Raymond Sreboth. Previously, the state gave the money to the Intermediate district for disbursement.

The $5,149,637 budget for next year is a part of the Intermediate district's special education plan, which is submitted to the State Board of Education for approval. The current year's special education plan, which also includes funding for the centralized school, has not yet been approved by the state. Although the plan itself has not been approved, the budget has, Sreboth noted. Both the special education budget and general operating fund budget, which was approved last week by constituent districts, are subject to a public hearing to be held this summer.

Included in the budget is about $2.3 million for construction, site improvement, and architect's fees for the proposed centralized facility to be built in Berrien Springs. The centralized school plans are the center of a protest by members of the district's Parents Advisory Committee, which favors retention and upgrading of two schools for mentally handicapped youngsters now in use in St. Joseph and Niles.

Intermediate officials had anticipated a ruling on the centralized school from the state board in late February or early March, but Sreboth said the decision by the state board is still pending.

In another matter, the board voted to lease the Eureka elementary school, at Eureka and Preston roads in Pipestone township, from the Eau Claire school district to house special education programs for severely emotionally impaired students. Sreboth said no lease price has yet been set.

The board also heard a report from Ben Winslow, the district's career education coordinator, who presented a followup on 1975 vocational studies graduates. Winslow noted of the 934 responses the district received, 42 per cent of the students said they were employed, 11 per cent were looking for jobs, and 45 per cent were full or part-time students, in the military, or married and at home.

Winslow added 71 per cent said their high school education was "good to excellent" in preparing them for their present activity.

The board also appointed Bruce Dustitt, of the Eau Claire school board, to the Berrien Tax Allocation board.

Named as the Intermediate district's negotiators to bargain with the Berrien County Intermediate Education association in upcoming contract talks were Walter Wend, director of special education, Don Cameron, administrative assistant, and Jerry Reimann. The Intermediate Education association represents the special education professionals working for the district, and the contract expires at the end of the school year.

The board was also informed the Intermediate district will host a regional conference April 23 for administrative personnel from Berrien, Cass, and Van Buren counties involved with Title 9 administration, which deals with sex discrimination.

Lawrence Drive Launched
To Reinstate Police ChiefBy STEVE McQUOWN
Staff Writer

LAWRENCE — A Lawrence businessman has launched a petition drive to get fired village police chief Roscoe Earls reinstated.

Clark Matheny, owner and operator of Lawrence Truck and Auto repair, said he already has 27 signatures and intends to get more for presentation to the council.

But Village President Eugene Carr, who faces a challenge from Democrat Arthur Hane in the March 8 village elections, said if the petitions are presented to the council, "they (petitions) won't have any effect" on the council's decision.

Earls, 57, had been chief of the small department for 10 years prior to his dismissal at a special village council meeting held Wednesday night at the office of one of the village council trustees, Glen Thomson.

Matheny described the council decision as a "vigilante-type" action and said the council should have met in the village hall.

He added that the community "...has had real good police protection," and described Lawrence as one of the quietest villages in the area.

Matheny said Earls was doing "...a good job." He said the community should also know real reasons, if there are any, behind the dismissal.

Thomson, in making the motion to fire Earls, had cited his alleged lack of interest and motivation as reasons for the dismissal.

Carr this morning said Earls was asked for his resignation, and when he refused to give it, was fired by the council for a "multitude of small things."

He declined, however, to be more specific.

"This (the firing of Earls)

has been hanging for two or three years," Carr said.

He said the special meeting was not held at the village hall because the firemen were using it for a training class.

Mistaken Suspect Killed By Police

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP) — Police apparently mistaking three men for bank robbers shot and killed one and wounded the others in an incident that began with a tip and ended in tragedy. Officers responding Thursday to a tip that three men in an old station wagon would hold up the Peoples Trust Bank were waiting when a car matching the description approached.

Plainclothes policemen gave chase, authorities said, and stopped the station wagon. A struggle followed, they said, shots were fired and one of the three men in the pursued car was killed.

The others were wounded and reported in critical condition.

Police said that unknown to the officers involved in the chase, handbills had already fled the bank with $3,000. They struck 18 minutes before the informant said they would, police said.

Authorities said the station wagon containing the three victims matched the description given by the tipster. Officers at the scene reported the vehicle tried to elude officers in two unmarked cars but was finally forced to the curb.

One of the three men in the car struggled with Gary Grant, a plainclothes officer, authorities said, and Grant's service revolver was fired three times inside the vehicle.

Police said Grant had identified himself as a police officer. Officers said Jose S. Higgins, 19, was killed, and David L. Mason, 17, wounded in the shooting.

Ronald A. Woodward, 22, officers said, was wounded by shotgun fire from other officers as he fled the scene.

Police later arrested three men in connection with the robbery: Carl Smith, 29, Daniel L. Swartz, 23, and Gary W. Dunham, 23. Officers said money taken from the bank and a shotgun were recovered.

Authorities said an investigation into the shooting would be made. There was no immediate explanation for the apparent efforts by the three victims to elude officers, police said.

Coloma Parents Volunteer
To Patrol In Junior High

COLOMA — Over half of 190 people attending a meeting here last night on student behavior problems in the junior high school volunteered to help patrol school hallways.

The meeting was called by school officials because of what they described as behavior by some students beyond what is considered ordinary in the school.

Donald Spilger, school principal, called the meeting through a letter to parents.

"According to school officials, help is needed because the school does not have enough staff to watch the entire 350-student body during lunch and class breaks."

Among the problems cited in the letter to parents and outlined at the meeting were false fire alarms forcing the emptying of the building, firecrackers being ignited in the building, smoking in restrooms, horseplay in hallways and the threatening of some students by others.

The officials said the fire alarms came several a day for two or three day spans and then none for several months. The firecrackers were set off on several occasions, Spilger reported in the letter.

Under the volunteer parent program, parents taking part would watch hallways and restrooms and report violators to school officials.

Supt. William Barrett cautioned the parents against undertaking discipline themselves.

The meeting came in the wake of rumors that a girl had been sexually attacked in the school and that a student had lost his hearing because of firecracker being exploded.

Spilger said the girl had been pushed into a boys' restroom by a boy but that nothing else occurred. He said the boy had been disciplined a few days later.

According to the principal one student was taken to a hospital to be checked after being punched by two other students, but the firecracker injury story was dismissed as rumor.

Barrett reported that in the middle school some 175 bicycle spokes had been confiscated after spokes were used in firing BB pellets in the building there.

Another meeting with parents was scheduled for April 15 at 7 p.m. in the school's library.

Mrs. David DeFieckis, a media specialist at the school, said 90 per cent of the students were good.

In another matter, the board voted to lease the Eureka elementary school, at Eureka and Preston roads in Pipestone township, from the Eau Claire school district to house special education programs for severely emotionally impaired students. Sreboth said no lease price has yet been set.

The board also heard a report from Ben Winslow, the district's career education coordinator, who presented a followup on 1975 vocational studies graduates. Winslow noted of the 930 responses the district received, 62 per cent of the students said they were employed, 11 per cent were looking for jobs, and 45 per cent were full or part-time students, in the military, or married and at home.

Winslow added 71 per cent said their high school education was "good to excellent" in preparing them for their present activity.

The board also appointed Bruce Dustin, of the Eau Claire school board, to the Berrien Tax Allocation board.

Named as the Intermediate district's negotiators to bargain with the Berrien County Intermediate Education association in upcoming contract talks were Walter Wend, director of special education, Don Cameron, administrative assistant, and Jerry Reimann. The Intermediate Education association represents the special education professionals working for the district, and the contract expires at the end of the school year.

The board was also informed the Intermediate district will host a regional conference April 23 for administrative personnel from Berrien, Cass, and Van Buren counties involved with Title 9 administration, which deals with sex discrimination.

Lawrence Drive Launched To Reinstate Police Chief

By STEVE McQUOWN
Staff Writer

LAWRENCE — A Lawrence businessman has launched a petition drive to get fired village police chief Roscoe Earls reinstated.

Clark Matheny, owner and operator of Lawrence Truck and Auto repair, said he already has 27 signatures and intends to get more for presentation to the council.

But Village President Eugene Carr, who faces a challenge from Democrat Arthur Haney in the March 8 village elections, said if the petitions are presented to the council, "they (petitions) won't have any effect" on the council's decision.

Earls, 57, had been chief of the small department for 10 years prior to his dismissal at a special village council meeting held Wednesday night at the office of one of the village council trustees, Glen Thomsen.

Matheny described the council decision as a "vigilante-type" action and said the council should have met in the village hall.

He added that the community "...has had real good police protection," and described Lawrence as one of the quietest villages in the area.

Matheny said Earls was doing "...a good job." He said the community should also know real reasons, if there are any, behind the dismissal.

Thomsen, in making the motion to fire Earls, had cited his alleged lack of interest and motivation as reasons for the dismissal.

Carr this morning said Earls was asked for his resignation, and when he refused to give it, was fired by the council for a "multitude of small things."

He declined, however, to be more specific.

"This (the firing of Earls)

has been hanging for two or three years," Carr said.

He said the special meeting was not held at the village hall because the firemen were using it for a training class.

Mistaken Suspect Killed By Police

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP) — Police apparently mistaking three men for bank robbers shot and killed one and wounded the others in an incident that began with a tip and ended in tragedy. Officers responding Thursday to a tip that three men in an old station wagon would hold up the Peoples Trust Bank were waiting when a car matching the description approached, authorities said.

Plainclothes policemen gave chase, authorities said, and stopped the station wagon. A struggle followed, they said, shots were fired and one of the three men in the pursued car was killed.

The others were wounded and reported in critical condition.

Police said that unknown to the officers involved in the chase, bandits had already fled the bank with $3,000. They struck 19 minutes before the informant said they would, police said.

Authorities said the station wagon containing the three victims matched the description given by the tipster. Officers at the scene reported the vehicle tried to elude officers in two unmarked cars but was finally forced to the curb.

One of the three men in the car struggled with Gary Grant, a plainclothes officer, authorities said, and Grant's service revolver was fired three times inside the vehicle.

Police said Grant had identified himself as a police officer. Officers said Jose S. Higginbotham, 19, was killed, and David L. Mason, 17, wounded in the shooting.

Ronald A. Woodward, 22, officers said, was wounded by shotgun fire from other officers as he fled the scene.

Police later arrested three men in connection with the robbery. Carl Smith, 29, Daniel I. Swartz, 23, and Gary W. Dunham, 23. Officers said money taken from the bank and a shotgun were recovered.

Authorities said an investigation into the shooting would be made. There was no immediate explanation for the apparent efforts by the three victims to elude officers, police said.

He was tried as an adult after the probate court waived jurisdiction to handle the case as a juvenile procedure.

ACTING CHIEF: Paul Grauman, 52, has been promoted from patrolman to acting police chief for Lawrence village at annual salary of $10,000. He replaces Richard Irons, 62, who retired. Grauman and his wife, Charlotte, live at 216 North Franklin street and have two children.

Coloma Parents Volunteer To Patrol In Junior High

COLOMA — Over half of 190 people attending a meeting here last night on student behavior problems in the junior high school volunteered to help patrol school hallways.

The meeting was called by school officials because of what they described as behavior by some students beyond what is considered ordinary in the school.

Donald Spilger, school principal, called the meeting through a letter to parents.

According to school officials, help is needed because the school does not have enough staff to watch the entire 550-student body during lunch and class breaks.

Among the problems cited in the letter to parents and outlined at the meeting were false fire alarms forcing the emptying of the building, firecrackers being ignited in the building, smoking in restrooms, horseplay in hallways and the threatening of some students by others.

The officials said the fire alarms came several a day for two or three day spans and then none for several months. The firecrackers were set off on several occasions, Spilger reported in the letter.

Under the volunteer parent program, parents taking part would watch hallways and restrooms and report violators to school officials.

Supt. William Barrett cautioned the parents against undertaking discipline themselves.

The meeting came in the wake of rumors that a girl had been sexually attacked in the school and that a student had lost his hearing because of firecracker being exploded.

Spilger said the girl had been pushed into a boys' restroom by a boy but that nothing else occurred. He said the boy had been disciplined a few days later.

According to the principal one student was taken to a hospital to be checked after being punched by two other students, but the firecracker injury story was dismissed as rumor.

Barrett reported that in the middle school some 175 bicycle spokes had been confiscated after spokes were used in firing BB pellets in the building there.

Another meeting with parents was scheduled for April 15 at 7 p.m. in the school's library.

Mrs. David DeFields, a media specialist at the school, said 90 per cent of the students were good.

Buchanan Schools Accuse Parents

BUCHANAN — Police here said they arrested a Buchanan couple yesterday on charges of failing to send their four children to school.

Arrested were Robert Reed, 32, and his wife, Linda, 30, both of 801 North Redbud, apt. 2. Reed was released after posting $100 bond and Mrs. Reed was released on personal recognition, police said.

Bee-Ware Sign Turned On Now

Bridgman Ousts Rated Covert

By JOHN VANDEN HEED
Sports Editor

BRIDGMAN — The Bee-ware sign is up at Bridgman.

Bridgman looked ready for Saturday night's championship clash with rated Galien by ripping ranked Covert 91-78 in the Class D district here Thursday night.

Coach Doug Hendricks' Bees blitzed the Bulldogs with 60 per cent shooting while handing No. 7 Covert only its third loss of the season.

Center Bob Linke scored 31 points and Wolf added a career-high 27 as Bridgman hiked its record to 16-5.

Galien is a proven nemesis for Bridgman, but as Covert coach Rod DeYoung said Thursday: "If Bridgman shoots like they did tonight, it's going to be tough to beat them."

Galien, which shared the No. 7 spot in the final Class D Associated Press poll with Covert, is 18-3 this season and owns seven straight victories over the Bees. Galien has beaten Bridgman the last two years in the districts and owns a pair of victories over the Bees this season, including a narrow 51-49 decision in their last clash.

Bridgman also got 14 points from Howie Mutz and 10 from Neal Smith Thursday while constantly taking advantage of its height advantage over the much smaller Bulldogs.

"We didn't use our quickness on defense to keep them from what they do best," declared DeYoung. "We didn't move defensively."

Bridgman busted the game open with deadly 66 per cent first half shooting which produced 56 points over the first two quarters, including 20 by Linke and 15 by Wolf.

Covert courageously fought back in the second half but didn't have enough time to overcome their 56-37 halftime deficit.

"Obviously, we weren't expecting to have a lead like that at halftime," stated Bridgman coach Doug Hendricks, "and I think we turned a little cautious in the second half."

Covert never got closer than 11 points the last half and bowed out of the tournaments with an excellent 18-3 record. Five Bulldogs scored in double digits, with Robert Maggard having 23, Rodney Barnes 14, Jeff Magett 13, James DeBoe 12 and George Starks 10.

Three LMC Bowlers Win State Titles

LANSING — Lake Michigan College bowlers captured two championships here Thursday in the Michigan Community College Athletic Association singles and doubles tournament at Metro Bowl.

Ken Weber and Jim Morris combined to take the men's doubles title while Mary Kay Kolberg won the women's singles crown.

Weber, of St. Joseph, smashed a sensational 672 series while Morris, of South Haven, added 604 for a 1276 total, 100 pins better than the second place pair. Weber had games of 222-203-247 and Morris games of 179-202-223.

Kolberg ended with a 508 series to take first place. She threw games of 167-165-176.

Eight schools competed in the tourney.

Manager Named

DANVILLE, Ill. (AP) — The Los Angeles Dodgers have named Dick McLaughlin, 35, to be the new manager of their baseball farm club in Danville, Ill.

Since 1970, McLaughlin has been an instructor at the team's Arizona camp. Prior to that he played with the team's Spokane AAA team.

Linke, 6-5 Wolf and 6-4 Mutz dominated the scoring for Bridgman. Hendricks gave a lot for the big victory to his guards, Mike Schaller and Smith.

"I'm real pleased with our guard play," said Hendricks. "It's the guards that give them the ball." Schaller had seven assists and Smith five.

Hendricks was also happy with the way his team usually got through Covert's press. "I was real pleased with the way we handled the press throughout the game against a team obviously so much quicker than we are," he declared.

Bridgman posted its overall 60 per cent field goal mark by hitting 36 of 60 attempts, including 12 of 17 by Wolf, five of six by Mutz and five of eight by Smith. But free throws were decisive, as Covert also had 36 field goals. The Bulldogs, who entered the tournament as southwestern Michigan's highest scoring team (84.3 average), took 79 attempts and finished with a 46 per cent average, including five of eight by Starks.

Free throw shooting saw Bridgman make 19 of 28 (68 per cent), including 11 of 15 in the fourth quarter, while Covert collected six of 11 (55 per cent). Bridgman was called for just 14 fouls in its zone defense. Covert was guilty of 21, plus a pair of technicals.

Rebounding and turnover statistics were about even. Bridgman had a 37 to 36 rebounding edge, while the Bulldogs made 18 turnovers, compared to 20 by the Bees.

Bridgman's biggest lead was by 27 points at 64-37 while scoring eight unanswered points to start the second half. Covert was also hurt by a cold spell at the start of the second period, when it hit just one of nine shots the first 3½ minutes while Bridgman got 15 of the 17 points netted over the stretch.

Covert closed its season by having a six-game winning streak snapped, but the Bulldogs are expected to come back strong again next year. Barnes and Phil Robinson are the only seniors on this year's team.

U-M, Notre Dame Get NCAA Bids

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Rutgers and St. John's will be playing for more than pride and prestige Saturday in the ECAC's Metro Division basketball playoffs at Madison Square Garden.

They'll be playing for position in the NCAA playoffs. While both teams have been assured of an NCAA playoff berth, the loser will have the dubious distinction of meeting top-ranked Indiana in a first-round game.

This was established Thursday by an NCAA announcement of bids for its 1976 tournament.

While picking a fistful of independents and conference teams for its major college playoffs, the NCAA assured both third-ranked Rutgers and 16th-ranked St. John's of berths because of their stature in the polls.

Both repaid the NCAA's confidence by winning opening-round games Thursday night in the Metro Division tourney and set the stage for Saturday's finals.

Along with the two best teams in the New York metropolitan area this season, the NCAA invited independents Marquette, Nevada-Las Vegas, Notre Dame and Virginia Tech to its post-season party.

The NCAA also said that defending champion UCLA and Washington of the Pac-8, Alabama and Tennessee of the Southeastern Conference and Arizona of the Western Athletic Conference would participate in the tourney — even though the races in their leagues have not yet been decided.

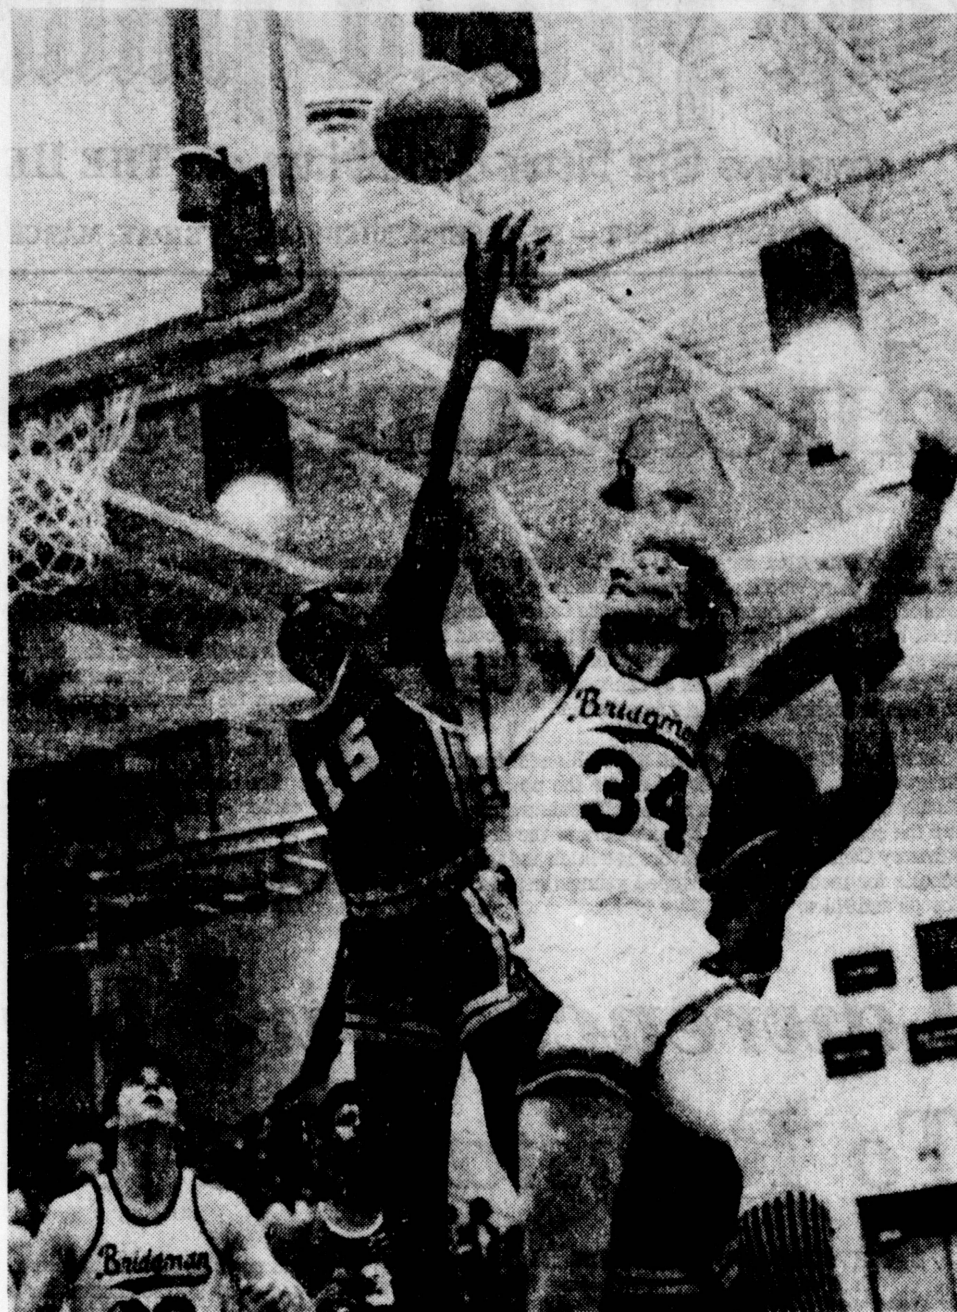

Also selected was Big Ten runnerup Michigan to join league champion Indiana and three others who have secured berths in their respective leagues — Princeton of the Ivy League, Western Michigan of the Mid-American Conference and Virginia Military Institute, which won the Southern Conference playoffs Thursday night.

While awarding spots to runnersup in the Pac-8, the Metro-Six Conference, the Big Ten, Atlantic Coast Conference, the SEC and the Metro Division of the ECAC, the NCAA also assigned an at-large berth to a No. 2 team from either the Big Eight Conference or WAC or to independent DePaul. This final selection will be made Sunday.

Because of the tenuous position of most of the conference races, pairings in the regional playoffs are still in a holding pattern. The NCAA said it could not determine any two opponents in any of the four regionals. In every case, an NCAA spokesman said, it's a matter of something like "conference winners vs. one of several independents" or "tournament winner vs. a second team in a conference."

In all, the tourney will have 32 teams with 17 spots going to conference champions and 15 to at-large teams.

Altic's Big Bucket Sparks Laker Victory

By PAUL MORGAN
Staff Sports Writer

WATERVLIET — In a tight basketball game, one player can make or break a team. Fortunately for Lake Michigan Catholic, a big play made the game here Thursday night.

A key basket by Don Altic with 4:30 left in the game swung the momentum around to the Lakers and they went on to down Bangor 49-43 in a Class C district contest.

That sets the stage for Saturday night, when Catholic will take on Decatur in the championship game. Tip-off is set for 7:30 p.m.

The Lakers had taken a 37-35 lead at the end of the third quarter Thursday night, but the Vikings scored the first two baskets of the fourth quarter to take a 39-37 lead with 5:55 left.

After Catholic missed a shot, Bangor brought the ball down, missed on the shot and Bill Frantz was tied up by Bangor's 6-5 center Ricky Ross going for the rebound.

The 6-6 Frantz then slapped the ball on the jump to Altic who caught it at midcourt and raced in for an unmolested layup to tie the game up at 39-39.

From then on the contest belonged to Catholic, as it reeled off eight straight points to take a 45-39 lead.

"I felt that was a big key for us," said Lakers' head coach Al Nixon. "They did the jump play on their own."

"They saw the opening and took it," he added. "It was just smart basketball on their part."

Skyler Morgan did his part to keep Bangor, which ends the season with a 13-8 record, in the game. He led all scorers with 25 points. In fact, he scored 19 of his team's 23 first half points.

The Lakers were opening up the baseline route in that initial half and Morgan was gladly taking it, slipping in inside for a high percentage shot. When Morgan wasn't making the shots, he was a factor on the boards as he hauled in 11 of the Vikings' 34 rebounds.

Nixon made a small adjustment at halftime that did the trick, though. He put Frantz on Morgan instead of George Welch and the center held him down in the second half.

"Frantz turned it around for us on defense," committed Nixon. "Welch was on Morgan in the first half but George had a big height disadvantage, so I put Bill on him in the second half."

Defense again won the game for Catholic, now 16-6 this season. Its tight man-to-man forced Bangor outside for most of the second half, making the Vikings take much worse shots than they wanted to. "I think we played with the ball out-court for half the ballgame and you can't do that and win," said Mike Witt, the Viking head coach.

Bangor's zone defense gave the Lakers fits for most of the game, forcing them outside. "I was pleased with the way we played defense," Witt said. "When you hold a team to 49 points, most of the time you're supposed to win."

Tom Flood led the Lakers in scoring with 17 points while Altic came off the bench to add 12. Both cagers had two buckets apiece in that eight-point spurt in the fourth quarter that sealed the win.

The Lakers made 37 per cent of their shots, canning 23 of 62 attempts. Bangor made 20 of 48 field goal tries for 42 per cent.

It was the turnovers that did Bangor in as it made 19 miscues to nine for Catholic.

Frantz led the Lakers in rebounding, pulling down 14 of Catholic's 29 boards.

It was a tight game all the way with the contest tied at 10-10 after the first quarter. The Lakers put on a small spurt near the end of the second quarter and held a 24-23 margin at the intermission.

The six-game win streak the Lakers now have going is the longest this season. "If there is such a thing as a peak, I'd like to think that we have reached it going into the championship game," Nixon said.

"It should be a good game Saturday," he added. "I don't feel Decatur has played up to their potential."

Officials: George Burton & Rod Terrell (both Kalamazoo).

ACC Upsets No Surprise

Maryland Survives Overtime Thriller

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Open the Atlantic Coast Conference basketball playoffs and you'll always find a lot of surprises.

That's what happened Thursday — to no one's surprise.

The incomprehensible ACC playoffs continued to be just that as Virginia popped up and beat 17th-ranked North Carolina State 75-63, Clemson stunned Wake Forest with surprising ease, 76-63, and ninth-ranked Maryland had to fight for its life against Duke before pulling out an 80-78 thriller in overtime.

The results set up tonight's semifinals pitting Clemson against fourth-ranked North Carolina, the ACC's regular season champion, and Maryland against Virginia.

"It's great that we're still here," said Clemson Coach Bill Foster, who finds it great to be anywhere at this stage of the game. His Tigers are on probation and can't go to the NCAA playoffs, even if they do manage to sweep the ACC tourney.

Lawrence Boston hit a jump shot off a rebound with three seconds remaining in overtime to pace Maryland past Duke; Wally Walker and Mark Iavaroni combined for 42 points to spark Virginia over North Carolina State and Stan Rome's 20 points led Clemson's rout of Wake Forest, an ACC giant-killer earlier this season.

While the ACC tourney was opening, the Southern Conference playoffs were closing. Virginia Military Institute overcame Richmond's stall-ball tactics to beat the Spiders 41-33 and claim a berth in the NCAA playoffs.

Elsewhere Thursday night, Texas Tech whipped Houston 80-69 and Arkansas defeated Southern Methodist 74-70 to advance to tonight's semifinals in the Southwest Conference playoffs; Georgia Tech stopped Tulane 74-68 and Memphis State trimmed St. Louis 73-69 in the Metro-Six quarterfinals and Western Kentucky beat Middle Tennessee 88-78 and Morehead outscored Austin Peay 88-83 in the semifinals of the Ohio Valley Conference playoffs.

In the ECAC's sprawling regional playoffs, third-ranked Rutgers bounced Long Island University 104-76 and 16th-ranked St. John's topped St. Peter's 75-67 in the opening of the Metro Division; Niagara beat St. Bonaventure 67-66 and Syracuse thrashed Manhattan 83-57 in the Upstate New York tourney and Providence turned back Holy Cross 64-61 and Connecticut stopped Massachusetts in the New England regionals.

VMI, trailing by an incredible 9-8 score at the half due to Richmond's slowdown, rallied in the second half behind a quick defense to beat the Spiders.

Rick Bullock scored 28 points and collected 18 rebounds to lead Texas Tech past error-prone Houston. Marvin Delp and Ron Brewer stole errant passes and cashed them in for layups in the last two minutes to help Arkansas beat SMU. Tech and Arkansas will meet tonight for the right to play Texas A&M in the finals.

Harry Allen sank four pressure free throws in a 30-second stretch of the second half to help Georgia Tech hold off Tulane. John Gunn capped a Memphis State comeback with a pair of crucial tip-ins inside the final four minutes as the Tigers nudged St. Louis. The results thrust Memphis State into tonight's Metro-Six semifinals against Louisville while Georgia Tech landed a berth opposite Cincinnati.

Western Kentucky took the lead for good on a Wilson James basket with just over eight minutes left and went on to defeat Middle Tennessee. Andre Jones scored 27 points and Ted Hundley added 20 as Morehead overcame a 21-point deficit to upset heavily favored Austin Peay. The victories put the winners into tonight's OVC finals.

Glen Williams scored 25 points and backcourt mate Frank Alagia added 16 to lead St. John's in the ECAC's Metro Division finals Saturday. Rutgers earned a spot in the championship round at New York's Madison Square Garden with a bad beating of LIU behind Mike Dabney's 22 points.

Mike Hanley sank a crucial basket with 32 seconds remaining to pull Niagara ahead and Skip McDaniel added two clutch free throws with 17 seconds left to lift the Purple Eagles over St. Bonaventure. Syracuse beat Manhattan with a combined 40 points from Chris Sease and Jim Williams.

Bruce Campbell converted four free throws in the last 28 seconds, lifting Providence over Holy Cross. Joey Whelton hit an 18-foot shot with three seconds remaining, pulling Connecticut past Massachusetts.

Elsewhere, Wichita State and Southern Illinois emerged as the front-runners in the Missouri Valley Conference race. Wichita State beat Bradley 84-74 and Southern Illinois eliminated West Texas State from contention, 53-46. The leaders are tied for first place with one game left.

Bucks Win 75-54 To Gain District Final

Mike Busby Super Against Berrien

By JACK WALKDEN
Staff Sports Writer

EDWARDSBURG — The state tournament seems to bring out the best in Mike Busby.

A year ago, Busby's play was instrumental in helping Buchanan advance to the Class B regional finals before falling to Albion. And the 6-4 senior was at his best again here Thursday night.

Busby tossed in 24 points, pulled down 10 rebounds and played a superb defensive game to spark Buchanan to a 75-54 win over Berrien Springs in the Class C district basketball tournament here.

The win moved the unbeaten

Bucks, now 22-0, into the championship game at 7:30 p.m. Saturday against Edwardsburg, a team Buchanan has already crushed twice this year.

"There's not a kid alive who is competitive that doesn't like the big crowds," Buchanan coach Bill Wilson said. "Both Mike and also Ken (Garrett) have that competitive spirit."

"Mike just played a super second half. We've been trying to get him to work on his positioning on the floor. We want him to be able to see the ball and the man at the same time so if there is a pass, he's there to pick it off or defend against the shot. I think he got beat with the backdoor play just once tonight."

The packed house of more than 1,500 fans saw Busby at his best. It was the towering forward who keyed a Buchanan spurt at the end of the third quarter. With Buchanan leading just 42-30, Busby picked off two inbound passes to spark a six-point outburst which gave the Bucks a commanding 18-point edge entering the final period.

After Berrien trimmed the lead back to 10 at 52-42 with 4:39 to play, Busby then poured in eight points in the next four minutes to salt the win away.

Mike swished eight of 14 from the floor to go with his perfect eight of eight at the foul line for his game-high point total. Busby also added seven steals and three blocked shots to his night's work.

Garrett scored 20 for Buchanan, while Mike's brother, Gerald, added 13, nine in the fourth quarter, and Walt Vanderbush had 10.

Terry Hosbein was one of two Berrien players to hit for double figures, scoring 17. Rick Thiele added 14, nine of which came in the final quarter.

Though Buchanan outscored the Shamrocks in every quarter, the Bucks started slowly in the first half, holding only a 10-7 lead at the first-quarter stop and a 30-20 half-time margin.

Berrien's zone helped contribute to that, forcing Buchanan to take many shots that they wouldn't normally take.

"Berrien Springs is not a bad ballclub," Wilson said after the win, his 50th in three years at Buchanan. "You have to give them credit. They had a good game plan and stuck with it. They played hard, but just had some turnovers that hurt."

The loss continued a string of district frustrations for Berrien coach Connie Stover, who has never coached a district champ in seven years. Stover was proud of his ballclub, however.

"We were there where we thought we should be," he said. "We just missed so many inside shots. If those had gone in, we would have looked quite a little better."

"We just couldn't get the breaks when we had to have them. I'm really proud of the effort. I'm not ashamed in the least at the effort. It would have been more fun to have won, but I'm not unhappy. It's just disappointing to be finished."

Stover, whose team lost 93-70 during the regular season to Buchanan, decided not to run with the Bucks this time around.

"Our game plan was to be patient on offense and take the ball inside," he said. "I wanted to work the ball inside until we either had an uncontested layup or a chance at a three-point play. I thought we did a good job, but many of the shots just wouldn't fall."

"We used a zone to be in position to box out on the boards and rebound," he added.

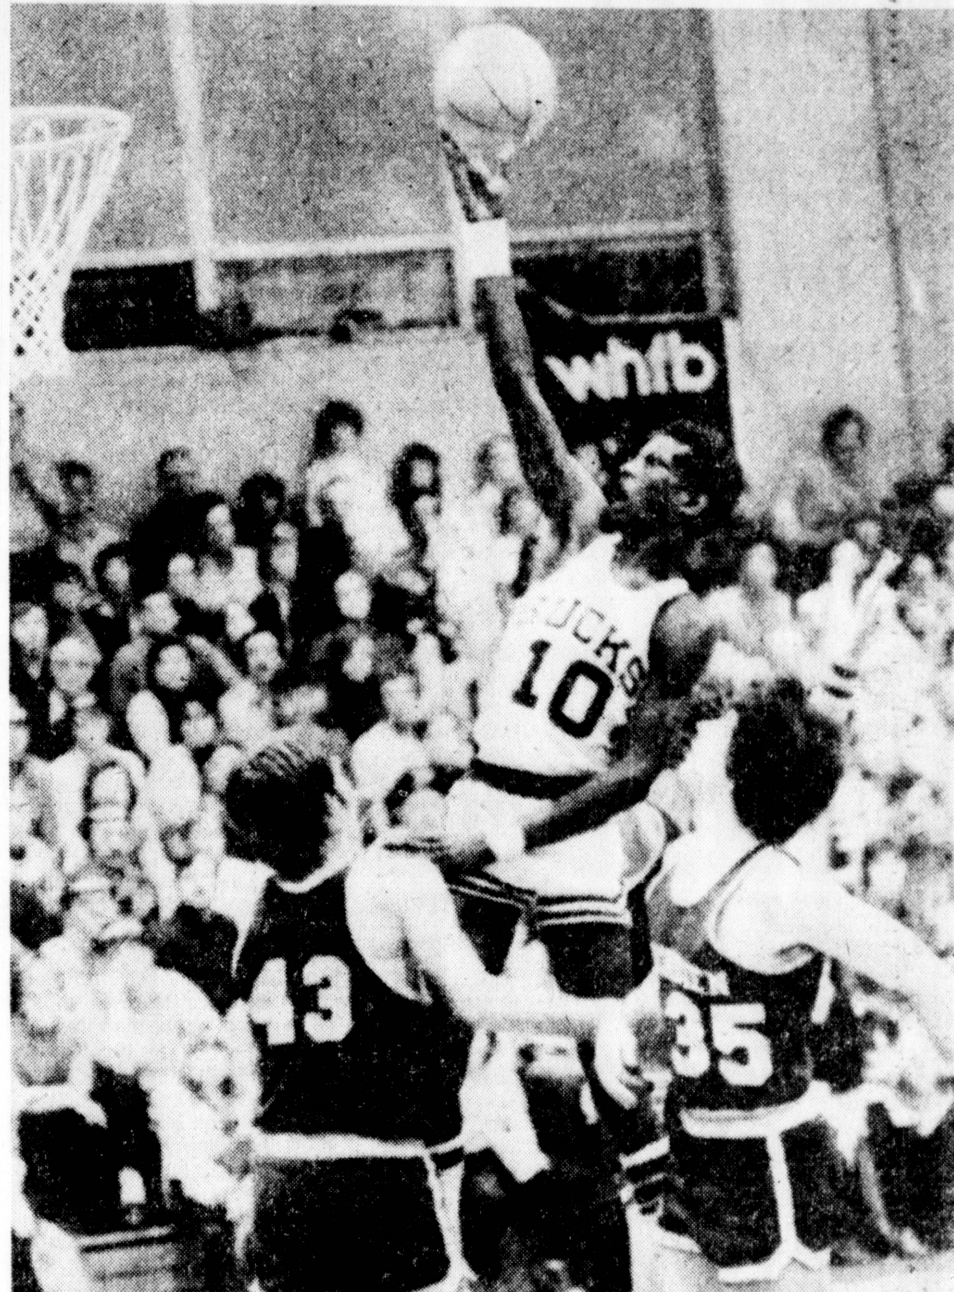

Poor shooting and turnovers were what eventually did the Shamrocks in. Berrien, which finished 12-9, hit just 22 of 62 from the floor for 35 per cent and turned the ball over 25 times. Buchanan, on the other hand, meshed 31 of 63 for 49 per cent and turned the ball over just 17 times.

The zone did help the Shamrock rebounding. Buchanan held a slim 41-39 board according to respective charts. Garrett pulled down 16 for the Bucks and Jack Lewis and Thiele each came away with 10 caroms for the Shamrocks.

Bears Face Vikings

In 'A' District Final

It will be Niles against St. Joseph in the Class A district championship game at 2 p.m. Saturday at Benton Harbor high school.

The Vikings earned a berth in the title game by stopping Holland 56-51 Thursday night at the Colfax Gym.

Niles built up a commanding 16-point lead in the first three quarters and then held off a late Holland rally to run its record to 12-9. The Dutch bow out of the state tournament with a 14-7 record.

Senior Arnie White tossed in 15 points to pace a balanced Viking scoring attack. Guard Tim Garner added 11 points and forward Bill Brenner had 10.

Dennis Lawson was the big gun for Holland with 18 points, 12 of which came during the torrid fourth-quarter rally. Loren Schrotenboer and Dave VanWynen each tallied 11.

Hitting nine of 14 shots from the floor in the first quarter, Niles raced out to an 18-4 lead. The Dutch could hit just two of nine in the period and never recovered from the 14-point deficit.

A basket by Tim Gowen and two free throws by White gave Niles a four-point lead at 50-46 with 1:38 remaining. Schrotenboer's three-point play cut the difference to one again at 50-49 with 1:27 left.

But a basket by Tom Donley and free throws by White and Walley Hadsell iced the win for the Vikings.

For the game, Niles hit 23 of 51 for 45 per cent, while Holland found the range on only 19 of 48 for 40 per cent.

Niles held a 42-33 board edge with Brenner pulling down 17. Lawson grabbed 12 caroms for the Dutch.

The two teams combined for 51 turnovers, 26 by Holland.

Jim Mahoney Rolls Second 700 Series

Still Looking For First 600

By JERRY DYKSTRA
Staff Sports Writer

Jim Mahoney is still looking for his first 600 series of the season.

But Mahoney isn't really sweating 600 series...not with two 700's to his credit.

of bowling last Sept. 16 with a 712.

With the 708 Mahoney now owns two of the only five 700's socked so far this season in the area.

Mahoney, who only bowls one night a week in the Shoreline Businessmen's league at Lakeshore Lanes, crashed games of 256-204-248 with five-strike strings in every game. He had three opens with two of those from splits in the second game.

"I'm still looking for my first 600 series of the year," laughed Mahoney, who carries an average of 184. "I've had seven series between 581 and 592 this year and a 592 last week...but no 600's and two 700's."

"I tell you this 700 was just as big a thrill as getting that first 700. I bowled a lot better in that first 700...I just got a lot of breaks Tuesday. I got some of the worst strikes I've seen in my life in the 256."

Mahoney credits his teammates and the opposing team, Bach Welding, with helping collect the 708. He also praised his team's sponsor, Metal Processors Inc., for its 14 years of sponsoring the squad. Mahoney sparked his team to a league-high 2737 series Tuesday night.

In women's bowling, Skip's Other Place improved its area best total by one pin with a 2908 team series in the Tuesday Night Ladies league at Theo's Lanes. Sara LaRocco paced the effort with a 569 series while Sharon Kline connected for 536 and Linda Sayles 524.

Carl White of Lansing is the new leader or co-leader in five events of the Michigan State Men's Bowling Association tournament being held at Metro Bowl in Lansing. White tops the singles actual with 729, all-events handicap with 729, all-events actual with 2081 while White and Mike Cochran of Lansing lead doubles handicap with 1445 and doubles actual with 1409.

Pat Bassett of Marysville leads two handicap divisions after the first week of the Michigan Women's State Bowling tournament at Grand Rapids. She is first in singles with 711 and first in all-events with 1982. Carol Martin of Fowler and Pat Pung of St. Johns top the doubles handicap with 1335. The Lindsay Softwater squad of Ludington has the best team handicap total of 3187.

Split conversions include the 6-7-10 by Shirley Franklin, Walt Schulz, Jean Bartolone, Doug Trowbridge, Jack Ballard, Ruth Wockwerth, Ken Hoge, Carol Hammers, Lee Chabot, Hal Lear, Lyla Kesterke, Kay Proffitt, Sharon McFall, Judy Pollard, Francis Smith, Jeannette Arent and Phil Rogers; the 8-7 by Sue Williams, Paul Bishop, George Smith, John Breining, Bill Frazier, Sara Pearce, Ariene Schneider and Adeline Petlick; the 4-7-10 by Judy Clark, Chris Barnes, Lois Parent, Keith Hammond, Midge Rowlee, Juanita Osburn, Vern Wilkinson and Mary Kubali; the 4-7-9-10 by Lusha Price and John Brey; the 4-10 by Kathy Bohannon; the 8-10 by Terry Stockdale and the 3-10 twice in one night by Freida Roberts.

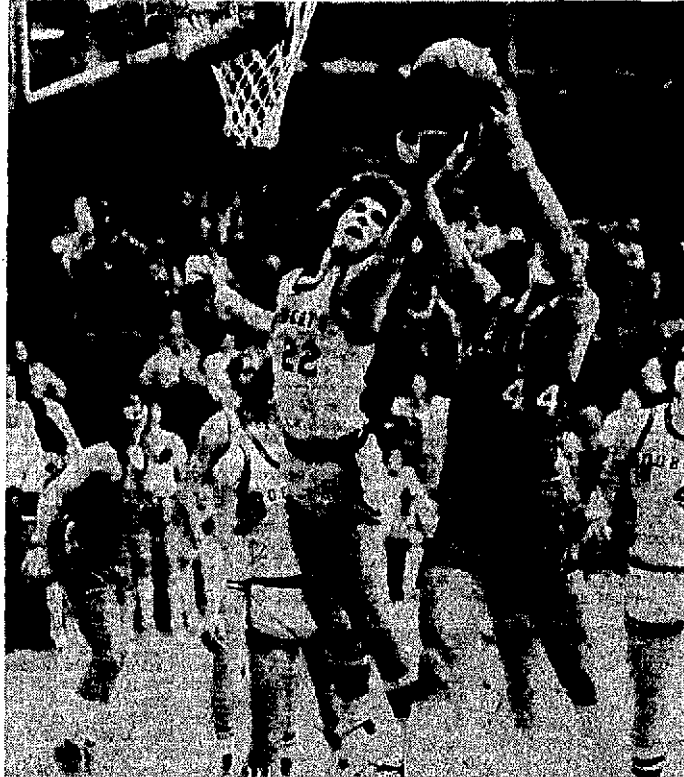

Junior bowler Dana Newnum had a 133 triplicate and Norma Brown a 132 triplicate. Buck Schauder earned a century patch for a 222 game, 100 pins over his average.

The title in each of the last two events, was only three strokes away at 88. J.C. Sneed, who chased Jack Nicklaus to the title in the TPC, shot a 70.

But some of the game's more illustrious names had their difficulties in the tricky winds that sighed through the piny woods lining the fairways of this relatively easy course.

"It's very puzzling to me," Arnold Palmer said after an erratic 74. "I just didn't do anything very well. I don't know if I'm trying too hard or what. I'm just not thinking well at all."

Bobcats Nip Chiefs In OT

Face Mustangs In Championship Game

By JERRY DYKSTRA
Staff Sports Writer

SOUTH HAVEN — Not many fans expected to see a River Valley-Brandywine final in the Class B district here.

But that's the offering Saturday night at 7:30 p.m. when the fast-finishing Mustangs meet the scrambling Bobcats for the championship in an all-Blossomland matchup.

Brandywine gained its ticket to the final with a thrilling 68-64 overtime victory over Dowagiac Thursday night. The win followed on the heels of the Mustangs' colossal 42-41 upset of tournament favorite South Haven on Wednesday night.

The Bobcats, who haven't won a district title since 1960, have beaten River Valley 63-48 and 62-43 in two earlier contests but the tournament-tough Mustangs, who have won two straight district championships, have come on like gangbusters the tailend of the season with six wins in their last seven games.

"Schaffer (Jerry) has really turned that club around," commented Bobcat coach Frank Standley after Thursday's hectic win. "Any team which knocks off the No. 3 rated team in the state (South Haven) you have to respect. But we respect River Valley anyway...especially their defensive play."

Schaffer, still a bit numb following Wednesday's startling win, witnessed Thursday's game and knows the Bobcats are a solid basketball team.

"I really didn't care who won tonight...I'm just happy to be in the finals. Brandywine has a solid team. They played very well against us. We'll have to be on the top of our game to beat them."

"This McCarthy (Steve) is tough inside and Gallas (Greg) is probably the most improved player in the league this year. I really think Gallas is the key to their team."

McCarthy and Gallas were definitely the spark plugs for the Bobcats Thursday night as the two both meshed 21 points.

McCarthy, a burly center, supplied the early punch with 13 points in the first quarter while Gallas, a 6-4 guard, provided the knockout blow with 15 points after intermission, including a key three-point play with 28 seconds left in regulation and four of the Bobcats' eight points in the extra session.

Dowagiac, which was killed by horrible free-throw shooting, got 17 points from Bob Waalkes (also 18 rebounds) and Oran Danzy, 12 from Brad Manley and 10 from Scott Wilite in bowing out of tourney with an 11-10 mark.

The Bobcats, who had quarter leads of 21-14, 33-30 and 48-45, forged an eight-point margin with 6:04 left in the game but the Chiefs went on the warpath to run up an 88-57 lead with 40 seconds to go. Gallas, whose 21 points are a career high total, then produced his three-point play but Waalkes retaliated with a 15-foot jumper with 12 seconds left to knot the score at 60-60 after regulation.

Gallas scored on a layup and Ed Pilarski swished four consecutive free throws to give the Cats an unbeatable 66-60 hold with 27 seconds left in the overtime.

With shooting (both 38 per cent afield), turnovers and rebounding almost even, foul shooting was the telling factor. Both sank 26 field goals but Brandywine made 16 of 25 free throws (64 per cent) to the Chiefs' faulty 12 of 27 (44 per cent). Dowagiac missed the front end of seven one-and-one chances.

"Free throws have to be the key," stated Dowagiac coach Norm Schuring. "But I'm pleased with the way the kids played. I have no regrets. It's a sad way to end the season but we had a winning record and came on strong at the end. This group of kids was special to me since they were the last jayvee group I coached. It was a pleasure to work with them...they always did everything I asked."

The Chiefs were hurt when Danzy fouled out with 9:29 left in regulation but the Bobcats' also had plenty of fouling woes with Pat Grounds exiting with 40 seconds to go in regulation.

Brandywine, which finished second behind Buchanan in the Blossomland race, will take a 16-4 record into Saturday's championship clash.

Season Gets Farther Away

Angels, Pirates Call Off Exhibition Contests

NEW YORK (AP) — As the calendar marches toward April, the beginning of the baseball season seems to get farther away.

The regular season is scheduled to begin April 8, which is five weeks away, and an official major league baseball has yet to meet an official bat in an official spring training camp.

In fact, the California Angels' three exhibition games against Mexican teams have been canceled and the Pittsburgh Pirates announced Thursday they would not play exhibition games against the Chicago White Sox scheduled for March 10-11.

But the games will go on for the White Sox, who said their 25 non-roster players would play against an opponent not yet announced.

The camps are closed because the owners announced 11 days ago that spring training would be postponed until there is a new labor contract or sufficient progress in the negotiations between the owners and the Players Association.

The 25th negotiating session between the owners' Player Relations Committee and the Players Association convenes today in the office of John J. Gaherin, the owners' chief bargainer.

The lines are drawn on the sticky reserve rules issue. The owners have proposed a plan which would allow players to become free agents in their 10th year while the union's plan would give players their freedom after six years of professional baseball.

The current legal interpretation of the reserve rules was made by arbitrator Peter Seitz in December, when he said players could become free one year after meeting their contractual obligations.

"We've moved from one year to six," said Marvin Miller, executive director of the Players Association. "We didn't have to. Nevertheless, we've done it as being in the interests of everybody."

The underlying problem is that, although Seitz's decision will obviously not become part of any new labor contract, it already is in force for the players' 1976 individual contracts.

The Seitz decision, upheld in federal court and being appealed in circuit court, would allow almost every major leaguer to become a free agent in the next two years.

Miller said he could get the vast majority of players — but not all of them — to waive their right to free agency. He told the owners to help him find a tolerable number of nonwaiver players, then reach an agreement on a reserve system for a new basic agreement.

"If the nonwaivers are under the tolerable figure, we'd have an agreement," Miller said. "If not, all bets are off."

When pressed by American League President Lee MacPhail on how the union could count noses, Miller said it would be nearly impossible while the players were all over the map.

But if the players were all in the camps, Miller said he could do it in a reasonable amount of time. "They seemed interested on Monday," Miller said, "but on Wednesday they took a hard line."

The hard line carried over to Thursday, when Gaherin reiterated the owners' position that the players must reach agreement on a new labor contract for all the players, with no exceptions.

Jim Mahoney Rolls Second 700 Series

Still Looking For First 600

By JERRY DYKSTRA
Staff Sports Writer

Jim Mahoney is still looking for his first 600 series of the season.

But Mahoney isn't really sweating 600 series...not with two 700's to his credit.

Mahoney bypassed the 600 plateau again Tuesday night by flinging a 708 series for his second 700 of the 1975-76 bowling season. He pitched his first sanctioned 700 series in 14 years of bowling last Sept. 16 with a 712.

With the 708 Mahoney now owns two of the only five 700's socked so far this season in the area.

Mahoney, who only bowls one night a week in the Shoreline Businessmen's league at Lakeshore Lanes, crashed games of 256-204-248 with five-strike strings in every game. He had three opens with two of those from splits in the second game.

"I'm still looking for my first 600 series of the year," laughed Mahoney, who carries an average of 184. "I've had seven series between 581 and 592 this year and a 592 last week...but no 600's and two 700's."

"I tell you this 700 was just as big a thrill as getting that first 700. I bowled a lot better in that first 700...I just got a lot of breaks Tuesday. I got some of the worst strikes I've seen in my life in the 256."

Mahoney credits his teammates and the opposing team, Rach Welding, with helping collect the 708. He also praised his team's sponsor, Metal Processors Inc., for its 14 years of sponsoring the squad. Mahoney sparked his team to a league-high 2737 series Tuesday night.

In women's bowling, Skip's Other Place improved its area best total by one pin with a 2609 team series in the Tuesday Night Ladies league at Theo's Lanes. Sara LaRocco paced the effort with a 569 series while Sharon Kline connected for 536 and Linda Sayles 524.

Wife Helps Mike Hill Top Citrus

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — "Hideous," is the word Mike Hill used to describe the way he'd been putting this year.

So after he missed the cut last week and failed to qualify for the final two rounds in the Tournament Players Championship he sought some help from his wife, Sandie.

The result — 18 holes Thursday that required only 27 putts, an effort that produced a seven-under-par 65 and a tie with Mark Hayes for the first-round lead in the $200,000 Citrus Open Golf Tournament.

"I hadn't played well all year," said Hill, 37-year-old younger brother of sometimes-stormy Dave Hill. "I'd been three-putting four or five times every tournament. When you're putting like that, it gets to your whole game. It was just awful. I knew I was doing something wrong."

So he sought some help from his wife.

"I told her what to watch for," he said after Thursday's brilliant round. "All it takes is good eyes."

She found Mike was breaking his left wrist on his putts.

"When you do that, you're either going to lose acceleration or pull it," he said. "I firmed up the right hand and now it's a lot better. I didn't miss anything I should have made."

And Hayes, who had a strong fifth-place finish last week, recorded an even more remarkable effort on the relatively flat, true greens at the pine-studded, 6,929-yard Rio Pinar Country Club course. He one-putted 11 times — including a couple from about 35 feet.

Hill and Hayes shared a one-stroke advantage over grayhaired, 43-year-old former Masters champion Gay Brewer, alone at 66. Rookie George Burns, Kermit Zarley, John Schroeder and Pat Fitzsimons were two shots out of the lead at 67.

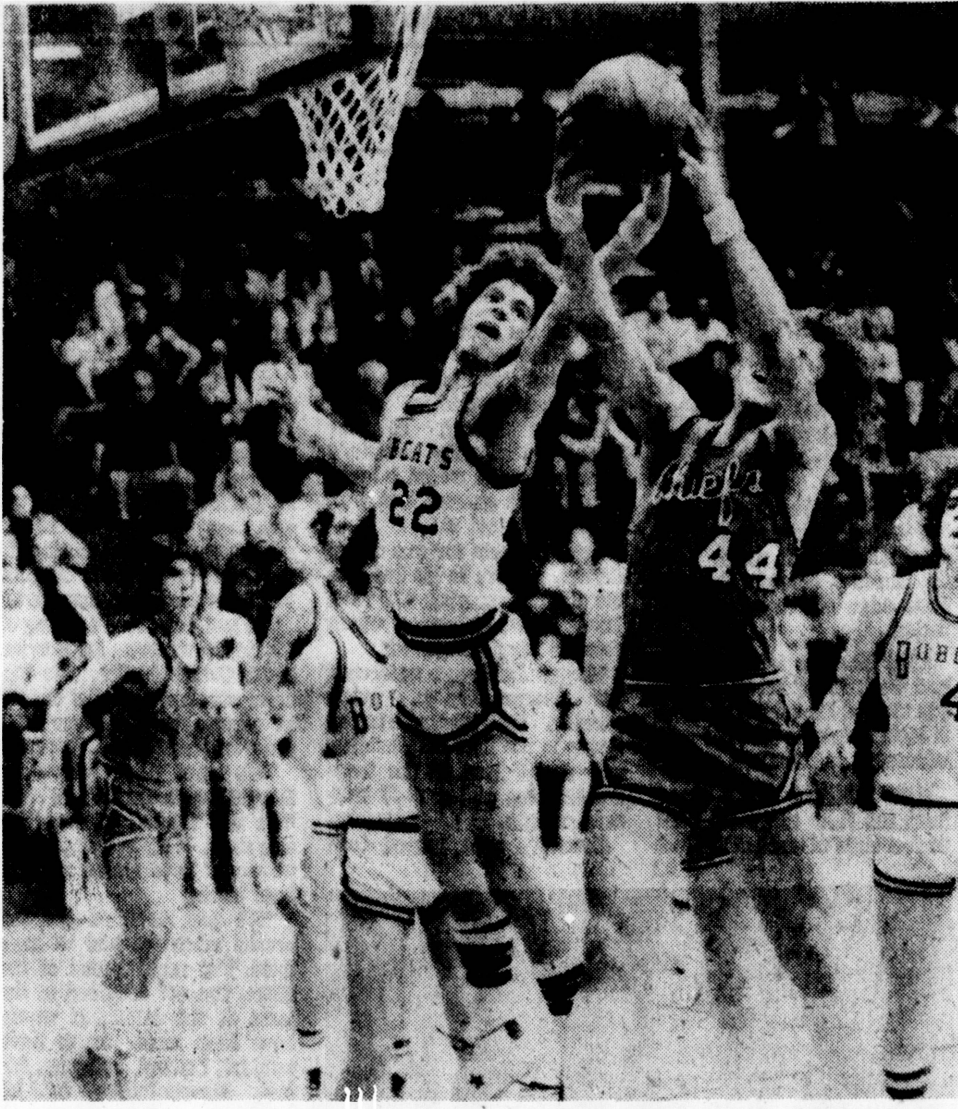

British Open champ Tom Watson, who has challenged for the title in each of the last two events, was only three strokes away at 68. J.C. Snead, who chased Jack Nicklaus to the title in the TPC, shot a 70.

But some of the game's more illustrious names had their difficulties in the tricky winds that sighed through the piny woods lining the fairways of this relatively easy course.

"It's very puzzling to me," Arnold Palmer said after an erratic 74. "I just didn't do anything very well. I don't know if I'm trying too hard or what. I'm just not thinking well at all."

He was tied with Hale Irwin, recent winner of the Los Angeles Open. Defending champion Lee Trevino and South

Bobcats Nip Chiefs In OT

Face Mustangs In Championship Game

By JERRY DYKSTRA

SOUTH HAVEN — Not many fans expected to see a River Valley-Brandywine final in the Class B district here.

But that's the offering Saturday night at 7:30 p.m. when the fast-finishing Mustangs meet the scrambling Bobcats for the championship in an all-Blossomland matchup.

Brandywine gained its ticket to the final with a thrilling 68-64 overtime victory over Dowagiac Thursday night. The win followed on the heels of the Mustangs' colossal 42-41 upset of tournament favorite South Haven on Wednesday night.

The Bobcats, who haven't won a district title since 1969, have beaten River Valley 53-48 and 62-43 in two earlier contests but the tournament-tough Mustangs, who have won two straight district championships, have come on like gangbusters the tailend of the season with six wins in their last seven games.

"Schaffer (Jerry) has really turned that club around," commented Bobcat coach Frank Standley after Thursday's hectic win. "Any team which knocks off the No. 3 rated team in the state (South Haven) you have to respect. But we respect River Valley anyway...especially their defensive play."

Schaffer, still a bit numb following Wednesday's startling win, witnessed Thursday's game and knows the Bobcats are a solid basketball team.

"I really didn't care who won tonight...I'm just happy to be in the finals. Brandywine has a solid team. They played very well against us. We'll have to be on the top of our game to beat them."

"This McCarthy (Steve) is tough inside and Gallas (Greg) is probably the most improved player in the league this year. I really think Gallas is the key to their team."

McCarthy and Gallas were definitely the spark plugs for the Bobcats Thursday night as the two both meshed 21 points.

McCarthy, a burly center, supplied the early punch with 13 points in the first quarter while Gallas, a 6-1 guard, provided the knockout blow with 15 points after intermission, including a key three-point play with 28 seconds left in regulation and four of the Bobcats' eight points in the extra session.

Dowagiac, which was killed by horrible free-throw shooting, got 17 points from Bob Waalkes (also 16 rebounds) and Oran Danzy, 12 from Brad Manley and 10 from Scott Wiltse in bowing out of tourney with an 11-10 mark.

The Bobcats, who had quarter leads of 21-14, 33-30 and 48-45, forged an eight-point margin with 6:04 left in the game but the Chiefs went on the warpath to run up an 58-57 lead with 40 seconds to go. Gallas, whose 21 points are a career high total, then produced his three-point play but Waalkes retaliated with a 15-foot jumper with 12 seconds left to knot the score at 60-60 after regulation.

Gallas scored on a layup and Ed Pilarski swished four consecutive free throws to give the Cats an unbeatable 66-60 hold with 27 seconds left in the overtime.

With shooting (both 38 per cent afield), turnovers and rebounding almost even, foul shooting was the telling factor. Both sank 26 field goals but Brandywine made 16 of 25 free throws (64 per cent) to the Chiefs' faulty 12 of 27 (44 per cent). Dowagiac missed the front end of seven one-and-one chances.

"Free throws have to be the key," stated Dowagiac coach Norm Schuring. "But I'm pleased with the way the kids played. I have no regrets. It's a sad way to end the season but we had a winning record and came on strong at the end. This group of kids was special to me since they were the last jayvee group I coached. It was a pleasure to work with them...they always did everything I asked."

The Chiefs were hurt when Danzy fouled out with 5:29 left in regulation but the Bobcats' also had plenty of fouling woes with Pat Grounds exiting with 40 seconds to go in regulation.

Brandywine, which finished second behind Buchanan in the Blossomland race, will take a 16-6 record into Saturday's championship clash.

Blackout, Roof Leak Stall Play

From Associated Press

Looking for the results of Thursday night's Hart-Whitell Class C district tournament basketball game at Shelby?

You'll just have to remain in the dark until tonight — like the players, fans, coaches and officials themselves did Thursday night.

The teams battled to a 12-12 first-quarter tie and, before the second quarter could begin, the lights went out. An ice storm knocked out power throughout Shelby, which is some 25 miles north of Muskegon. The game is supposed to resume tonight where it left off — if the lights are back on.

Over at McBain near Cadillac the lights were okay but it was difficult to play the McBain-Lake City Class D game. The roof leaked.

It came so bad, play was halted in the third quarter and the game moved to Marion about 10 miles south. McBain won 62-52.

'M' Favored In Big Ten Track

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Michigan's well balanced Wolverines, led by quarter-mile Jeff McLeod and sprinter Doug Hennigar, were favored to dislodge defending champion Indiana in the Big Ten indoor track and field meet Friday and Saturday.

Illinois and host Wisconsin figured to battle it out with Michigan and Indiana for the top spot in the 86th conference classic, to be staged in the recently renovated Camp Randall Memorial Sports Center.

"Most would agree that Michigan, the team with the most pre-meet leaders, has the best chance," said Wisconsin Coach Bill Perrin. "But it'll be an exceptionally close meet," he predicted.

Indiana, seeking its fourth consecutive indoor title, is expected to be paced by Steve Heidenreich, whose four-minute-flat mile this year is the Big Ten's best and the fastest ever by a league undergraduate.

The conference record of 4:01.5 was set by Mike Durkin of Illinois in 1973.

Trials and finals in the long jump will open the meet Friday at 4:30 p.m. The only other event the two-mile run, will stage finals Friday. Action resumes Saturday with field events at noon.

Michigan's obvious depth loomed as a chief factor in premeet selection of the favorite.

The Wolverines have at least two men listed among the top performers in 12 of the individual events, and in eight events they have three of the top times or marks in the loop this season.

Heading the Michigan cast are McLeod, who has run the quarter mile in :48.5; defending champion Dave Williams in the 800, and sprinter Hennigar in the 60 and 300.

Hennigar and Wisconsin's Tarig Mughal are tied with 8.1 for the best league time in the 60 this season. Hennigar's :30.6 is the best in the 300.

Illinois' Charles Ehlizulen, who has been plagued by a back injury this season, carries much of the Illinois hopes.

Last year Ehlizulen was a double winner, capturing first in both the triple jump and long jump. Illinois points are also expected from Craig Virgin in the two-mile and mile.

Virgin was timed last week at 8:32.4 for the two mile, fastest ever by a Big Ten undergrad.

Michigan State will be pointing for a double victory from distance running star Herb Lindsay. The cross country runner is defending champion in the two-mile and also will compete in the three-mile and mile.

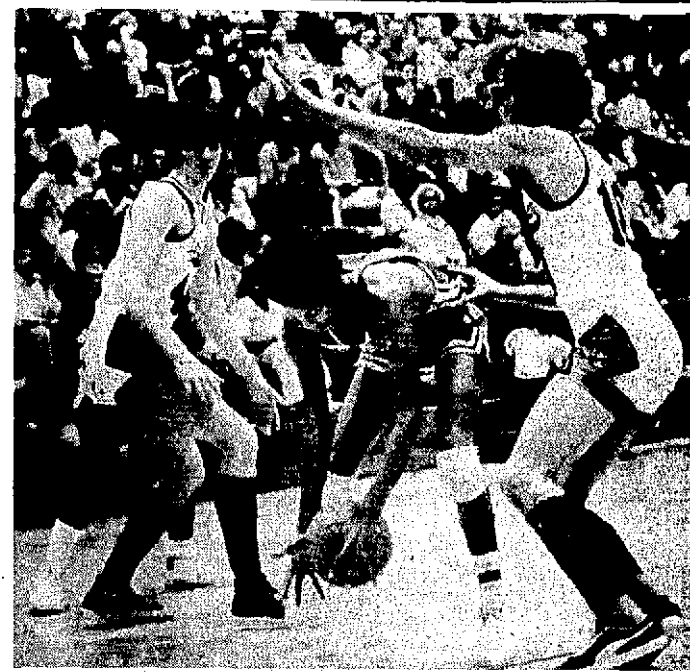

Lindsay has the best time ever, 13:21.4, by a Big Ten undergraduate in the three mile.

Ohio State's Tom Byers, the 1,000-yard king the past two seasons, will be shooting for a third in a row. His chief competitor could be Michigan's Andy Johnson, who has the season's best time of 2:08.5.

Wisconsin appears to be the team to beat in the field events, where Kim Scott owns the season's top pole vault effort with 16-7 1/2.

Badger freshman Jeff Braun has impressed in the shotput with a 56-0, considerably short of the league's best, 61-1 1/2 by Minnesota's Colin Andersson in 1972.

Iowa's Bill Knoedel brings the best high jump mark of the season into the meet, a 7-3 1/2 effort. That matched the mark set by Wisconsin's Pat Matzdorf in 1971 and is still the league's best.

Heinsohn Ejected, Hawks Clip Celts

From Associated Press

The news was good and bad for Boston Coach Tom Heinsohn Thursday night.

The bad news was that his second technical foul of the game enabled the Atlanta Hawks to snap a tie with 59 seconds remaining and they went on to defeat the Celtics 103-98.

The good news was that two technicals means expulsion in the National Basketball Association so Heinsohn didn't have to see the fatal ending.

In other action, the Milwaukee Bucks downed the Kansas City Kings 99-85, the Washington Bullets whipped the Houston Rockets 113-106 and the Golden State Warriors trounced the Chicago Bulls 124-110.

Atlanta blew a 16-point fourth-quarter lead against Boston but, with the score tied at 98-all, Heinsohn drew his second technical. Lou Hudson, who poured in 42 points, converted the free throw and there was no further scoring until Dwight Jones added two free throws with 12 seconds left. Hudson closed out the scoring five seconds later with a pair of foul shots.

The Celtics, trailing 80-44 at the start of the final period, rallied behind Charlie Scott and Dave Cowens and went ahead 94-93 on a pair of free throws by Cowens with 4:04 remaining. The lead then saw-sawed until Heinsohn's costly technical. John Drew added 20 points for Atlanta. Scott led Boston with 25.

"It's not the thing to do, but these things happen," said John Havlicek, who sat out the game with a sore knee and coached the final 59 seconds after Heinsohn's ejection without drawing any technicals. "He knew he made a mistake. He told us before he left it was a bad thing to let happen."

Bob Dandridge scored 20 of his 31 points in the second half, rallying Milwaukee from a 10-point deficit late in the third quarter. Brian Winters added 24, including a steal and driving lay-up with 50 seconds left for a 97-91 lead as the Bucks expanded their Midwest Division lead to 2 1/2 games over Detroit and 5 1/2 over Kansas City.

Phil Chenier's 30 points led streaking Washington in its fifth victory in a row and 11th in the last 13 for a two-game lead over idle Cleveland. Chenier had 16 points in the first half as the Bullets led by nine and Elvin Hayes got 10 of his 25 points in the third quarter as the Bullets built a 16-point lead. Mike Newlin led Houston with 24 points and Joe Meriweather had 20.

Jamaal Wilkes scored 20 points in the third quarter as Golden State came from far behind. Wilkes, who finished with 30 points, scored the basket that put the Warriors ahead for the first time 85-83 with 1:54 left in the third quarter. The Warriors outscored Chicago 215 over the next seven minutes to wrap it up.

The lead then see-sawed until Heinsohn's costly technical. John Drew added 29 points for Atlanta. Scott led Boston with 25.

"It's not the thing to do, but those things happen," said John Havlicek, who sat out the game with a sore knee and coached the final 59 seconds after Heinsohn's ejection without drawing any technicals. "He knew he made a mistake. He told us before he left it was a bad thing to let happen."

Bob Dandridge scored 20 of his 31 points in the second half, rallying Milwaukee from a 10-point deficit late in the third quarter. Brian Winters added 24, including a steal and driving lay-up with 50 seconds left for a 97-91 lead as the Bucks expanded their Midwest Division lead to 2 1/2 games over Detroit and 5 1/2 over Kansas City.

Phil Chenier's 30 points led Springfield to its fifth victory in a row and 11th in the last 13 for a two-game lead over idle Cleveland. Chenier had 16 points in the first half as the Bullets led by nine and Elvin Hayes got 10 of his 25 points in the third quarter as the Bullets built a 16-point lead. Mike Newlin led Houston with 24 points and Joe Meriweather had 20.

Jamaal Wilkes scored 20 points in the third quarter as Golden State came from far behind. Wilkes, who finished with 30 points, scored the basket that put the Warriors ahead for the first time 85-83 with 1:34 left in the third quarter. The Warriors outscored Chicago 215 over the next seven minutes to wrap it up.

in the trailer were Mrs. Stohrer's daughter Rebecca and her 83-year-old mother, Neva Versaw.

Roofs were reported torn off the home of Bill March, Johnson road, south of Stevensville, and from the home of Dan Lockwitz, on Jericho road, where he was injured.

Residents in the trailer park said the storm lasted only a short time and winds accompanying the storm sounded like a freight train.

McCall said preliminary estimates of damage were pegged "in excess" of $40,000, but that further investigation would be made in daylight to access a more accurate damage estimate.

There were reports of power lines down south of Stevensville and several trees were reported toppled. Some damage was reported at the Meadow Streams Estate Mobile Home park, 2101 River road, Sodus township, deputies indicated. Most of the damage consisted of trailer skirting being torn away in the wind.

In Van Buren county, the wind demolished the trailer home of Sherman Honea, 33, between Keeler and Hartford. Honea, who suffered bruises and minor cuts, had to be freed from the wreckage by Keeler township firemen.

In the Lawrence area, in addition to the damage to the new Skills Center, Maurice Buskirk reported a 100-year-old barn was blown down.

The Skills Center was not in use at the time the storm struck. Classes were reported in session this morning.

A scattering of broken tree limbs and other minor wind damage was also reported in the Paw Paw, Muttman and Gobles areas of Van Buren county.

Dan Lockwitz, 24, was hurt when a portion of the roof was ripped from his home at 6309 Jericho road, south of Stevensville.

Mrs. Donald Jones, of 6286 Stevensville-Baroda road, south of Stevensville, reported a two-foot thick oak tree was snapped off by the wind at 10:15 p.m. The tree broke through the roof on the back of the house. Mrs. Jones and her husband and their three sons were in the house, but none were injured. She added that the wind sucked insulation out of the attic after the falling tree opened the roof. Two other trees were uprooted on the Jones' yard.

Some minor wind damage was reported last night in the New Buffalo and Niles areas.

Several telephone poles were reported snapped off on US-31-43 south of Sealdale, in Royall township in the general line of the windstorm that hit the Lincolnwood park.

Niles Area Man Fined $5,000 In Tape Piracy

CHICAGO — A rural Niles, Mich., man has forfeited nearly $150,000 worth of stereo tapes and tape recording equipment, and has been fined $5,000, for his part in an alleged multi-state scheme to sell pirated musical recordings without paying royalty fees to the recording artists.

Andrew R. Moore, 34, 2323 US-12 East, in Cass county's Milton township just east of Niles, was also put on probation for three years, according to Theodore Scudder, the assistant U.S. attorney in Chicago.

Scudder said eight-track stereo tapes copied from commercially recorded music tapes were being illegally manufactured and distributed for sale in southwest Michigan, northern Indiana, Chicago, southern Illinois and Florida.

Moore was one of three men sentenced last Friday.

He had pleaded guilty to five of 32 counts charging criminal conspiracy and violations of federal copyright laws.

Sentenced after guilty pleas to similar charges were Lowell B. Greenwood, 42, Prospect, Ky., two years probation and a $2,500 fine, and Lynn Mitchell, 25, Gary, Ind., three years probation.

Scudder said Benjamin Neihart, 37, Del Ray Beach, Fla., is awaiting trial on the conspiracy and tape piracy charges.

The arrests were made after FBI agents raided a warehouse in Elk Grove village, Ill., and Moore's Milton township home.

Police said at Moore's home they confiscated 20,000 tapes — worth from $50,000 to $125,000 on the retail market — and a recording machine that could make 11 copies of a tape simultaneously.

Moore forfeited the tapes confiscated plus the reproduction machine, Scudder said.

At the Elk Grove warehouse, Scudder said, reproduction machinery and another 20,000 tapes were confiscated.

He said several warehouse workers were Polish immigrants in this country illegally and were later deported.

Chikaming Votes On Hall April 3

LAKEVIEW — The Chikaming township board last night agreed to have township residents at the April 3 annual meeting vote on a proposal to purchase the Chikaming Medical Center building on Red Arrow highway for use as a township hall.

According to Mrs. Lena Abrahamson, township clerk, the township and the building's owner, Dr. John A. Valantiejus, have agreed on a purchase price of $70,000 for the building and 2.2-acre lot.

Dr. Valantiejus said this morning that if the building was sold, he would move his practice to expanded facilities at his Wilson road home in New Buffalo township.

He said that if the proposal is rejected, he will continue to see patients at the medical center.

Mrs. Abrahamson said even if the township buys the building, the public services presently located at the center would remain. Those services include the township ambulance, the public health immunization clinic and the vocational rehabilitation office.

She said the increasing volume of township business is making it necessary for township officials to relocate offices in their homes to a central location. She said if the purchase is approved, no extra taxes would be levied.

The building has 3,000 square feet on the first floor, a full basement and a large parking lot, she said.

In other areas, the board agreed to pay preliminary engineering costs for a drain survey in the Indian Trail Estates subdivision. Mrs. Abrahamson said residents there want storm sewers because of frequent flooding problems.

She said the survey will include an estimate of the cost to install the sewers. If the residents accept the project, they will be assessed to pay for it.

The board voted to have township residents on May 18 in the presidential primary decide whether an additional 1.5 mills should be levied for the next three years to raise funds for fire equipment purchases.

Mrs. Abrahamson said that if approved, the levy would raise an estimated $52,000 annually. She said the township needs a new fire truck, new hoses, several new radins for firemen's homes and other items of equipment.

The board instructed Mrs. Abrahamson to investigate the possibility of the county or state undertaking a mosquito control program in the township this summer.

The board postponed action on a proposed new zoning ordinance for the township pending further study.

The board decided to hold its water board meetings on a separate night from the township meeting because of increased water board business. Starting in April, the water board will meet at 7 p.m. on the third Thursday of the month. The township meeting will continue to be held on the first Thursday.

Says Payments Too Slow

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — An Appellate legislator Thursday accused the Michigan Farm Bureau of dragging its feet in making settlement payments to farmers whose livestock was contaminated by the toxic fire retardant PBB. Rep. Quincy Hoffman, a Republican member of a special House committee investigating the 1973 contamination of Michigan cattle feed with polychlorinated biphenyls, said that although a settlement was announced last December "very few payments have been made."

Niles Area Man Fined $5,000 In Tape Piracy

CHICAGO — A rural Niles, Mich., man has forfeited nearly $150,000 worth of stereo tapes and tape recording equipment, and has been fined $5,000, for his part in an alleged multi-state scheme to sell pirated musical recordings without paying royalty fees to the recording artists.

Andrew R. Moore, 34, 2323 US-12 East, in Cass county's Milton township just east of Niles, was also put on probation for three years, according to Theodore Scudder, the assistant U.S. attorney in Chicago.

Scudder said eight-track stereo tapes copied from commercially recorded music tapes were being illegally manufactured and distributed for sale in southwest Michigan, northern Indiana, Chicago, southern Illinois and Florida.

Moore was one of three men sentenced last Friday.

He had pleaded guilty to five of 32 counts charging criminal conspiracy and violations of federal copyright laws.

Sentenced after guilty pleas to similar charges were Lowell B. Greenwood, 42, Prospect, Ky., two years probation and a $2,500 fine, and Lynn Mitchell, 25, Gary, Ind., three years probation.

Scudder said Benjamin Neihart, 37, Del Ray Beach, Fla., is awaiting trial on the conspiracy and tape piracy charges.

The arrests were made after FBI agents raided a warehouse in Elk Grove village, Ill., and Moore's Milton township home.

Police said at Moore's home they confiscated 20,000 tapes — worth from $80,000 to $125,000 on the retail market — and a recording machine that could make 11 copies of a tape simultaneously.

Moore forfeited the tapes confiscated plus the reproduction machine, Scudder said.

At the Elk Grove warehouse, Scudder said, reproduction machinery and another 20,000 tapes were confiscated.

He said several warehouse workers were Polish immigrants in this country illegally and were later deported.

Following his preliminary hearing in Berrien Fifth District court he was returned to the county jail under $50,000 bond.

Others bound over to Circuit court were:

It was incorrectly reported yesterday that Thomas W. Mashak, 20, of 512 Marsh street, St. Joseph, demanded examination in District court on a

Chikaming Votes On Hall April 3

LAKEVIEW — The Chikaming township board last night agreed to have township residents at the April 3 annual meeting vote on a proposal to purchase the Chikaming Medical Center building on Red Arrow highway for use as a township hall.

According to Mrs. Lena Abrahamsen, township clerk, the township and the building's owner, Dr. John A. Valantiejus, have agreed on a purchase price of $70,000 for the building and 2.2-acre lot.

Dr. Valantiejus said this morning that if the building was sold, he would move his practice to expanded facilities at his Wilson road home in New Buffalo township.

He said that if the proposal is rejected, he will continue to see patients at the medical center.

Mrs. Abrahamsen said even if the township buys the building, the public services presently located at the center would remain. Those services include the township ambulance, the public health immunization clinic and the vocational rehabilitation office.

She said the increasing volume of township business is making it necessary for township officials to relocate offices in their homes to a central location. She said if the purchase is approved, no extra taxes would be levied.

The building has 3,000 square feet on the first floor, a full basement and a large parking lot, she said.

In other areas, the board agreed to pay preliminary engineering costs for a drain survey in the Indian Trail Estates subdivision. Mrs. Abrahamsen said residents there want storm sewers because of frequent flooding problems.

She said the survey will include an estimate of the cost to install the sewers. If the residents accept the project, they will be assessed to pay for it.

The board voted to have township residents on May 18 in the presidential primary decide whether an additional 1.5 mills should be levied for the next three years to raise funds for fire equipment purchases. Mrs. Abrahamsen said that if approved, the levy would raise an estimated $52,000 annually. She said the township needs a new fire truck, new hoses, several new radios for firemen's homes and other items of equipment.

The board instructed Mrs. Abrahamsen to investigate the possibility of the county or state undertaking a mosquito control program in the township this summer.

The board postponed action on a proposed new zoning ordinance for the township pending further study.

The board decided to hold its water board meetings on a separate night from the township meeting because of increased water board business. Starting in April, the water board will meet at 7 p.m. on the third Thursday of the month. The township meeting will continue to be held on the first Thursday.

Says Payments Too Slow

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — An Appellate legislator Thursday accused the Michigan Farm Bureau of dragging its feet in making settlement payments to farmers whose livestock was contaminated by the toxic fire retardant PBB. Rep. Quincy Hoffman, a Republican member of a special House committee investigating the 1973 contamination of Michigan cattle feed with polybrominated biphenyls, said that although a settlement was announced last December "very few payments have been made."

Senate's Top Leaders To Retire

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the first time in more than a decade, the Senate is facing wholesale leadership changes brought on by the forthcoming retirements of Democrat Mike Mansfield and Republican Hugh Scott. Mansfield announced Thursday that he had decided that 34 years in Congress "is time enough." Scott earlier had announced his plans to retire. Mansfield became majority leader in 1961 and held the job longer than anyone in history. Both men say they will leave when their terms expire in January. Neither Sens. Robert C. Byrd, D-W. Va., nor Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., the whips or No. 2 men in their parties' leadership, are assured of easy succession to the top jobs.

Workers Ratify I&M Pact

Remaining members of a strike against the Indiana & Michigan Electric Co. returned to work today after voting last night to accept a contract offer by I&M, according to Chester Herriman, business manager for the bargaining unit.

Herriman said striking members of the Benton Harbor-South Bend unit of Local 1392 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers voted 117 to 80 last night to accept I&M's offer and return to work.

The Benton Harbor-South Bend unit workers were the last remaining members of the four-week-old strike. Approximately 800 workers were originally involved in the company-wide strike which began Feb. 6. Two Fort Wayne units of Local 1392 voted to accept the contract Wednesday and the Marion-Muncie group voted Monday to end the strike.

All units accepted a contract unchanged from the proposal the utility company set down on the bargaining table Feb. 6. The offer includes a 5.56 per cent wage increase plus fringe benefits in a three-year contract. The contract also has an annual wage reopener clause, Herriman said.

Pound Dips Below $2 Mark

LONDON (AP) — The pound dropped below the $2 mark for the first time ever on foreign exchanges today.

In nervous dealings, the pound dropped to $1.9900 early in the afternoon to hit its lowest point ever.

Its previous lowest was $2.0135 last Nov. 28.

At midmorning the pound had been quoted at around $2.0073, down from $2.0144 late Thursday.

One dealer said trading was fairly active. He gave no reason for the decline of the pound.

Save on Taxes — Income Averaging
If your income jumps sharply in 1975 — because of a big commission, bonus, windfall of any kind, etc. — be sure to check your income tax returns of 1971-72-73-74 to see if you can take advantage of the tax savings advantage of income averaging.

If your 1975 taxable income is more than $30 per cent above your average taxable income on your returns for the four years, 1971-74 is at least $3,000 more than the average, you may be able to cut your 1975 tax bill by using the income averaging method of figuring your tax on separate schedule G.

Certainly, many more of you will be helped by income averaging on your 1975 returns than in previous years. This may include you and it would be folly to overlook the break.

For instance, consider the case of Mr. Jones, a married man filing a joint return whose taxable income during the years 1971-74 averaged $14,000. In 1975, his taxable income soared to $23,000 because of a series of lucky transactions and fat fees. Jones qualifies for income averaging. And as the chart below indicated, he can save more than $100 by using this technique and complete schedule G.

The following guide is for a married person filing a joint income tax return.

(A) Base period income. (B) You save minimum of $100 in taxes:	(A)	(B)
	6,000	11,333
	8,000	15,333
	10,000	15,333
	12,000	19,333
	14,000	22,500
	16,000	22,500
	18,000	26,500
	20,000	31,333
	25,000	35,333
	30,000	40,000
	35,000	46,000
	40,000	56,333
	50,000	68,000
	60,000	78,333
	80,000	125,000
	100,000	145,000
	200,000	no saving possible

Income averaging can save you tax money, but it does involve some fairly complicated computations.
So, if from your quick checks you find you are eligible, you would be wise to consult a professional advisor and turn over the calculation to him.

Business Is Built On Paranoia

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Dan Patrick says he's riding a national wave of post-Watergate paranoia.

Business is booming at Counter Measure Security Systems, a company Patrick formed a year ago to help people eliminate electronic eavesdropping devices from their homes, offices and autos.

Although government bugging is being curtailed, Patrick, 28, says illegal private eavesdropping is on the increase. In Westchester, Ill., he says an associate of his recently found a police station wired up solid.

"It's been quite a joke inside the intelligence industry ever since," he said in an interview.

Clients of the debugging firm include corporate behemoths, politicians, labor unions, lawyers, psychiatrists and many others, Patrick said.

"Let's face it," he added, "I'm not going to be naive enough to say criminals do not use our services." But he added:

"We have to draw the line somewhere, and if we become aware either through visually witnessing or through them verbally mentioning to us that there is criminal activity going on, we can't work for them."

Patrick said his firm has made about 150 sweeps for bugs in the past year and turned some up in about 10 per cent of the cases. Most often, Counter Measure just spends a day or two tearing a place apart, yielding nothing except relief for the customer.

Either way, the experience can be expensive.

Recently, Counter Measure spent four days unearthing an ultrasophisticated device in the phone system of a major international trader. The fee: $3,000, including $1,200 for expenses.

"We have some very incredibly large clients. We work for some government people, congressmen, senators, large corporations and what not, but I won't name any clients because their discretion is my business," Patrick said.

Most of the firm's work involves scanning for electronic devices with some expensive devices: a black box, which costs $350, and a spectrum analyzer, which retails for $15,000.

"I think that the offensive (bugging) equipment is an obvious threat to the American way of life, and I feel that I am merely trying to restore what is being taken away from us," Patrick said.

Berrien's Consumer Unit Now Disbanded

BY SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

The Berrien County Consumer Protection Unit (CPU) is "out of business" effective this afternoon, the Berrien prosecutor's office announced yesterday.

Chief Assistant Prosecutor Robert U. McDowell said the CPU "died because of lack of funding," and urged citizens with consumer-related complaints to now direct their inquiries to the state attorney general's office in Lansing.

"The prosecutor's office regrets the closing of the Consumer Protection Unit," McDowell said, "but a lack of funding makes it impossible to continue what we feel was a valuable and needed service."

The CPU in 1974 and 75 was jointly funded by federal, state, and county government, but in 1976 would have been entirely funded by the county. The county board of commissioners voted not to fund the unit.

McDowell noted an unsuccessful effort was made by the prosecutor's office to obtain private funding for continuation of the CPU. "We hope the county will reconsider its position and provide funding to re-establish the CPU," McDowell stated.

Prosecutor John A. Smietanka previously said: "While I fully understand and appreciate the budgetary problems facing the board of commissioners, loss of this unit will cripple our growing ability to provide an independent, impartial force for the protection both of the consumer and the legitimate businessman."

McDowell noted no new investigations have been initiated in the last six weeks, and the CPU has been closing the present complaints. He also said the CPU staff has been transferred to other areas, with special investigator Randy Arnt temporarily assigned to the prosecutor's welfare fraud unit and a secretary to another branch of the prosecutor's office.

The prosecutor's annual report says the CPU in 1975 obtained 28 warrants, made 23 arrests, obtained 12 convictions, and seven other cases are awaiting trial. It also noted 1,963 consumer complaint forms were sent to people who voiced a complaint in 1975. 785 were returned to the CPU seeking investigation, and 868 complaints were closed. The report said the CPU recovered $100,251 in cash and merchandise for consumers, representing a 120 per cent increase over 1974.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

A Savings Account Should Come First

Q. I know nothing of finance. I do not understand stocks, bonds or anything more than that bank books provide interest four times a year and that the interest is subject — in my case — to a big income tax bite. Is there something I can invest in which would not risk losing my money? Would a foreign bank be an idea?

A. It is in sh to be financially "un-savvy." But if you are, and are talking about a few hundred or a few thousand dollars, — and if you have to ask — forget foreign banks. That's for uppers.

You give me very little to go on except that you are afraid of losing your money. And that's a reasonable enough fear. Nor does adding that you are a working woman give me much more to go on. What are your income, total resources, pension programs, responsibilities, financial prospects, goals?

A working woman who manages to save a few thousand dollars after meeting all current expenses should by all means consider a savings account as her main investment.

But if she has already accumulated, say, $10,000 or $15,000, then a stock buying program would make sense. What stocks? That would depend upon whether she has the time for long term growth or will soon have to turn to this money for retirement income.

There are scores of sound, conservative books in the library on investing. Look through some and see whether you can't spot an investment problem similar to your own. From the scant data in your letter, no one could prescribe any program.

SHULSKY welcomes written questions, but he will be able to provide answers only through the column.

For information on retirement, and pre-retirement planning, please include a self-addressed, stamped envelope. Address your requests to Sam Shulsky, care of this newspaper.

Workers Ratify I&M Pact

Remaining members of a strike against the Indiana & Michigan Electric Co. returned to work today after voting last night to accept a contract offer by I&M, according to Chester Herriman, business manager for the bargaining unit.

Herriman said striking members of the Benton Harbor-South Bend unit of Local 1392 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers voted 117 to 60 last night to accept I&M's offer and return to work.

The Benton Harbor-South Bend unit workers were the last remaining members of the four-week-old strike. Approximately 800 workers were originally involved in the company-wide strike which began Feb. 6. Two Fort Wayne units of Local 1392 voted to accept the contract Wednesday and the Marion-Muncie group voted Monday to end the strike.

All units accepted a contract unchanged from the proposal the utility company set down on the bargaining table Feb. 6. The offer includes a 5.56 per cent wage increase plus fringe benefits in a three-year contract. The contract also has an annual wage reopener clause, Herriman said.

And as the chart below indicated, he can save more than $100 by using this technique and complete schedule G.

The following guide is for a married person filing a joint income tax return.

First — Find the figure that is nearest to the average base income, shown with it is the 1975 income level in which you save at least $100 in taxes by income averaging.

(A) Base period income. (B) You save minimum of $100 in taxes:

(A)	(B)
$4,000	$11,333
6,000	11,333
8,000	15,333
10,000	19,333
12,000	19,333
14,000	22,500
16,000	22,500
18,000	26,500
20,000	31,333
25,000	35,333
30,000	43,333
36,000	49,000
40,000	55,333
50,000	69,000
60,000	79,333
90,000	125,000
100,000	145,000
200,000	no saving possible

Income averaging can save you tax money, but it does involve some fairly complicated computations.

So, if from your quick checks you find you are eligible, you would be wise to consult a professional advisor and turn over the calculation to him.

SPECIAL TAX TIPS — 1975
By The Research Institute of America... if you are among the hundreds of thousands of shareholders of American Electric Power, here is vital news about the dividend amount you reported on the 1974 return — a full year ago.

IRS has just decided that 74.04 per cent of your 1974 dividends from American Electric Power for a tax free return of capital, only $25.96 per cent of 1974 dividend constituted taxable dividends. If you reported too much, you can file for a return at once.

To check if you over reported your taxable American Electric Power dividends for 1971-73, here is the percentage of years dividends that was tax free and you should not have included as taxable income dividends.

1971 — dividends were $83.04 per cent tax free.
1972 — dividends were $83.73 per cent tax free.
1973 — dividends were $89.08 per cent tax free.

Clearly, the IRS decision on what proportion of the 1974 dividends is tax free is a significant tax factor to share holders, particularly to large stock holders of American Electric Power scattered throughout the U.S.

Business Is Built On Paranoia

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Dan Patrick says he's riding a national wave of post-Watergate paranoia.

Business is booming at Counter Measure Security Systems, a company Patrick formed a year ago to help people eliminate electronic eavesdropping devices from their homes, offices and autos.

Although government bugging is being curtailed, Patrick, 28, says illegal private eavesdropping is on the increase. In Westchester, Ill., he says an associate of his recently found a police station wired up solid.

"It's been quite a joke inside the intelligence industry ever since," he said in an interview.

Clients of the debugging firm have include corporate behemoths, politicians, labor unions, lawyers, psychiatrists and many others, Patrick said. "Let's face it," he added, "I'm not going to be naive enough to say criminals do not use our services." But he added:

"We have to draw the line somewhere, and if we become aware either through visually witnessing or through them verbally mentioning to us that there is criminal activity going on, we can't work for them."

Patrick said his firm has made about 150 sweeps for bugs in the past year and turned some up in about 10 per cent of the cases. Most often, Counter Measure just spends a day or two tearing a place apart, yielding nothing except relief for the customer.

Either way, the experience can be expensive.

Recently, Counter Measure spent four days unearthing an ultrasophisticated device in the phone system of a major international trader. The fee: $3,500, including $1,200 for expenses.

"We have some very incredibly large clients. We work for some government people, congressmen, senators, large corporations and what not, but I won't name any clients because their discretion is my business," Patrick said.

Most of the firm's work involves scanning for electronic devices with some expensive devices: a black box, which costs $350, and a spectrum analyzer, which retails for $15,000.

"I think that the offensive (bugging) equipment is an obvious threat to the American way of life, and I feel that I am merely trying to restore what is being taken away from us," Patrick said.

Berrien's Consumer Unit Now Disbanded

BY SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

The Berrien county Consumer Protection Unit (CPU) is "out of business" effective this afternoon, the Berrien prosecutor's office announced yesterday.

Chief Assistant Prosecutor Robert U. McDowell said the CPU "died because of lack of funding," and urged citizens with consumer-related complaints to now direct their inquiries to the state attorney general's office in Lansing.

"The prosecutor's office regrets the closing of the Consumer Protection Unit," McDowell said, "but a lack of funding makes it impossible to continue what we feel was a valuable and needed service."

The CPU in 1974 and 75 was jointly funded by federal, state, and county government, but in 1976 would have been entirely funded by the county. The county board of commissioners voted not to fund the unit.

McDowell noted an unsuccessful effort was made by the prosecutor's office to obtain private funding for continuation of the CPU. "We hope the county will reconsider its position and provide funding to re-establish the CPU," McDowell stated.

Prosecutor John A. Smietanka previously said: "While I fully understand and appreciate the budgetary problems facing the board of commissioners, loss of this unit will cripple our growing ability to provide an independent, impartial force for the protection both of the consumer and the legitimate businessman."

McDowell noted no new investigations have been initiated in the last six weeks, and the CPU has been closing the present complaints. He also said the CPU staff has been transferred to other areas, with special investigator Randy Arnt temporarily assigned to the prosecutor's welfare fraud unit and a secretary to another branch of the prosecutor's office.

The prosecutor's annual report says the CPU in 1975 obtained 29 warrants, made 23 arrests, obtained 12 convictions, and seven other cases are awaiting trial. It also noted 1,663 consumer complaint forms were sent to people who voiced a complaint in 1975. 795 were returned to the CPU seeking investigation, and 869 complaints were closed. The report said the CPU recovered $108,251 in cash and merchandise for consumers, representing a 120 per cent increase over 1974.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

A Savings Account Should Come First

Q. I know nothing of finance. I do not understand stocks, bonds or anything more than that bank books provide interest four times a year and that the interest is subject — in my case — to a big income tax bite. Is there something I can invest in which would not risk losing my money? Would a foreign bank be an idea?

A. It is no sin to be financially "un-savvy." But if you are, and are talking about a few hundred or a few thousand dollars, — and if you have to ask — forget foreign banks. That's for openers.

You give me very little to go on except that you are afraid of losing your money. And that's a reasonable enough fear. Nor does adding that you are a working woman give me much more to go on. What are your income, total resources, pension programs, responsibilities, financial prospects, goals?

A working woman who manages to save a few thousand dollars after meeting all current expenses should by all means consider a savings account as her main investment.

But if she has already accumulated, say, $10,000 or $15,000, then a stock buying program would make sense. What stocks? That would depend upon whether she has the time for long term growth or will soon have to turn to this money for retirement income.

There are scores of sound, conservative books in the library on investing. Look through some and see whether you can't spot an investment problem similar to your own. From the scant data in your letter, no one could prescribe any program.

SHULSKY welcomes written questions, but he will be able to provide answers only through the column.

For information on retirement, and pre-retirement planning, please include a self-addressed, stamped envelope. Address your requests to Sam Shulsky, care of this newspaper.

TELL 'BIG DADDY' WHAT YOU WANT

Editor,
Did the readers of The Herald-Palladium notice the headlines dated Feb. 25, 1976, page 2B? "Area Planners Oppose State Migrant Legal Aid Unit" because it is a needless waste of taxpayers money.

Agreed. But the Southwestern Michigan Regional Planning Commission authorized a study of public transportation in Van Buren, Berrien and Cass counties by the Dept. of Highways and Transportation; what is this cost? (Keep in mind the name "Regional", underlined. You are going to hear more about this.) A private consultant, an advisory council completely funded by the State Highway Dept. (Your tax dollar for highways?)

There was a meeting set up at Notre Dame in Dec. of '75 to discuss regional transportation in a region of seven counties of Southwestern Michigan and 11 counties in Northwest Indiana. Region V, consisting of Mich., Wis., Ill., Ind., Ohio and Mich., with headquarters in Chicago, was to furnish money to implement this. It backfired, because there was a crossing of a state line involved; so part of the money would be released.

If a separate study would be made; is this the study? The Office of Management and Budget Regional Clearing House in Chicago (Region V) set this up. Why do they want this?

Also, $50,000 planning grant for planning staff operation before any money is released for a project. Remember this: The Supreme Court handed down a decision that, "The government can regulate any subject it subsidizes." And this includes grants, gifts or loans. Now regional government will consist of the United States separated into 10 regions of which we are in number V. These were brought into existence by our wonderful President Nixon, who was pardoned so he couldn't be prosecuted. According to the news, he is now in China, and I assume sleeping with the communists.

I have a letter dated Jan. 9, 1976, requesting from Mr. Hutchinson our Rep. to Congress, the new Constitution for regional gov., he states he found the title is: Tugwell Charter - new constitution for Regional Government. But so far has not been able to locate a copy. I wonder why?

I received a letter dated Jan. 23, 1976 from Mr. Hutchinson and a booklet from the Library of Congress entitled, "Introduction to a Constitution for a United Republics of America" as suggested and discussed at the center for the study of Democratic institutions. This was written by Rostford G. Tugwell, dated Sept. 21, 1970. This could be one of the same, only the title changed.

Have you heard of this? Not many people have. Why? Is this so dangerous they don't want people to know of the possible consequences before it is put in force?

Don't take my word, read it. You won't believe your government can do this to you. Things in government don't happen, they are planned, and part of this plan is already in force. It is being introduced a little at a time so you don't notice it.

Get some of the past "Michigan Municipal Review", a magazine received by your city, town or village council or commission. You will find Region V mentioned. Many of your representatives don't know what is going on or don't care or don't want to know.

It is the one's that do know and are pushing this that should be removed from office and held accountable for their actions. Vote them out of office, because you will not have any city, county, township or state representatives elected by the people; they will all be appointed by the president and his appointees.

Do you know, this year, a county of each state will be used, for an experiment by the Federal government, to see what kind of food it is adapted for. Next year, many counties, no figure has been given, will be used. We are going to be forced to raise the crops the federal government demands because we are going to feed as much of the world as possible. This is done in Russia and China.

For your sake and your children's sake, investigate read and listen to the people who are trying to tell you what is happening, such as: The Marion Farm, South Bend; the Dan Bell reports, Palm Beach, Fla.; the John Birch Society, Belmont, Mass., and Sam Marino, Calif. The American Communications Network, the Brian Bay Report, Knightstown, Ind., The National Educator, Fullerton, Calif., and many more.

Your government today is controlling your schools, the education of your children, your police, your place of employment, your business, your farms, your transportation, your money, etc.

For God's sake, you're paying the bill, tell Big Daddy what you want, don't let him tell you what he wants, because you won't have anything left when he gets through.

SAYS MIDDLE CLASS MUST PARTICIPATE

Editor,
How do we go about waking up the people, to the impending danger in these United States of America? I love America with a passion. It is the greatest country on earth. If you don't think so, then go somewhere else.

Statistics show that less than two of each three people of voting age, are registered to vote and one of each three actually goes to the polls and votes. In America, there are three classes of people: the poor, the middle class and the very wealthy.

In order for you to participate in electing a president, you have to spend five dollars of your money. To join the party of your choice. After you have done this, then you have as much say in electing a president, as Nelson Rockefeller, or any other millionaires.

The painful truth is, that only a few of the very poor, and all of the very rich, are the principal card-carrying members of their party. This country is made up of an overwhelming majority of middle class Americans. The majority of the unregistered, the nonvoter and the ones that will not participate in party activity, come from these middle class Americans.

What do I have to say, to get you to get up off your posterior and do your duty as an American?

Let me ask you, if General George Washington had depended on you, or people like you, do you think he would have won the Revolutionary War?

If things don't change, and that very soon, I see only one chance for us, and that is to follow the example of that little island, over there, that once belonged to Britain, and ask Britain to take us back. Yours, for a little more participation, please.

Lawton and Son at Three Oaks, there are many opportunities open to individual girls: council trips, national and international events. The girls may receive assistance from the council for all of these.

This Bicentennial year we are sending two patrols to a Valley Forge encampment. These girls will share their experience with troops when they return.

On May 22 our council is celebrating with a Girl Scout Fair at the Youth Fair Grounds at Berrien Springs. Troops will demonstrate their activities.

Profits from the annual Product Sale help troops plan trips and campouts of their own. We thank all of you good customers!

Every troop has service projects: helping their sponsors in some way, adopting grandparents in nursing homes, tray favors for hospitals, caroling, making toys, conservation.

Thank you! With your help, we will continue to develop happy, resourceful citizens!

TELL 'BIG DADDY' WHAT YOU WANT

Editor,
Did the readers of The Herald-Palladium notice the headlines dated Feb. 25, 1976, page 25? "Area Planners Oppose State Migrant Legal Aid Unit" because it is a needless waste of taxpayers money. Agreed. But the Southwestern Michigan Regional Planning Commission authorized a study of public transportation in Van Buren, Berrien and Cass counties by the Dept. of Highways and Transportation; what is this cost? (Keep in mind the name "Regional", underlined. You are going to hear more about this.) A private consultant, an advisory council completely funded by the State Highway Dept. (Your tax dollar for highways?)

There was a meeting set up at Notre Dame in Dec. of '75 to discuss regional transportation in a region of seven counties of Southwestern Michigan and 11 counties in Northwest Indiana. Region V, consisting of Minn., Wis., Ill., Ind., Ohio and Mich., with headquarters in Chicago, was to furnish money to implement this. It backfired, because there was a crossing of a state line involved; so part of the money would be released.

If a separate study would be made: is this the study? The Office of Management and Budget Regional Clearing House in Chicago (Region V) set this up. Why do they want this?

Also, $50,000 planning grant for planning staff operation before any money is released for a project. Remember this: The Supreme Court handed down a decision that, "The government can regulate any subject it subsidizes." And this includes grants, gifts or loans. Now regional government will consist of the United States separated into 10 regions of which we are in number V. These were brought into existence by our wonderful President Nixon, who was pardoned so he couldn't be prosecuted. According to the news, he is now in China, and I assume sleeping with the communists.

I have a letter dated Jan. 9, 1976, requesting from Mr. Hutchinson our Rep. to Congress, the new Constitution for regional gov., he states he found the title is: Tugwell Charter — new constitution for Regional Government. But so far has not been able to locate a copy. I wonder why?

I received a letter dated Jan. 23, 1976 from Mr. Hutchinson and a booklet from the Library of Congress entitled, "Introduction to a Constitution for a United Republics of America"

as suggested and discussed at the center for the study of Democratic institutions. This was written by Rexford G. Tugwell, dated Sept. 21, 1970. This could be one of the same, only the title changed.

Have you heard of this? Not many people have. Why? Is this so dangerous they don't want people to know of the possible consequences before it is put in force?

Don't take my word, read it. You won't believe your government can do this to you. Things in government don't happen, they are planned, and part of this plan is already in force. It is being introduced a little at a time so you don't notice it.

Get some of the past "Michigan Municipal Review", a magazine received by your city, town or village council or commission. You will find Region V mentioned. Many of your representatives don't know what is going on or don't care or don't want to know.

It is the one's that do know and are pushing this that should be removed from office and held accountable for their actions. Vote them out of office, because you will not have any city, county, township or state representatives elected by the people; they will be appointed by the president and his appointees.

Do you know, this year, a county of each state will be used, for an experiment by the Federal government, to see what kind of food it is adapted for. Next year, many counties, no figure has been given, will be used. We are going to be forced to raise the crops the federal government demands because we are going to feed as much of the world as possible. This is done in Russia and China.

For your sake and your children's sake, investigate read and listen to the people who are trying to tell you what is happening, such as: The Marion Forum, South Bend; the Don Bell reports, Palm Beach, Fla.; the John Birch Society Belmont, Mass. and San Marino, Calif. The American Communications Network, the Brian Bay Report, Knightstown, Ind., The National Educator, Fullerton, Calif., and many more.

Your government today is controlling your schools, the education of your children, your police, your place of employment, your business, your farms, your transportation, your money, etc.

For God's sake, you're paying the bill, tell Big Daddy what you want, don't let him tell you what he wants, because you won't have anything left when he gets through.

SAYS MIDDLE CLASS MUST PARTICIPATE

Editor,
How do we go about waking up the people, to the impending danger to these United States of America? I love America with a passion. It is the greatest country on earth. If you don't think so, then go somewhere else.

Statistics show that less than two of each three people of voting age, are registered to vote and one of each three actually goes to the polls and votes. In America, there are three classes of people: the poor, the middle class and the very wealthy.

In order for you to participate in electing a president, you have to spend five dollars of your money, to join the party of your choice. After you have done this, then you have as much say in electing a president, as Nelson Rockefeller, or any other millionaire.

The pitiful truth is, that only a few of the very poor, and all of the very rich, are the principal card-carrying members of their party. This country is made up of an overwhelming majority of middle class Americans. The majority of the unregistered, the nonvoter and the ones that will not participate in party activity, come from these middle class Americans.

What do I have to say, to get you to get up off your posterior and do your duty as an American?

Let me ask you, if General George Washington had depended on you, or people like you, do you think he would have won the Revolutionary War?

If things don't change, and that very soon, I see only one chance for us, and that is to follow the example of that little island, over there, that once belonged to Britain, and ask Britain to take us back. Yours, for a little more participation, please.

Researchers Support Tokyo Rose Story

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — There was little support for Iva Toguri D'Aquino when the slender Japanese-American woman was convicted of treason as the infamous Tokyo Rose almost a generation ago.

Mrs. D'Aquino, a target of public vituperation after World War II, contended throughout her trial that she had not turned on her native land. Government documents available then tend to bear that out, according to research by the San Francisco Chronicle.

A number of experts say they agree with her volunteer attorneys who call her trial "one of the grossest and most disgraceful miscarriages of justice in the history of the federal courts."

It has since become known that more than a dozen women used the name "Tokyo Rose" in Japanese broadcasts during the war, and some feel that Mrs. D'Aquino's broadcasts may have actually worked against the Japanese propaganda effort.

The foreman of her jury, John Mann, says he "should have had a little bit more guts" and stuck to his original acquittal vote. Now 75, Mann told the Chronicle that the jury was pressured into a guilty verdict by U.S. District Judge Michael J. Roche, who has since died.

Mann recalled Roche saying that the jurors had to bring in a guilty verdict or — as best he could remember the judge's words — "we'll have to have this trial all over again."

The bitterly-divided jury did convict her after four days of stormy deliberation in 1942 and she was sentenced to 10 years in prison, fined $10,000 and stripped of her citizenship. Mrs. D'Aquino served 3½ years of the sentence and paid the last of her fine in 1971.

Now, a generation later, the 30,000-member Japanese-American Citizens League headquartered here has offered her a "belated apology" and is seeking her pardon and restoration of citizenship.

An attorney preparing the pardon petition says it will be turned over to officials in Washington later this year.

Those who have plowed through the 54-volume transcript of the trial say there is persuasive evidence that, far from being the worst turncoat since Benedict Arnold, Iva Toguri was in fact a heroine.

"She was a genuine patriot," says author Rex Gunn of Reno, Nev., who has studied the case for three decades.

Now 56 and living in Chicago, Iva Toguri was a pre-med student at the University of California at Los Angeles in 1941 when her father asked her to go to Japan to care for a sick aunt. Dutifully, she sailed for Japan on July 5, 1941, the day after her 25th birthday.

After a few months, alarmed by rumors of coming war, she asked to return home. Red tape delayed her departure, however, and then Pearl Harbor shattered her plans. Japanese authorities then pressured her to renounce American citizenship and swear allegiance to Japan.

"The police would come at 3 o'clock in the morning sometimes, call me downtown and make me stand in an unheated building in the winter," she was to say later. "I said they couldn't bring enough pressure on me."

Police visits forced her to move from her neighborhood. Once she wandered the streets for days after authorities refused her a food ration card.

She worked for a time at Dorei, the Japanese news agency, where she met Felipe D'Aquino, a Portuguese who so impressed her with his "anti-imperialistic" attitude that later, in 1945, she married him.

In August 1945 she went to work as a typist for Radio Tokyo, where 25 captured soldiers had been brought because of their broadcasting experience.

Two who were later to work with her on the "Zero Hour" broadcasts became Major Charles Cousens, 40, a Sandhurst-trained Australian, and U.S.

Army Major Wallace Ince, 31. Records show they contended later that they conspired to use air time for what Cousens called an effort to "burelesque the Japanese character and to sabotage the propaganda aims of the Japanese Imperial Army." Iva was recruited for her voice, Cousens said.

"It was a censored voice without any feminine qualities," he said.

The government charged Cousens worked for the Japanese, hoping for "a benevolent Japanese rule over the Pacific; Ince for better food and treatment, and Iva for money — she earned $6.00 a month — and fame. Cousens and Ince were never charged and both were later promoted.

Recordings of six programs with Iva's voice survived the war. They show the program as a combination of corny humor and recorded music. The worst thing the prosecution found to play in evidence against her was the sentence: "Now you boys have really lost all of your ships. You really are orphans now. How do you think you will get home?"

Mrs. D'Aquino told one newsman after the war that "there were times when I felt I was doing wrong. But I felt at the same time I was providing as much fun as propaganda."

A Japanese newsman hired to help in the hunt for Tokyo Rose was later to say that "Nobody used that name. They used some girls but nobody named Tokyo Rose." After the war it would be revealed that at least 13 and possibly as many as two dozen women took part in the broadcasts blamed on Iva Toguri — the infamous Tokyo Rose.

Iva's conviction meant an enforced separation from her husband, Felipe D'Aquino was not allowed to enter the United States and the pair, although never divorced, have not seen each other for 26 years.

Iva has outlived almost all of the principals in her trial. The judge, the chief prosecutor, nearly the entire jury and most of the newsmen have died, and she still waits for a presidential pardon.

"She was pre-tried by the press and convicted before the trial," says Masayo Duns, 37, who has been researching the case for a book for more than three years. "The judge sentenced the legend of Tokyo Rose."

Going Back Today In History

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Friday, March 5, the 85th day of 1976. There are 301 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1770, British troops and a Boston crowd clashed. The incident became known as the Boston Massacre and hastened the American Revolution.

On this date: In 1766, the Spanish took possession of New Orleans from the French.

In 1789, French forces occupied Bern, Switzerland.

In 1849, Zachary Taylor was inaugurated as the 12th American president.

In 1868, the U.S. Senate was organized into a court of impeachment to decide on charges against President Andrew Johnson.

In 1877, the 19th U.S. president, Rutherford Hayes,

In 1953, Soviet Premier Josef Stalin died in Moscow after 29 years of power.

Ten years ago: A British jetliner hit Japan's Mount Fuji, killing all 124 persons aboard, including 84 Americans.

Five years ago: In Turkey, there were clashes between students and troops, searching for four American airmen who had been kidnapped.

One year ago: Arab commandoes landed on a beach at Tel Aviv in Israel, shot their way into a hotel and held some 40 guests and employees as hostages.

Today's birthdays: Actor Rex Harrison is 68. Conductor and violinist Larin Manzel is 46.

Thought for today: Words are, of course, the most powerful drug used by mankind — Rudyard Kipling, English writer, 1865-1936.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, the British besieged in Boston planned an assault on Americans who had just occupied strategic Dorchester heights, but heavy rains forestalled the attack.

Guilty Again

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Pushed into court in a wheelchair, ailing oilman Armand Hammer has pleaded guilty for the second time to three misdemeanor counts of making illegal campaign contributions to former President Richard M. Nixon in 1972. Hammer, the 77-year-old chairman of Occidental Petroleum Corp., faces a possible sentence of three years in prison and a $5,000 fine.

Police visits forced her to move from her neighborhood. Once she wandered the streets for days after authorities refused her a food ration card.

She worked for a time at Domei, the Japanese news agency, where she met Felipe D'Aquino, a Portuguese who so impressed her with his "anti-imperialistic" attitude that later, in 1945, she married him.

In August 1943 she went to work as a typist for Radio Tokyo, where 25 captured soldiers had been brought because of their broadcasting experience.

Two who were later to work with her on the "Zero Hour" broadcasts were Major Charles Cousens, 40, a Sandhurst-trained Australian, and U.S.

Army Major Wallace Ince, 31.

Records show they contended later that they conspired to use air time for what Cousens called an effort to "burlesque the Japanese character and to sabotage the propaganda aims of the Japanese Imperial Army." Iva was recruited for her voice, Cousens said.

"It was a comedy voice without any feminine qualities," he said.

The government charged Cousens worked for the Japanese hoping for a benevolent Japanese rule over the Pacific; Ince for better food and treatment, and Iva for money — she earned $6.60 a month — and fame. Cousens and Ince were never charged and both were later promoted.

Recordings of six programs with Iva's voice survived the war. They show the program as a combination of corny humor and recorded music. The worst thing the prosecution found to play in evidence against her was the sentence: "Now you boys have really lost all of your ships. You really are orphans now. How do you think you will get home?"

Mrs. D'Aquino told one newsman after the war that "there were times when I felt I was doing wrong. But I felt at the same time I was providing as much fun as propaganda."

A Japanese newsman hired to help in the hunt for Tokyo Rose was later to say that "Nobody used that name. They used some girls but nobody named Tokyo Rose." After the war it would be revealed that at least 13 and possibly as many as two dozen women took part in the broadcasts blamed on Iva Toguri — the infamous Tokyo Rose.

Iva's conviction meant an enforced separation from her husband, Felipe D'Aquino was not allowed to enter the United States and the pair, although never divorced, have not seen each other for 26 years.

Iva has outlived almost all of the principals in her trial. The judge, the chief prosecutor, nearly the entire jury and most of the newsmen have died, and she still waits for a presidential pardon.

"She was pre-tried by the press and convicted before the trial," says Masayo Duus, 37, who has been researching the case for a book for more than three years. "The judge sentenced the legend of Tokyo Rose."

PEACE PROBE

UNITED NATIONS, New York (AP) — U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim is sending an envoy to Moscow and Washington to look for ways to get Middle East peace negotiations going again, diplomatic sources say.

Going Back Today In History

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Friday, March 5, the 65th day of 1976. There are 301 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1770, British troops and a Boston crowd clashed. The incident became known as the Boston Massacre and hastened the American Revolution.

On this date: In 1766, the Spanish took possession of New Orleans from the French.

In 1798, French forces occupied Bern, Switzerland.

In 1849, Zachary Taylor was inaugurated as the 12th American president.

In 1868, the U.S. Senate was organized into a court of impeachment to decide on charges against President Andrew Johnson.

In 1877, the 19th U.S. president, Rutherford Hayes,

was inaugurated.

In 1953, Soviet Premier Josef Stalin died in Moscow after 29 years of power.

Ten years ago: A British jetliner hit Japan's Mount Fuji, killing all 124 persons aboard, including 84 Americans.

Five years ago: In Turkey, there were clashes between students and troops searching for four American airmen who had been kidnaped.

One year ago: Arab commandoes landed on a beach at Tel Aviv in Israel, shot their way into a hotel and held some 40 guests and employees as hostages.

Today's birthdays: Actor Rex Harrison is 68. Conductor and violinist Lorin Maazel is 46.

Thought for today: Words are, of course, the most powerful drug used by mankind — Rudyard Kipling, English writer, 1865-1936.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, the British besieged in Boston planned an assault on Americans who had just occupied strategic Dorchester heights, but heavy rains forestalled the attack.

Guilty Again

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Pushed into court in a wheelchair, ailing oilman Armand Hammer has pleaded guilty for the second time to three misdemeanor counts of making illegal campaign contributions to former President Richard M. Nixon in 1972. Hammer, the 77-year-old chairman of Occidental Petroleum Corp., faces a possible sentence of three years in prison and a $3,000 fine.
